IRISH PRESIDENT TALKS TO U. S. ON ST. PATRICK

Pleads Peace Cause Over Radio.

Irish Celebrate Here

Chicagoans of Irish descent made the radio broadcast of the address of President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State an occasion for a pre-St. Patrick's day celebration. Details on page 16.)

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 15.—President William T. Cosgrave of the Irish Free State addressed America this afternoon over the radio on St. Patrick, national apostle. The address created great interest in Dublin as it was the first occasion on which a broadcast from Ireland to America has been successfully undertaken. Great satisfaction was expressed when news came from America that reception was perfect.

Arrangements for the broadcast were made by the London correspondent of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, assisted by representatives of W-G-N, the Tribune's radio station.

The president spoke from his office in the executive building, where microphones had been rigged up by the Irish postoffice in cooperation with the British postal administration.

A Message of Good Will.

A small group was present, including Mrs. Cosgrave, Frederick A. Sterling, American minister to Dublin, who introduced President Cosgrave to the American people; James Orr Denby, secretary of the American legation; Col. Joseph O'Reilly, the president's aide, and the London correspondent of THE TRIBUNE.

The president expressed his gratification on the opportunity of addressing America on the eve of St. Patrick's day, and convey in his own voice a message 'of good will, not only to Americans, but to Irish in America.

"In this generation, as never before, it has been made possible for a human voice from Ireland to be heard speaking in every part of the habitable earth, and I who speak to you am privileged by virtue of the national responsibility imposed on me to send forth from Ireland a greeting to our kinsfolk and friends in other lands, and especially in the land where so many millions of the Irish race have found a home," Mr. Cosgrave said.

Hails Move for Peace.

"I ask you, who hear my words, to join in the prayer that Almighty God, who sent St. Patrick to be our national apostle, may bless and preserve the land and nation to which he was sent. I know well that your affection for the land of your ancestors does not weaken the strength and fidelity of your citizenship in the land of your adoption, and I know, too, that your American citizenship, linked with a natural pride in American history and American institutions, is not likely to diminish your devotion to this ancient motherland.

"No one doubts that every true Irish heart wishes well to the United States of America, and that we in Ireland rejoice especially to see your mighty nation standing forward in the cause of international peace and good will. That cause is ours.

"In common with other nations we have to contend with an economic depression, the result of the war, that has consumed the savings of the past and disengaged the industry of the present. We do not want any repetition of that catastrophe.

"We are glad to recognize that no nation can be more powerful in the cause of peace than the nation of your citizenship. The desire for international amity and good will permeates the public life and conscience of the United States. That has been evidenced in many directions.

Hail's Chicago's Exposition.

"The organizers of your Chicago World's Fair, for example, have given assistance to this aspect of their undertaking to advance the cause of international peace, and to foster more intimate knowledge and a better understanding between peoples. The people of the Irish Free State are following with keen interest the preparations in America for that great event in the history of Chicago, whose record of progress and development in a single century make it an appropriate world center for the display of a century of progress.

"Next year Ireland will celebrate the fifteenth anniversary of St. Patrick's day. Next year also Ireland and

2 Shot Dead as Drys Halt a Mail Truck

Wilmington, N. C., March 15.—(AP)—Five county officers mistook a mail truck for a rum runner today, precipitating a gun battle in which the truck driver and a deputy sheriff were slain.

Leopold Roberts, 23, of Wilmington, a driver under government contract, and Deputy W. T. Starling, 35, one of the raiding party, were killed.

Sheriff John R. Morris of New Hanover county said the five raiders had set out on a police tip that a load of liquor was being run into the city. They mistook the mail truck for the runner, and called on the driver to halt. They found no liquor.

Instead, Roberts jumped from the truck, Sheriff Morris said, and opened fire. Starling was wounded twice and dropped. The fire was returned and Roberts fell with four shots in his body.

Six Bullets in Truck.

Six bullet holes were counted in the rear of the truck, which was loaded with mail being brought from Goldsboro to Wilmington. The deputies said Roberts fired five times.

In the truck with Roberts, were three Wilmington girls. Subpoenaed as witnesses at the coroner's inquest, they told the authorities they were riding with Roberts as passengers. Relatives of the dead man said he not infrequently carried passengers on his trips as a contract mail driver.

Sheriff Morris said that the mail truck driver was not suspected of carrying liquor. He claimed that Roberts opened fire on the officers when they approached the truck after stopping another machine on a bridge.

Girls Contradict Sheriff.

Before the coroner's jury recessed to resume its inquest at 2 p. m. tomorrow it heard a graphic account of the shooting from the three girl passengers with Roberts.

Elizabeth Hines, who was driving, said she took the wheel from Roberts when he developed a severe headache.

She testified that when they reached the bridge Roberts, who was half asleep, told her to stop the machine. Several men ran toward the truck and the shooting began, she said, "I do not know who fired the first shot," she said. "I saw no badges and did not know the men were officers."

Armed Deputy Runs Up.

Betty Gibson said she saw Starling run up with a gun in his hand.

"I recognized him," she testified, "because I am related to him and know him. Mr. Roberts said, 'Don't you girls get excited; I will take care of this.' He got out of the car and Mr. Starling ran up and the shooting began. I don't know who shot first."

The testimony of Dorothy Jackson, the third girl, corroborated that of the other two.

Ludlow Roberts, a brother of the slain man, who arrived in Wilmington today with an attorney from Goldsboro, said he expected to press for an investigation by the grand jury, regardless of the coroner's verdict.

MOE ROSENBERG, WIFE, AND NIECE HELD UP; ROBBED OF $2,250 GEMS

Moe Rosenberg, Democratic chieftain of the west side and as ward committeeman of the 24th ward a power in county politics, was the victim early this morning of the wave of banditry that has been sweeping the city recently. With his wife, Annette, and his niece, Miss Lail Kallis, he had been attending a wedding at the Del Prado hotel.

When he drove up in front of his home at 1230 Independence boulevard he and his wife alighted from their car. As they did so three bandits drove up in another car and ordered them to get back in their automobile. Then the robbers compelled Mr. Rosenberg to give up his diamond ring, valued at $1,500. Miss Kallis was robbed of a necklace valued at $500 and from Mrs. Rosenberg the bandits took a $250 string of pearls and a $1,000 diamond ring. They dropped Mrs. Rosenberg's ring, however, and it was found in the street after they had jumped into their car and fled.

Simon B. Schwartz, clerk in the Adler drug store at 7658 North Paulina street, put his pistol in his pocket just before he locked the front door early this morning and started home. But he had no chance to draw it when three men with their own pistols ready met him in front of the store. They took his weapon and $30 from him and compelled him to reopen the place and show them where $575 of the store's funds was concealed. The trio escaped in an automobile.

3 Slain When Bank Robbers Fight Arrest

Monticello, Ind., March 15.—[Special.]—Sheriff Ray Fisher of White county was shot and killed and his chief deputy, Barney Irelan, was wounded today when they sought to arrest two White county farmers for complicity in the holdup of the State bank of Battle Ground, Ind., six weeks ago.

After the shooting of the officers one of the farmers, Scott Talbutt, 45 years old, shot and killed the other, his brother, William, 40, and then killed himself.

The shooting took place shortly after 10 o'clock this morning on the farm of Scott Talbutt, near Monon, Ind., about 12 miles northwest of Monticello, the county seat.

Sheriff Shot Down.

According to Irelan, they approached William Talbutt in the barnyard. Scott Talbutt suddenly appeared, raised an automatic shotgun, and shot Sheriff Fisher in the neck, killing him. Irelan ran, dodged among outbuildings as the brother fired at him, but succeeded in making his escape, although wounded in the hand.

A posse summoned by Irelan rushed the barn, only to find the bodies of the two brothers on the floor. Both were shot through the heart. Their positions indicated Scott had first killed his brother and then shot himself.

William Talbutt was married but Scott was a bachelor living on the farm with his mother. Both had been friends of the sheriff they killed, having been active in obtaining his reelection last fall.

Involved in Bank Robbery.

According to Irelan, Edward Taylor, a cousin of the Talbutt brothers, had been arrested as a suspect in the bank robbery, which occurred on Feb. 6, in which $1,400 was taken. He had implicated the two brothers and it was on a warrant from the adjacent county in which the bank was located that Fisher was going to take them into custody.

Neither Fisher nor Irelan expected resistance, and Irelan was unarmed.

Sheriff Fisher was married and had two children. He supervised the exhumation of the body of Arlene Draves at the Reynolds cemetery ten days ago on order of the court during the trial of Virgil Kirkland at Valparaiso for her slaying.

Boy Kept Alive by Lung Machine Reported Gaining

Improvement was reported last night in the condition of Charles Caughey, 7 years old, of 3622 South Union avenue, suffering from throat and lung paralysis at St. Francis hospital in Evanston. For almost two weeks the boy has been kept alive by an artificial respirator. Virtually all of yesterday Charles was kept out of the apparatus. The periods outside the respirator have gradually been lengthened. The boy, however, is not out of danger, according to Dr. Noel G. Shaw.

504 IN U. S. PAY INCOME TAXES ON $1,000,000

Earnings Up Despite 1929 Stock Crash.

Last Chance Today

Income tax payments received by mail by the internal revenue collector for the Chicago district yesterday amounted to $6,106,752 and brought the total so far received to $18,264,941, it was announced last night by Acting Collector Robert E. Neely.

Yesterday, being March 15, ordinarily would have been the final day for filing returns, but since the final day fell on Sunday the time limit was extended to midnight tonight. The collector's office remained open yesterday only to receive the mail returns, 31,200 of which were received, making the total 119,200 received to date.

Last year, on the next to the last day for filing returns, only 111,300 had filed for a total amount of $13,352,807. However, on the final day for filing last year, 42,300 took part in the last minute rush and sent the money total up to $37,213,972.

The public service offices of THE TRIBUNE will remain open until midnight tonight and maintain their staffs of tax experts to assist all persons who desire help in the making out and filing of their returns.

IN MILLION CLASS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Notwithstanding the stock market crash of eighteen months ago, 504 persons in the United States reported incomes during 1929 in excess of a million dollars, it was disclosed today by the treasury department.

The returns cover the period which included three months—October, November, and December—in which the greatest collapse of the stock market occurred. In spite of this debacle the figures show proof of the wealth of the nation.

The figures indicating that possibly the number of millionaires in this country may have again increased during the 1929 calendar year over the previous twelve months was contained in a pamphlet entitled, "Statistics of Income for 1929," a preliminary report compiled from federal income tax payments made from Jan. 1 to Aug. 31, 1930.

Final figures made public a few months ago for 1928 disclosed that 511 persons reported that year on incomes in excess of a million dollars. The preliminary report on 1928, however, which is comparative to the one issued today by the treasury, listed but 496 millionaire incomes. As a result, it is possible that the final figures for the 1929 calendar year will disclose that the total million dollar incomes will equal or surpass the 511 returned in 1928.

Jump Rapidly Upward.

In recent years the number of returns showing incomes of more than a million dollars has jumped rapidly upward from year to year. In 1914 the number was 60; in 1916 it was 206; in 1921 it was back to 21 and in 1924 it was but 75. In 1925 the number of millionaires had increased to 207; in 1927 it was 280, and in 1928 it was 511.

Of the 504 millionaires who still kept their rating in 1929, despite stock market losses and the ensuing economic depression, thirty-six individuals enjoyed incomes above $5,000,000. Analysis of the high bracket incomes disclosed an increase in the number of persons returning incomes of $5,000,000 or more. While only 26 were in this group in 1928, there were 36 which had $5,000,000-plus incomes in 1929.

These figures represent an increase of ten in this classification for 1928 when only 26 persons reported incomes of $5,000,000 or above. During 1929 there were 66 persons who reported incomes of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, 32 who reported incomes in the $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 bracket, and 17 whose incomes were between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000.

How Stock Crash Hit Purses.

Just what happened to the pocketbooks of individuals when the market broke was indicated in dollars and cents. Total losses from the sale of real estate, stocks and bonds, and other assets held less than two years amounted to $661,732,366. Of that loss, $102,781,117 was taken by individuals with incomes from $5,000 to $10,000 annually, and $149,203,432 by those with incomes from $10,000 to $25,000.

Persons with incomes of less than $5,000 lost $43,600,000 in speculative activities. Those with incomes exceed-

Find 'Murder' Spot; Fear It's Miss Newby's

County highway police under Sergt. Rowder yesterday found a spot on the grounds of the Itasca Country club, a mile northeast of Itasca, in DuPage county, that they believe may have been the scene of a murder. They associate it with the disappearance of Miss Norma Newby, 2706 Flournoy street, who, according to Frank J. Murray, was abducted by bandits on March 2 as he and she were in the Elk Grove forest preserve district. The spot discovered by the police is about two miles south of where the woman disappeared.

The information that led the police to the place came from Roy Franzen, cashier of the Itasca State bank, and an officer of the Itasca Country club. On March 4, two days after Miss Newby vanished, Franzen was notified by William Matthies, a greenskeeper on the golf links, of the suspicious appearance of the ground near the twelfth hole, and Franzen investigated. He found the ground had been trampled and dead grass was stained with fresh blood. A woman's handkerchief lay near by and tracks of an automobile led to and away from the place.

Franzen notified the DuPage county sheriff of his discovery, but apparently nothing was done about it. Then, after he read of the Newby case, he informed the county highway police of the matter. Rowder and his squad went to the place yesterday and after digging away the snow that has fallen since March 4, found conditions as described by Franzen. In addition, the police found a safety razor blade. They believe that a body may be found in the deep drifts in ravines in the Country club grounds, and that it may be Miss Newby's.

Mrs. Margaret Gaylord Brunker of Lake Forest, wife of Albert R. Brunker, millionaire reformer, was riding in a taxicab with her two small children and followed by another cab and a truck loaded with baggage yesterday when she was halted near the Ravinia opera grounds by Policeman Clarence Engdahl of Highland Park.

"I am sorry, Mrs. Brunker," said Engdahl, "but you cannot pass. We are informed that you are on your way to Reno to get a divorce from Mr. Brunker. The Lake Forest police tell us you are violating a written agreement with your husband if you take the children out of Lake county. You will have to come to the station."

Takes Children Back Home.

Under protest Mrs. Brunker obeyed. At the Highland Park police headquarters Sergt. John Robertson of the Lake Forest force accepted custody of the children, their nurse, and one taxicab. He escorted them back to the Brunker home at 190 North Ahwahnee road, Lake Forest. Mrs. Brunker, in the other cab, continued on to Chicago.

The incident was only one in a tumultuous day for the Brunker household. Participating in the general panorama of events in addition to those named above were the following six attorneys:

Walter B. Wolf, Thomas J. Shaughnessy, and R. O. McCarville of the firm of Wolf, Tuthill & Lynde.

Former Judge Claire C. Edwards and Assistant State's Attorney Sidney H. Block of Lake county.

John A. Bloomingston represented Mrs. Brunker.

Three Police Chiefs Involved.

Then there were three chiefs of police, as follows:

Frank Tiffany of Lake Forest.
Edward Maroney of Highland Park.
William Peterson of Winnetka.

Also:

Two mysterious strangers having the air of detectives.
One butler.
One combined gardener-chauffeur.
A third cousin of Mr. Brunker.
Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady.
Sheriff Lester Tiffany of Lake county, and——
Albert R. Brunker (not in person; by telephone from New York).

Widely Known Reformer.

The Brunkers are socially prominent. Mr. Brunker is widely known as a reformer and a commentator on crime. He created a sensation a few weeks ago when, it was reported, he charged in a speech at Boston that in Chicago "50 per cent of the judges are criminals and 6,000 to 8,000 public officials are on Capone's pay rolls."

A special grand jury, after question-

Order prevailed in the old state penitentiary at Joliet yesterday following the mutiny on Saturday in which one convict was killed and three others wounded, but many prisoners maintained a mutinous attitude in their cells. Shouts and catcalls continued at intervals during the day among the mutinous element, whose bitterness appeared to be directed particularly against the state parole board.

Maj. Henry C. Hill, the warden, said he was determined to maintain discipline at all costs, and the prison force was in readiness for a possible renewal of the uprising later in the week when the 1,771 convicts are released from their cells and marched to their daily labors.

1,100 on Bread and Water.

There was no work, no chapel, and no liberties yesterday, and only the 678 convicts who did not participate in Saturday's rioting were permitted to leave their cells and go to the mess hall for meals. The others were on bread and water rations, with no radio for entertainment, and were kept in their cells all day. The convicts who mutinied will be kept in their cells today, and they may not be freed until Friday for a resumption of normal prison routine.

State Representatives Roger F. Little, William G. Thon, Harry McCaskrin, and M. E. Bray, members of the legislative committee appointed to investigate prison conditions, inspected the damage done by the rebellious convicts, who desisted from beating Capt. D. A. Davenport of the mess hall guards only when rifle bullets were fired into the crowd.

Convict Raps Parole Board.

Representative Michael L. Igoe, Democratic floor leader, appeared at the prison later and, after making an independent inspection, joined with Representatives McCaskrin and Thon in questioning a prisoner whose name was not disclosed.

After the interview with the convict Representative Igoe said the man had made three specific charges, all of which were directed at the state parole board. These charges I., the prisoner were quoted by Igoe as follows:

"The parole board handles relatives of prisoners unjustly.

"The parole board does not give consideration to cases on their merits.

"The parole board is unfamiliar with individual cases when it hands down its decisions."

Parents Claim Convict's Body.

Albert Yarbeck of 1748 Washburn street, Chicago, father of Albert Yarbeck Jr., 23 years old, the convict who was slain in the rioting, called at the prison with his wife and their daughter, Irene, 27, to claim the body. Yarbeck was shot by Keeper Frank Cutchin, who was stationed on the wall and who said he fired at the convicts who appeared to be trying to kill Capt. Davenport.

Two other prisoners, Joseph Kwoka, 23 years old, and George Jskowanis, 25 years old, were wounded by Cutchin's fire.

Michael Casselli, 41 years old, another convict, was wounded later when shots were fired into the cell block to force the men into their cells.

Legislators View Damage.

Warden Hill, Col. Frank Whiting, state superintendent of prisons, and Rodney H. Brandon, director of the state department of public welfare, were in conference all yesterday morning on future plans and all were present when Representatives Little, Thom, McCaskrin, and Bray appeared. It had been arranged before the Saturday rioting that the legislative committee would hold a session at the prison on Thursday, but the present danger resulted in the preliminary investigation of yesterday.

The legislators were taken through the prison grounds, the debris from the rioting having been left untouched for their viewing. In the mess hall every window was broken, tables overturned, food on the floor, syrup and vinegar barrels spilled. The furniture shops were strewn with wreckage and with the charred remnants of the fire started by the convicts.

View 43 in "Solitary."

The party went to the building in which there are twenty-four solitary confinement cells. Locked in these were the forty-three prisoners, apparent ringleaders in the riot during which they wrecked the prison kitchen with knives, cleavers, and clubs.

In the solitary confinement building also was John Preston of Chicago, under sentence of death for the murder of Miss Agnes Johnson, near West Chicago, nearly two years ago. Under the state law men condemned to death in counties other than Cook are executed either at Joliet or at Chester penitentiary.

"That's a bad thing for us," Warden Hill informed the legislators. "We have to keep a man constantly on guard in front of the death cell—twenty-four hours a day. This excites and arouses other prisoners."

Several of the wooden doors to the solitary cells were opened by the keepers but none of the men thus exhibited were handcuffed to the bars. The legislators commented on finding the solitary cells well ventilated, heated and with a window in each—not the dungeons they had expected.

The problem of whether the practice of cuffing the prisoners to cell bars—arms extended at elbow height—for eight hours every day, is to be approved as necessary to prison management is to be discussed later by the law makers.

The visitors heard several prisoners call out, "When do we eat?" and "We want food," but they did not question any of the prisoners on those subjects. Except for one prisoner interviewed, they put off until their next meeting at the prison, which will be on Friday, the interrogation of the convicts.

Inquiry Plans Outlined.

The legislators first plan to take statements from the prison officers, Mr. Igoe said. Later they will question individual prisoners regarding their treatment. Then they will take up the matter of the death of a convict, Joseph Coakley, in a solitary cell and perhaps the killing of three convicts who made a break two weeks ago and were shot by ambushed guards when they reached the street outside the walls.

Representative Little, chairman of the legislative committee, said it was apparent "something went wrong," but that the committee wants to be fair and that it will be fully advised before it recommends any legislation intended to be beneficial to prison management.

As the committee passed several cellhouses there were cries of "Give us a new parole board and we'll behave!" "We'll tear the pen block from block unless we get a new parole board," said one voice.

Parole System Explained.

Warden Hill explained that after every monthly session of the parole board the convicts exhibit rancor and insolence and are surly. The reason, he said, is that at each session the board makes what it calls "settings."

Most sentences are indeterminate—1 to 10 years, 1 to 14 years, 1 to 20 years, or 1 year to life. After the convict has served eleven months the parole board makes a decision as to exactly how much time the crime committed merits and the prisoner is told he must serve 5 years, 8 years, 10 years, or whatever is decided, the warden explained.

The opinion was expressed that the present parole board, headed by W. C. Jones of Streator, sets the time to be served at a much greater number of years than the previous board.

Representative Igoe said he knows this is so and that much of the criticism by convicts of the parole board comes from the fact that nearly 600 prisoners convicted of robbery with a gun feel they have been unjustly treated. Two years ago, Igoe explained, the law was changed, making the punishment for that offense one year to life instead of ten years to life. Those prisoners serving ten years to life are the great source of trouble, prison officials said.

Warden Hill's Position.

The legislators said they will give due consideration to the attitude of the parole board. Warden Hill said he has heard many complaints regarding the refusals of the board to grant paroles, but he has no criticism to offer. His job is to keep the convicts as long as the parole board decides they should be kept and he does not presume to pass judgment on the decisions made, he said.

Hill also told the committee of a proposition sent to him by some of the Negro convicts asking if he would permit a petition to be prepared in which the Negroes would state that inasmuch as they comprised 32 per cent of the prison population they should have 32 per cent of the "good jobs." He said he sent back word he would order solitary confinement for any signer of such a petition because under no circumstances could he accept any dictation from convicts.

Chaplain Resigns.

The Rev. George Whitmeyer, chaplain at the penitentiary, has resigned his place, according to an announcement made public yesterday, because of his disapproval of the killing of the three convicts as they were attempting to escape on Feb. 22. Indications were given that he would be called before the special legislative committee to tell what he knows of conditions that tended to increase the discontent of the prisoners.

PENITENTIARIES TOO LARGE, SAYS BRITISH PRISON COMMISSIONER

Prison mutinies and escapes are inevitable so long as penitentiaries are built to house more than 1,000 convicts, according to Alexander Paterson, royal commissioner of prisons for England and Wales, who spoke before the Chicago forum at the Adelphi theater yesterday.

"Either build higher prison walls and buy hungry bloodhounds to run around them," said Mr. Paterson, in answer to a question as to the cause of the Joliet riot, "or limit your prison population to 1,000 convicts and keep them instructively occupied. The Joliet phison is not only overcrowded, as an investigation has already proved, but also is too large. Have more and smaller penitentiaries."

Mr. Paterson pointed to two extremes of prison administration as contributing causes to problems of prison discipline. One type results from wardens' fear of the convicts. This, he said, frequently accounts for various forms of "torture systems." The other extreme, also bad for prisoners, is a soft administration which treats them like children. This, Mr. Paterson declared, makes the convicts unable to take care of themselves when freed.

CAFE OWNER IN CICERO IS SLAIN; U.S. AGENTS BUSY

Capone Haunts Searched as Robberies Go On.

Forty-five holdups were reported in Chicago in the twenty-four hours ending at 6 p. m. yesterday and a restaurant owner was shot and killed in Cicero, where government dry agents raided Capone haunts in an effort to arrest a gunman known only as John Doe.

The restaurant man killed was John Demos, 45 years old. He was shot down in his place at 4636 West 22d street. According to two witnesses, Julia Jousszewski, a waitress, and her husband, Frank, the killer was Nick Koukes, who conducts a rival restaurant at 4640 West 22d street. Koukes escaped.

Both the woman and her husband were slightly wounded by the fire of Koukes. The police explanation of the shooting, which was given no publicity until the report of the death of Demos reached the coroner's office, was that they were rivals for trade and had been accusing each other of unethical methods.

Sought for Attacking Agents.

The hoodlum sought by government agents, suspected of having Capone affiliations, is wanted for holding up Roy M. Budd, a prohibition operative, and Dan Coakley, a Chicago policeman, in front of Ralph Capone's Cotton club, 5342 West 22d street, Cicero. At the same time Jack Karron, doorman, disarmed the officers. Karron is now under a federal charge of interfering with a federal officer.

Deputy Marshals Joseph Spizzirri and Joseph O'Neill and eight dry agents, including Budd, journeyed in two cars to the Capone badlands. They first visited the Hawthorne hotel and restaurant, 4832 West 22d street, Cicero. Finding things quiet, they next entered the Anton hotel, formerly the Western, a block away. In succession they visited the Cotton club, the Stockade, a vice resort in Stickney, and two dwellings, one in Riverside, the other in Springdale, but failed to catch their man. No activity was found except in the Stockade, which was speedily vacated on entrance of the officers.

The forty-five week-end robberies were, with few exceptions, of routine execution.

John Leviton, druggist at 1950 West Chicago avenue, was the biggest loser. He was robbed of $400 by three men who entered his store shortly after he opened yesterday and forced him to open his safe. They then locked him in a rear room and escaped. He broke out and notified the police.

John Helstin, 1204 Ainslie street, an automobile salesman, returned to his apartment after a show early this morning. Shortly afterward he answered a knock at the door. A bandit with a gun entered and robbed him o a $275 ring, a $275 pin, $4 in cash, and an unindorsed cashier's check for $3,000. Helstin was then tied up in a bathroom.

Robert Griffin, radio announcer for KYW, who is crippled, was accosted by a robber as he left the studio at 310 South Michigan boulevard early Sunday. The robber forced him into an alley by grappling with him and took $50 from him.

Miss Dorothy De Reimer, daughter of Dr. Albert E. De Riemer, 6022 Kenmore avenue, was robbed by three men while she sat in an automobile parked near her home. The men, driving by in another car, stopped and two of them got into her car, taking a watch and ring valued at $500 and $4 in cash.

VET DEPOSITS $500 BONUS WITH POLICE TO FOIL RACKETEERS

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—Problems that come with wealth were tasted tonight by Edward Boas, a world war veteran.

Panting and distressed, Boas burst into a police station and put a $500 bank note in the hands of the desk lieutenant and said:

"Keep this for me. It's my bonus money. I pulled it out in a Broadway restaurant a few minutes ago, trying to get it changed at the cashier's desk, and I suddenly noticed all the racketeers in the place looking at it and at me. Will you keep it for me, so it'll be safe?"

HOOVER ON TRIP TO SEE HOW U. S. AIDS PORTO RICO

$12,000,000 Sent Over for Rehabilitation.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special]—The President's ten holidays on a battleship in the Caribbean will include work as well as play, and in some respects will take on the character of another Hoover relief expedition.

Mr. Hoover is going to visit two American possessions in which business depression is nothing new, for Porto Rico and the Virgin islands were suffering from economic collapse and widespread unemployment for years before the stock market crash ushered in hard times in continental United States. And when it comes to acts of God, Porto Rico was laid prostrate by a hurricane two years before the drought brought Arkansas farmers face to face with starvation.

Fulfillment of Destiny.

There was comment today in official quarters that the visit of Mr. Hoover to these American possessions appears to be in further fulfillment of that destiny which decreed that the man who had won world fame for relief of war distress abroad should be chief executive of his country when his countrymen most needed his talent in this direction to succor them from the ravages of peace.

Just when the presidential party will leave for the Caribbean was undecided tonight, the White House stating that an announcement probably will be possible tomorrow. The reconditioned and refurbished battleship Arizona is in readiness at Norfolk and the expedition will weigh anchor not earlier than Tuesday nor later than Thursday.

The President will spend two days in Porto Rico, where he will be the guest of Gov. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt at La Fortaleza, the ancient mansion which has housed the governors of the island from the early days of the Spanish régime. He will tour the island, observe agricultural, industrial and social conditions, and meet the leaders of various political groups. He will attend luncheons and dinners and will make at least one address of particular import to the Porto Ricans. His views on measures of economic relief will be sought.

Liberty Movement Vanishes.

One situation that once would have involved embarrassment for a visiting President of the United States Mr. Hoover will be spared. This is the demand for independence of American rule. The independence movement has virtually petered out. Some say it was blown off the island by the hurricane of 1928.

The hurricane laid waste the fields of sugar cane, coffee, tobacco, and other agricultural products and reduced the growers to penury and in some districts virtually to starvation. The United States government has appropriated $6,000,000 for rehabilitation loans to farmers and $4,000,000 for roads and schoolhouses. The American Red Cross also poured out hundreds of thousands of dollars in emergency relief. In addition a large special fund for alleviating the condition of the natives was raised in the United States at the solicitation of Gov. Roosevelt.

With about $12,000,000 supplied from federal and private sources for hurricane relief, the Porto Ricans were given an impressive object lesson in the benefits of their existence under the American flag.

Gov. Roosevelt has attacked the problems of the island with characteristic vigor and is reported to have made considerable progress. President Hoover has taken occasion frequently of late to praise his work. There have been rumors that the President has his eye on young Teddy for governor general of the Philippines.

Pictures People's Distress.

The governor in his official reports and in communications to the American papers has given detailed pictures of the distress obtained in the island. Sixty per cent of the people are out of work, he said, either all or part of the year.

"Hundreds," said Gov. Roosevelt, "come to the government offices weekly with but a single request—work. They do not ask for a dole, merely the opportunity to earn a livelihood."

The population density is exceeded by few countries. It is 440 to the square mile and even intensive agriculture would not support this population. So it is industries that Gov. Roosevelt says must be developed.

More than 35,000 persons are suffering from tuberculosis, 200,000 from malaria, and 600,000 from hookworm.

Prohibition Failure There.

The President will be given a glimpse of the operation of the 18th amendment in the island. Attempts to enforce prohibition have been futile. In the interior rum of a villainous quality is distilled in thousands of cabins. A common method is to catch vapor in towels from which the liquor is wrung. The agricultural association recently asserted that the result of prohibition had been increase of crime and impairment of health, due to drinking the moonshine rum called "canita."

In the Virgin Islands the President will be enabled to observe economic conditions which are largely the result of the extension of prohibition to that possession. St. Thomas, the principal port in the Virgin Islands, formerly was a center of trans-shipment for the entire Caribbean region. Cargoes from Europe were landed at St. Thomas for trans-shipment. Liquor was an important item in these cargoes.

Shipping Business Declines.

When prohibition was extended to the islands, however, liquor cargoes could not be brought in for transshipment. Hence skippers with any liquor in their cargoes avoided St. Thomas. The fueling and repair services that had developed as an adjunct of the trans-shipment business declined, throwing hundreds out of employment.

The rum-distilling industry was destroyed and the bay rum industry hard hit. This was a body blow to the prosperity of the islands.

A NIGHT LETTER from Ring Lardner

Tucson, Ariz., March 15.—[Special.]—The internal revenue department had better beware the Ides of March when they fall on the Sabbath as happens this year. It gives this great nation of swindlers an extra day in which to figure how to cheat the government out of enough money to pay for our children's 1926 school books. I don't know, dear reader, whether you fix up your own return or hire a lawyer or get a revenue man to help you. Personally, I have tried all three methods and have found one as effective as another, like members of the Philadelphia pitching staff.

PICKING OF JURY TO TRY BROTHERS WILL BEGIN TODAY

The trial of Leo V. Brothers, St. Louis gangster, sought by that city on a charge of murder since July 15, 1929, for the murder of Alfred Lingle in the Illinois Central railroad subway at Randolph street and Michigan avenue last June 9, will open today before Judge Sabath in the Criminal court. The selection of the jurors is expected to take the first week of the trial, because of the wide interest in the case.

JUDGE SABATH.

Brothers, who was arrested Dec. 15, has been identified as the slayer by two witnesses, Warren Williams and Otto Svobodo. Several others are to take the stand during the trial. Attorney Tyrell Krum, representing Brothers, appeared in Judge Sabath's court Saturday at the conclusion of the trial of William [Three Fingered Jack] White on a motion for a complete list of state's witnesses. Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks and Special Assistant State's Attorney Charles R. Rathbun reported that the additional witnesses sought have not been found.

The judge ordered an assignment of jurors, who are to be questioned for service this morning. No further delays are anticipated. All persons entering the courtroom are to be searched for weapons unless they are known to the bailiffs. This procedure was followed in the White trial.

CHICAGO GANGS ON RUN, JUDGE TELLS PEORIANS

Peoria, Ill., March 15.—[Special.]—Confidence that the city of Chicago will be able to rid itself of the grip of the gangster before the opening of the Century of Progress exposition in 1933 was expressed by Judge John P. McGoorty, chief justice of the Criminal court of Cook county, speaking at a Peoria church tonight.

The conviction of William "Three Fingered Jack" White for murder and other recent convictions have "weakened the morale of the gangster if they have not broken it," Judge McGoorty declared. Divorce of the police department from politics is the prime requisite for the routing of the criminal, the justice asserted.

GIRL, 5, DIES OF INJURIES.

Mildred Rudenberg, 5 years old, 3307 Grenshaw street, died yesterday at the Garfield Park hospital of septicemia developing from leg and foot injuries which resulted from a fall. A blood transfusion from her father, John, several days ago, failed to save her.

Demand Hague Court Order Greece to Kill Monks' Hens

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, March 15.—The International Court of Justice at The Hague will shortly be called upon to give a decision on what is probably one of the most extraordinary cases ever brought before a court of justice.

The synod of the monk republic of Athos, on the Chalcidice peninsula in Greece, intends to appeal to the Hague court of justice to force Greece to fulfill one of the terms of its treaty with the republic, which stipulates that the decisions of the synod must be carried out by the Greek authorities. The decision which the synod has made and now in dispute, calls for the immediate killing of all hens found in the territory of Athos. The reason given is that hens are females. Under the constitution approved by Emperor Constantine Monomachos in 1045, women and female animals were excluded from Athos.

Horrors! They're Female!

The monks are fond of eggs. Since it was cheaper to raise their own hens than to buy eggs from neighboring peasants, almost every monk had his own hens. Recently the point was raised that hens were females. The heads of the Synod called a meeting, which lasted many days and nights. After much weary discussion it was decided that the old laws must be enforced, and that all hens must be killed by Nov. 13, 1930.

But for the first time in the history of the oldest republic in the world the monks refused to obey the rulings of the synod. The synod appealed to the Greek foreign minister to intervene and order all hens to be killed. They appealed to the Greek foreign minister because in 1920 Greece and the republic of Athos signed a treaty under which the executive power rests with the Greek government.

Minister Refuses to Act.

The Greek foreign minister, however, happened at the moment to be engaged in other important matters, and the idea of intervening in a dispute of this strange nature did not appeal to him at all. He therefore sent a rather cool letter to the synod, in which he said:

"The holy monks may or may not own hens, as far as I am concerned."

The synod points out that Greec is not fulfilling her part of the agreement, and that the only thing they can do is to take the matter to The Hague and force Greece to have the hens destroyed.

SNOW REFUSES G. O. P. MEETING FOR THOMPSON

Democrats See Revolt Among Republicans.

It was reported yesterday that the city hall forces have made vain efforts to convene the Republican county or city committee for the purpose of indorsing Mayor Thompson's candidacy for reelection. Supporters of Anton J. Cermak, Democratic nominee, hailed the report as further evidence that Republican leaders are supporting their candidate.

Evidence of the apparent mutiny among the Republicans against Thompson was seen in the mailing of invitations to a "harmony" meeting of ward leaders at the Hotel Sherman today, in an effort to make it appear that Thompson has the united backing of the party organization. Bernard W. Snow, chairman of both the Republican county and city committees, described the meeting as unauthorized and unofficial.

Snow Refuses to Call Meeting.

Mr. Snow said that he had been solicited to call such a meeting and had refused to do so. He added that he could not assume responsibility for convening "an unofficial gathering of citizens either for or against any mayoralty candidate."

A second development interpretated as favorable to Cermak was an announcement by the board of election commissioners last night that only 52,302 names had been removed from the voting lists in the revision of the registration books on Saturday.

The total number of citizens now eligible to vote at the mayoralty election is 1,416,939, a number breaking all records in Chicago's history. A total of 129,914 registered last Tuesday and nearly two-thirds of these names remain on the books.

Since there was no fight in the Democratic primary, the Democratic managers took the view that most of the new voters who registered Tuesday will vote for Cermak. The new registration was heaviest in the Cermak wards.

The Thompson wards suffered chiefly from the erasures. The largest number of names was removed from the polling lists in the Third ward, which had 3,524 erasures. In the Fourth ward there were 2,756 erasures; in the Fifth, 2,438, and in the Twenty-seventh, 2,356. The Twenty-seventh is the stronghold of Homer K. Galpin, who has assumed charge of the Thompson campaign.

"All of our expectations have been surpassed," declared Clayton F. Smith, chairman of the Democratic managing committee. "It was a Cermak registration Tuesday and the comparatively small number of erasures shows we gained a tremendous numer of new votes."

Go Ahead with Meeting.

The form of the call sent out for the Republican "harmony" meeting today and the Snow announcement strengthened reports that an increasingly large bloc of the regular Republican support is lining up against Thompson and for Cermak. Galpin, to whom Thompson has entrusted the job of lining up the "deliverable" wards, is reported to have called on Snow Saturday with a request that he call a meeting of Republican leaders generally. This Snow refused to do.

The Galpin group, however, determined to stage a meeting for demonstrative purposes and give it the appearance of regularity. The invitations, signed by Eden T. Brekke as vice chairman of the county committee, and Edward F. Moore, secretary of the city committee, read as follows:

"The leaders of the Republican organization, without regard to past affiliations, are earnestly requested to attend a meeting Monday, March 16, in the Hotel Sherman Crystal room, at 4 p. m., for the purpose of discussing the present campaign and its effect on the future of the Republican party. It is hoped you will recognize the seriousness of the threatened situation and attend this meeting."

Cermak Discusses Taxes.

High taxes and prohibition were the two issues discussed by Cermak yesterday afternoon at a German-American mass meeting at 302 West 47th street. It was the only political meeting of the day.

The city hall, Cermak declared, bears the sole responsibility for increasing taxes, since both the city and school tax rates have been raised while that of the county has remained the same since 1926.

Formation of the German division of the young men's Cermak organization was announced yesterday by Nicholas C. Mueller, who is a member of the board of governors of the German Club of Chicago.

The advisory committee of the group consists of George Weideling, recently a candidate for sheriff on the Republican ticket; John E. Traeger, W. H. Dietrich, Ernest J. Kruetgen, Arthur Seyferlich, Joseph Graber, A. D. Weiner, Peter Bartzen, George Leiniger, Charles J. Schmidt, Charles Wurster, Leo V. Roeder, Joseph Pratcher, and Joseph Keller.

Nominee to Speak Today.

The principal Cermak event today will be the annual ball of the Bailiffs' Benevolent association at the Hotel Sherman. Three thousand persons are expected to hear speeches by Cermak and the other Democratic candidates.

Thompson will speak at a noon luncheon of the National Credit Jewelers at the Palmer house and in the evening at the Roosevelt school, 3436 Wilson avenue; the Bell school, Grace street and Oakley avenue, and at an American Legion post dance at the Auditorium hotel.

GALPIN EXPECTED TO BE QUIZZED ON CAMPAIGN GIFTS

Representatives of the state's attorney's office who are to question Homer K. Galpin, chief of Mayor Thompson's campaign committee, before the grand jury tomorrow refused to disclose yesterday the subject of the inquiry. Nevertheless reports persisted that Galpin would be questioned about contributions to the Thompson mayoralty campaign both in 1927 and in the primary of last month. Galpin kept silent about his plans. When chairman of the Republican county central committee Galpin remained away from Chicago for two years after Frank J. Loesch, as special prosecutor, obtained a subpoena calling for his appearance before the grand jury.

CERMAK IN LEAD AS POLL TURNS TO NO. SIDE MOVIES

Stout [A]	126	19	146	.86

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A new pre-campaign poll on the mayoralty candidates has been undertaken by THE TRIBUNE. The final results of the first poll made on street corners in every ward in the city were published yesterday. The new one will be at movie theaters in all sections, which will supply a different view of the candidates, if the past experience of THE TRIBUNE is repeated.

The first section canvassed was the north side. The sentiment of this section, as expressed at the movies, is a little more favorable to Anton J. Cermak, the Democratic candidate, than that obtained by the street corner poll.

A total of 4,311 straws were collected. The distribution of the votes was as follows:

Candidate, party—	Votes.	Pct.
Cermak [D.]	2,853	66.18
Thompson [R.]	1,439	33.38
Stout [A.-N.]	19	.44
Totals	4,311	100.

In the recent street corner poll of the north side, Cermak received 60.89 per cent of the straws, Thompson 38.18 and Stout 1.01 per cent.

In the last mayoralty election, THE TRIBUNE poll forecast the election of Thompson. It predicted he would carry the north side wards, which he did. In the poll of theaters alone, the canvass of 1927, showed the following results on the north side:

Candidate, party—	Votes.	Pct.
Dever [D.]	4,489	40.22
Thompson [R.]	6,127	54.90
Robertson [Ind.]	545	4.88
Totals	11,161	100.00

The subsequent election in 1927 showed that the theater straw vote taking was an indicator. A total of 177,162 votes were cast on the north side for mayoralty candidates in 1927. The following table shows the number of votes cast at the election for each candidate, in comparison with the number of votes the advance poll indicated each candidate would obtain:

Candidate—	Election Votes.	Straw Votes. Forecast.
Dever [D.]	75,486	71,254
Robertson [Ind.]	11,172	8,645
Totals	177,162	177,161

In 1927 Thompson obtained 51.09 per cent of the north side votes; while the theater poll indicates he will get only 33.38 per cent of the votes on April 7. The street corner poll credits him with 37.63 per cent, but both polls indicate that north side sentiment at present is overwhelmingly for Cermak.

The following tabulation enumerates the theaters polled and sets opposite the straws cast for each candidate at each movie:

In the last mayoralty campaign THE TRIBUNE collected 11,161 straws at north side theaters. Those movies and the votes for Thompson and the other candidates then are listed as follows:

The campaigns of both Cermak and Thompson are expected to get into full swing this week. Judging by experience in previous straw votes, it will take the people four or five days to register in the poll any change in sentiment which may be influenced by the campaigning.

In two previous contests what was said and done during the campaigns had no discernible effect. The poll before the campaign started was almost a duplicate of the poll immediately before election. In another political fight the poll indicated a decided change in sentiment in the last five days of the campaign. It was so marked, that the straws taken previous to the five days had to be thrown away in order to make a forecast of the election.

Maj. Ames Returns to Defend Promotion List for Police

Maj. Carlos Ames returned to Chicago yesterday to defend the police promotional list for sergeantcies which brought about his enforced resignation last week as chairman of the city civil service commission. The civil service examination and the markings for efficiency were not only fair and just, Maj. Ames declared, but they were the result of a new system designed to convince patrolmen that only by doing their duty can they gain promotion. He declared he accepted full responsibility for the list and was proud of it, because it was made on merit alone.

"I did not seek the office of chairman of the civil service commission," Maj. Ames said. "I was happy in my office as secretary of the Lincoln park board, but I was prevailed upon to make the change as a civic duty. I believe in civil service.

Tells of Merit Stand.

"I told Mayor Thompson I would take the job with the idea of bringing credit to the administration and I would not use it to do favors for any one. Thompson told me he would not ask any favors from me, and he did not do so.

"I realized that the most important step for a policeman is in getting his first promotion. Therefore, I undertook to grade candidates for sergeancies on the strict basis of merit.

"The keystone of protection for the public is in the patrolman. I wanted every patrolman to know that only good work and ability would aid him.

"There are four sections of the system of grading: Seniority, physical examinations, written examinations, and efficiency markings. The first three a policeman has to get for himself. The efficiency mark is something over which he has no direct control.

Launch Marking System.

"I consulted with a number of citizens who are well informed on civil service and police matters. We decided that each candidate's efficiency should be marked by the captains. This was to be the beginning of a system wherein all policemen would receive an efficiency mark every three months and these marks were to stand in the examinations."

The Thompson administration did not want the list posted in advance of the election, it was learned, but Maj. Ames posted it in accordance with a promise he made to the special grand jury. Assistant state's attorneys who are coöperating with the special grand jury, and the jurors themselves, have praised the fairness of Ames in the preparation of the list and Ames said he regards the list as a monument to himself, if not as the beginning of a new era in the city's civil service.

JAMES NEILL, STAGE AND SCREEN ACTOR, DIES; ILL TWO WEEKS

Los Angeles, Cal., March 15.—James Neill, 70 years old, veteran actor of stage and screen and husband of Edythe Chapman, died at his home in Glendale today after an illness of two weeks. Neill was one of the outstanding character actors of the screen and despite his age was in constant demand at the studios. He had a long experience on the legitimate stage before joining the group of pioneer movie actors at the old Lasky lot twenty years ago.

JAMES NEILL.

Neill's last picture appearance was in "Man to Man." Prior to that he was seen in "King of Kings" and "The Ten Commandments." He first appeared on Broadway in 1883 and one of his early legitimate rôles was the lead in "The Senator," staged by William M. Crane. Later he toured the country in stock. He met and married Edythe Chapman, herself an outstanding character actress, in Cincinnati in 1897.

FALL OFF LADDER IS FATAL.

William F. Snyder, 63 years old, 23 South Oakley boulevard, a retired contractor, died yesterday in the West Suburban hospital of injuries suffered Thursday when he fell from a step ladder while cleaning the ceiling in his home.

CERMAK DIRECTS COUNTY BUSINESS OF $50,000,000

Good Service, No Waste, Is His Watchword.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Cook county does an annual business of about $50,000,000.

As president of the county board for the last eight years A. J. Cermak has dominated this business. His policies and methods, as reflected here, should give a fair and clear indication of what may be expected of him as administrator of another big business institution, the city of Chicago.

It is the universal testimony that Cermak has worked hard at this job, and that those under him work hard. He knows the details of the job, as well as its broad aims. Civil service has replaced the old spoils system. He has effected many economies. While the institutional and social service needs have doubled since 1922 this expenditure has been met out of savings in other departments rather than through an increased taxation.

Social Service Improved.

While Cermak is primarily a politician and has scattered jobs throughout the county institutions to take care of his political organization necessities, he has at the same time steadily improved the service to the sick and poor and has raised the professional standards of his staffs to a high level. He has not invaded the expert field with political job holders.

"He does the right thing most of the time," said one of his frank critics. He grumbles a good deal about expenses, but invariably gives the doctors and nurses what they really need. He rose with this job to a new level of achievement.

"Give good care, but don't waste money," has been his repeated injunction to Warden Michael Zimmer of the county hospital. Zimmer, a careful administrator, has been on this job for 20 years. During this period, and more especially during the last few years, the county hospital has come to be regarded as one of the two or three great medical centers of the world. As a unit, with 3,400 beds, increased by 800 under Cermak, it is the largest institution of its kind.

Political Doctoring Barred.

While the European idea of regarding charity patients as "material" for study has never been adopted here, the hospital has nevertheless increased its usefulness in this field in many ways. When it happens that there is a vacancy on the staff and no eligible list ready, the staff is permitted to make a selection for this job instead of a political doctor being forced upon it.

More than half the members of the staff, it is said, are not even members of Cermak's party. They are Republicans and some of them even dry Republicans. But they are strong for the way that Cermak has supported the best interests of the hospital.

From a professional standpoint the greatest achievement has been in the opportunities provided for real pathological work. When the new morgue was built an amphitheater was provided, where pathological clinics are held every Thursday morning.

Clinic Helps Save Lives.

Here the cases of the week are discussed and analyzed by Dr. R. H. Jaffe, formerly of Vienna and the University of Illinois, who was employed by the county recently at a salary higher than that paid the warden. There is hardly room in the amphitheater to hold the doctors who wish to attend these lectures. The value to the hospital is found in the education of the staff members in diagnoses. It aids in the saving of other lives.

The summer medical clinics held at the hospital yearly attract physicians from many parts of this country and from Canada.

Extension of the x-ray work by the employment of experts in this field has been a great aid in case work and in time saving. In ten years, it is estimated by the warden, the average time which a patient must spend in the hospital has been reduced 30 per cent. That is, they are cured, on the average, in this much less time.

Dental Clinic Established.

The installation of a dental clinic has been one of the projects of the Cermak régime that has attracted professional attention. Here eight dentists are employed in a perfectly equipped special building, working on the teeth of children sent in by the various social service agencies. Much preventive work is accomplished here, although the service is still inadequate in point of size.

Whenever Cermak has found a problem confronting him in a field beyond his knowledge he has appointed a committee of the best people he could find in town to make recommendations to him.

The social service work which is behind many of the institutional activities is supervised regularly by an advisory committee made up of the best known social workers in Chicago.

Nurses are provided by contract with the newly organized Cook county school of nurses, a plan under which graduate nurses are placed in charge of each ward and students are trained under them.

Strict Tests for Internes.

The internes must be graduates of Cook county medical schools. Internship at the county hospital is one of the most sought after positions in post graduate work and only the best of the young doctors succeed in passing the rigid examinations for this appointment.

Outside doctors do the grading and the applicants are given three days to answer 30 questions. At the last examination only 74 out of the 350 who took the quiz passed it.

The new children's hospital is something for the county to regard with pride. In the entrance hall is this inscription:

"Reverently do I pledge myself to the whole hearted service of those whose care is entrusted to this hospital."

It is a sunny, cheerful place, with children from the age of a few days to the kindergarten size tucked away in the cleanest and brightest of white rooms, surrounded with bright colors, pictures and toys. The Sunbeam league, a private organization, keeps a woman here whose special job it is to decorate the walls and amuse the convalescents. The county employs another woman for the same purpose.

Coming from the homes of poverty, these children find all comfort and science at their disposal.

The general hospital, while lacking in many of the luxuries given the children, is still clean and comfortable. During last year more than 130,000 persons sought admittance to the hospital. One day last September 218 patients were admitted, the highest number on record. Of the 130,000 who applied, only 50,600 were admitted, after a selection based on the theory that those who were in most need must be given the beds.

Emergency Case Never Refused.

No case of emergency treatment is ever refused. It is the bureau of public welfare which must determine, after investigation, which patients should be admitted at once, those who may be looked after at home, and those who should be rejected because of their ability to pay for treatment, or other reasons.

The rejection of a person does not mean that that person is abandoned by the county, for the medical service is given free, not only in the hospital, but by a staff of 30 physicians in private practice, who take calls placed with the through the bureau of public welfare. The Visiting Nurse association aids in this work with follow-up care. The number of such calls made by physicians last year was 24,000.

RUSSIA TO PLACE 85,000 FARMS ON 'PIECE WORK'

Hard Worker to Get More than Shirkers.

MOSCOW, March 15.—(AP)—A new proposal to emphasize the dictum of "only those who work may eat" was presented today to the All-Union congress. It consists of plans for reorganization of all collective farms in soviet Russia along lines which seemingly resemble capitalistic methods but which are expected to achieve results in output far exceeding the five year plan.

In presenting the proposal to the congress, Commissar of Agriculture Yakubler said the communal farm movement already was a success, with more than 9,000,000 peasant families having joined the farms. However, he added that officials admitted there were numerous defects and unsolved problems in the present system.

Plan "Piece Work" System.

Under the new scheme the commissar of agriculture said the most difficult question—equalization of labor—was expected to be answered by introduction of the "piece work" system in more than 85,000 collectives. The standard of wages will be fixed in either money or commodities so that the man who works hard will receive more than the man who does not.

Previously the trouble has been that peasant families joining the collective farms have made certain contributions of live stocks and farm equipment to the common fund. Many of these then did as little work as possible, while the industrious ones performed an undue portion of the work. This resulted in the government's not receiving the percentage of grain to which it was entitled under the provisions of the collective farm plan. At the same time the slack worker would share equally with the hard toilers in the proceeds.

The "piece work" system already is in use in a number of soviet factories and experiments recently were made of the method on collective farms with excellent results, according to Yakubler.

Will Care for Children.

The reorganization plan, while contemplating the maximum labor of every ablebodied man and woman on the farm, will provide a separate fund to care for the children and the sick and injured.

Yakubley told the congress many of the hated kulaks [rich peasant farmers] are on their last legs. He cited figures showing they sold 126,000,000 pounds of grain in the fiscal year of 1926-'27, while last year the government obtained from the collective farms 487,000,000 pounds.

"The problem of agriculture is already solved," Yakubley declared, "and the day of the kulak is passing. In many districts he has already disappeared."

Kulaks Exiled to Siberia.

Although he did not explain what has been done with these kulaks, it is understood the majority have been exiled to the northern districts and Siberia where they are permitted to make a living by manual labor or in opening up barren tracks of lands.

In an effort to relieve the labor shortage in the coal mines, the output of which is running behind the five year plan, the council of the people's commissars today issued an edict granting various privileges and extra rations to peasant farmers who will contract to work underground for not less than a year. A general increase in the salary of miners was announced last month, so the added inducements of food and clothing and other commodities is hoped to bring out the much needed workers.

KILLS SUSPECT IN ATTEMPT TO ATTACK GIRL, 12

Suspected of attempting to attack a 12 year old orphan girl, Dominic Strangio, 40 years old, was shot six times and killed yesterday at 1709 Adams street, Gary, by his landlord, Vincent Frasca, 27 years old. Frasca's wife, Mary, assisted in trapping Strangio.

Late in the afternoon, the Frascas left home to visit a friend near by, leaving June Thomas, 12 years old, and her sister, Charlotte, 10 years old, and Louise Ferrara, 13 years old, daughter of a neighbor, alone. The Thomas girls, orphans, are being reared by the Frascas.

While playing, June walked into a bedroom. Strangio followed her, and locked the door. Her screams routed her sister and Louise in terror, and they summoned Frasca. He and his wife ran home. Strangio tried to escape through a rear door, but Mrs. Frasca pushed him inside the house, where he was caught and shot by her husband. Strangio was armed.

LOCATE STOLEN CAR THAT KILLED PARK POLICEMAN

Auto of Former Sheriff Is Found Abandoned.

An abandoned automobile, stolen from the garage of former Sheriff Charles E. Graydon, and believed to have figured in the killing yesterday morning of a policeman of the Irving Park district park system, and the injuring of his companion, was recovered yesterday at Oakley boulevard and Emmerson avenue. Blood stains and fender dents, coupled with a description, convinced police it was the death car.

The machine, containing four joyriders, two women and two men, struck Patrick J. Murray, 57 years old, 3456 North Avers avenue, the policeman, and his friend, Peter Novak, 60 years old, 3448 North Avers avenue, at Crawford avenue and Byron street. Murray died instantly. Novak was critically hurt. The machine sped on. According to police, the automobile was taken from the ex-sheriff's garage at 2916 West Lake street by two bandits who slugged a Negro attendant.

Crossing Southport avenue in the middle of the street near School street, Charles Schwagel, 66 years old, 1332 School street, was struck and killed yesterday by the automobile of Anton Aleason, 4850 North avenue. This death increased the Cook county motor toll to 237 for the year.

One man and a boy were killed, and another man and a girl were injured last night when their automobile was demolished by a South Shore electric train at the Holliday street crossing in Michigan City, Ind. The fatality victims were John Fitzpatrick, 32 years old, driver of the car, and Earl Wilkens, 14 years old. The injured are Donald Walter, 28 years old, and Loaella Wilkens, 13 years old, sister of Earl. All lived in Michigan City.

O, BE IT EVER SO HUMBLE, THIS IS 'HOME' IN RUSSIA

Here's an Evening with Ma, Pa, and Little Ivan.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW, Feb. 17.—[By Mail.]—Living in a "corner" is not leading the life of Riley, but it has its advantages and confers a lot of laughs except to the hardened cynic.

A "corner" lodger is a man, or mabye a woman, who rents the corner of a room in which some happy family is domiciled in one chamber of what was formerly an apartment.

Six feet or so above the floor, depending on how high the ceiling is, in the angle formed by two of the walls, a shelf is solidly constructed and that forms the bed, like the upper berth in a Pullman, except that it doesn't fold up, and the mattress is usually some cotton ticking.

Lodger Always Has a Chair.

Below the bunk is a chair, always a chair, and sometimes in de luxe corners where the lodger has lots of company there are two chairs. Sometimes there is a tiny table, and always there is a box or chest or some receptacle where he keeps his belongings.

There is no chalk line marked out on the floor to demarcate clearly the exact confines of the corner boarder's domain, and his—or her—access to the rest of the room depends largely on how much of the floor is occupied with other pallets, tables, chairs, bureaus or other furniture, and also on the degree of friendship in his—or her—relationship with the proprietor of the room.

What "Home" Is Like.

The "corner lodger" whose diggings I visited today works in a state cooperative and is married, though not actively engaged in it. He slept in the cellar beneath the state shop during the summer, but when autumn came and the weather grew cold he decided he needed a real home. A friend put him in touch with a married couple with a 10 year old child who needed extra money. They rented him the corner for $10 a month.

We went "home" about 6 o'clock and the rest of the family were there, papa and mama and the kid. Ma was busy in the community kitchen, what had been the kitchen in the apartment house, and was now used by the six families who occupied the six rooms of the flat. She was getting supper on the kerosene stove.

"Big Greeting."

There were big greetings when we went in, with introductions and handshakings all around, even with the kid, and then the landlord proceeded with the task he was busy on, sewing a lot of extra cotton batting into his overcoat, already bulging with tufted quiltwork.

"Sit down," said my host, and pointed to one of two chairs under the bunk in his corner.

We had to sit down, because you couldn't stand under the bed as the ceiling was only about eight feet high and the berth was installed about five feet from the floor.

"Pretty good job," remarked my host as I examined his "upper." "We put that up ourselves. I got the wood from a packing case in the store."

Some of the boards still bore the stencil of the Red Triangle Rubber Co-op of Leningrad, and had contained a shipment of galoshes.

He took off his felt boots and unwound some rags twisted round his legs, revealing a pair of pretty dirty feet, and then carefully withdrew a pair of gaunt gray sox and some carpet slippers from a little box in the corner.

"When do we eat," he asked the landlord, who was still busy with his needle.

"Right away," said little Ivanovitch. He rushed out to the kitchen to tell me to get into high gear.

They put four soup plates on the table and four tablespoons. I was invited, but pa didn't eat home. He had his big meal of the day at the company restaurant in the state electrical shop where he worked.

Cabbage and Potato Soup.

Pretty soon ma came in and they introduced me and we shook hands after she had set down a big toureen full of soup. It was bortsch, meaning cabbage and potato soup, but there was no cream to pour in it as in the swell Russian restaurants outside.

"I had bortsch with meat in it at the shop today," remarked pa.

"You lucky stiff," remarked the corner boarder, or words to that effect in Russian.

Little Ivan hauled a loaf of black bread from a cupboard containing clothes and what not, and the boarder cut off four fair sized pieces with his jackknife.

Soup Needs More Salt.

The soup was undoubtedly hot and was certainly cabbage and sure needed more salt.

Ma went out to the kitchen with a kettle and pretty soon came back with tea and Ivan put four glasses and four spoons on the table and then produced a cracked bowl of granulated sugar from the cupboard.

"Not a bad meal," remarked the boarder, and I agreed. The soup was not bad and the tea was pretty good, strong and hot.

"Last night we had pickled cucumbers," said Ivan.

"We will have meat on Sunday," remarked mamma grimly, to impress us with the importance of that.

"Horse meat?" I asked hopefully.

"Nitchevo," meaning nix, replied the boarder, "mutton—chachlyk."

That sounded pretty good, too. They serve chachlyk in Russian restaurants in Paris, bits of lamb or mutton skewered on the blade of a Cossack's sword, and with plenty of onions and horseradish.

"Dmitry is going out tomorrow," ma remarked to the boarder.

Dmitry, it seems, was a young man, a member of a large family who lived down the hall in what was originally the parlor of this flat.

"Who cares," I thought, wondering what was impressive about the fact Dmitry was going out. Then I caught on.

"Has he been sick or something?" I inquired.

"No, but tomorrow is his younger brother's day off from the office, so Dmitry can go out."

The Mystery Is Explained.

Dmitry has to stay home and mind the baby, I opined, thinking bitterly of those modern dancing mothers who go to card fights and neglect the infants. Wrong again.

"No, but Dmitry has no shoes and no overcoat and he can only go out when his brother stays home and lends him his," the boarder explained. "Dmitry can't go and look for a job because it's too cold to go out in carpet slippers and with no overcoat."

There was no denying that.

"Dmitry can get a job when we get warm weather," said ma, philosophically. "Then, if he can save enough during the summer to buy some boots and an overcoat he can keep working next winter."

That seemed a simple solution of Dmitry's troubles.

Never Had Any Shoes.

"Why doesn't Dmitry look for a job when he goes out tomorrow on his brother's day off," I inquired. Wrong again.

"Dmitry must go to the store to get food tomorrow," replied ma. "He will have to stand in line at three different shops and that will take all day."

Dmitry's father, it seemed, worked in the railroad yards, his mother was a conductress on a tramcar, his two younger brothers went to school, and his sister was a stenographer in a government office.

"How did Dmitry lose his overcoat and boots," I asked, since this was apparently a Dmitry evening.

"He didn't lose them, he never had any," replied pa, butting in to the conversation from his sewing. "They all grew up and there were never enough to go round, and as all the others had jobs except Dmitry, they had to wear the overcoats and boots that were there."

How to Get Into Bed.

I produced another package of cigarets and everybody dug in. Even little Ivan stuck one in his pan.

"How do you get up in bed?" I asked the corner man. I was tired of Dmitry's troubles.

"That's easy," answered the landlord hastily, crowding into the conversation again. "He puts that chair you're sitting on, on the other chair he's sitting on, and climbs right up, scat."

"That's why I get two chairs in my corner," explained the boarder.

I looked at the three-quarter bed, next to the table where pa and ma slept, and glanced around to see where little Ivan did his snoozing.

"He sleeps with us," said ma, then added, "he's only ten."

We were getting so chummy I decided to ask the question that had been perplexing me.

Sleep with Clothes On.

"Do you get undressed before you climb up to bed, or after you get up there?" I asked the boarder. I had recollections of contortionists and acrobatics in upper berths in Pullmans in America.

A big laugh greeted that remark, however, even the ubiquitous little Ivan joining in, and the somber-eyed landlord had to lay down his needle to enjoy the question.

"Why we don't undress—any of us," explained the boarder. "When we open that little trap in the double window to get a bit of air before we go to bed, this room gets pretty cold."

I could believe that. The room was chilly already and only the hot soup had stopped my shivering.

"I take off my jacket," he continued, "and they all take off their outside clothes. Then we turn out the light," and he pointed to the bare electric bulb glowing over our heads, "and take off a few other things—my pants you know," and he grinned, "and we just hop into bed."

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved and neatest complete sets of answers in accordance with these rules. 5. Tune Tangle Crosswords are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 42. Then send them to "Tune Tangles," Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1718, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight, 15 days after Puzzle No. 42 has been printed.

LAST OF WEALTHY BUT MYSTERIOUS WENDELS BURIED

Little Old Lady Had Lived in Gloomy Mansion.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—A little old lady who lived all alone in an ancient, gloomy mansion beside the modernistic shop windows of 5th avenue was buried today with the similarity and frugality that had marked her life. She was Ella V. von E. Wendel, spinster and last of the family which built up a fortune of more than $100,000,000 in Manhattan real estate in three generations.

Ironically, the stares of the curious who had avoided all her secluded life followed her to her grave. There were throngs in the avenue outside the locked doors of the house at teeming 70th street, and curious eyes peered from the hillside in Trinity graveyard on upper Broadway, where she was buried.

Behind the grilled double door facing the avenue, Ella Wendel lay in a high necked black silk dress, such as she and the five sisters who died before her had worn from girlhood. There was a small wreath of orchids and lavender ribbon on the door, a nearer approach to vanity, perhaps, than Miss Wendel had known in all the 78 years of her life in the old house.

She lay in a severely plain coffin of walnut, under flickering gas lights, faintly illuminating the reception room of the faded "house of mystery." There were few flowers, no music and no discourse. Fewer than twenty persons were present and they were elderly, gray haired men and women. Outside a detachment of police reserves kept the spectators on the opposite sidewalk and all they could glimpse of the funeral of so famous and mysterious a person were old fashioned lawn curtains fluttering behind ancient wooden shutters.

All their lives the Wendels had avoided the curiosity of the public as sedulously as they had avoided extravagance and ostentation, but the crowd of Sunday strollers hung on passing comments as the handful of mourners arrived—an old lady in rustling black silks was helped from a 1910 automobile, a snowy haired old gentleman tapped with his cane and was admitted, one young woman with an elderly escort arrived.

Dark in Vast Reception Hall.

It was dark in the vast reception hall where an old grandfather clock ticked loudly in one corner against rich brown wall coverings. Heavy oak and walnut furniture added to the sombreness of the room. At the far end was a broad, winding staircase of carven walnut—possibly the only one of its kind left in the city.

Facing it was the coffin. There were a half dozen wreaths and a blanket of calla lilies on the coffin.

The Rev. Nathan Seagle, Episcopal minister and family pastor to the Wendels, stood among the mourners in the reception room. Tobey, Miss Wendel's pet white poodle, came slowly down the stairway, sniffed at the feet of the guests and stopped beside the minister, the only living person in the room known to the dog. Tobey wagged his tail in friendly greeting and sauntered over beside the coffin, where he lay down on the thick rug as near his mistress as he could get.

Brief Service of Prayers.

There was a brief service of prayers and readings from the Scriptures, and then the body of Ella Wendel was taken to the cemetery of Trinity parish on upper Broadway and placed beside the others of her family, beneath an unpretentious stone bearing only the inscription "1841—Wendel vault."

The little white poodle was left at home when its mistress was carried away. The crêpe was taken from the massive doors, the police reserves melted away. The avenue filled up again and went on about its customary Sunday afternoon activities.

With the final passing of the last of the Wendels, it became known that Ella Wendel had not lived her life of seclusion because of any promise to her only brother, as had been commonly thought. She was a recluse because she liked it, and she often went for walks on the avenue with Tobey, although none but her faithful servants knew it.

The will will be filed for probate tomorrow and the Wendel millions are expected to go to charity.

FOUR STUDENTS DIE WHEN TRAIN STRIKES AUTO ON A CROSSING

Springfield, Ill., March 15.—(AP)—A northbound Chicago and Alton train smashed into an auto on a crossing at Auburn, Ill., today, killing four high school students out for a ride.

Virgil O. Conlee of Carlinvil's, the driver; Charles Anderson, Carlinville, and Rachel Wilson of Auburn died instantly, and Ruth Riggs, Auburn, was injured fatally.

The four had left the Riggs home only a few minutes before the crash. There were no witnesses, but the engineer said Conlee evidently had not heard the warning signals.

ing him for three hours on Feb. 2, stated formally that he talked of hearsay matters and "no competent evidence whatsoever was given by him."

The Busy Day Starts.

The series of events, with the central point the custody of 5 year old Barbara Brunker and her 2 year old brother, Robert Henry, began at 5 a. m., when Mrs. Brunker awoke the butler, the nurse and the handy man who acts as gardener and chauffeur to inform them that they must get packed up at once, that she was going to Reno on a 10:30 train.

While the packing was in progress the nurse informed Miss Edith Henry, cousin of Mr. Brunker, of her plans. Before the two taxicabs and the baggage truck arrived Miss Henry had called Attorney Wolf in Chicago and told him that the trip was planned.

Next, at the request of Mr. Wolf, Chief Frank Tiffany went to the Brunker home and tried to convince Mrs. Brunker that she should not go to Reno, or at least that she should leave the children. He added that it was his duty to keep the children there.

To which the would-be fugitive replied that there was no law under which he could peform any such duty.

Chief Tiffany, nonplused, went to call up Mr. Wolf and was informed that Mr. and Mrs. Brunker had signed an agreement in November that they would leave the children in the family home and that under no circumstances would they be taken from Lake county. Mr. Wolf also disclosed that the Brunkers had each been living in the home during alternate months. One month Mrs. Brunker lived at the Deerpath inn and Mr. Brunker at home; the next month Mr. Brunker stopped at the hotel and Mrs. Brunker at home. It was all in writing, Mr. Wolf said; and it was the chief's duty to stop the flight. He agreed to take the responsibility for all action.

The Police Are Notified.

So Chief Tiffany called Highland Park and all the cities and villages down to and including Evanston, asking that Barbara and Robert Henry be halted. By Chief Maroney's orders Engdahl stopped the cabs; the baggage truck was halted at the command of Chief Peterson in Winnetka, but as nobody wanted to prevent the belongings of Mrs. Brunker going with her it passed on.

During the afternoon Mr. Wolf talked to Mr. Brunker in New York, and the rest of the corps of attorneys for his side conferred steadily on the situation in the home of Vaughan C. Spaulding, wealthy resident of Lake Forest.

"Mr. Brunker," said Attorney Wolf, "instructed us to do everything possible to keep the children in Lake county. He is opposed to any divorce. He will not sue Mrs. Brunker, and he will not be a party to a trumped up charge on which Mrs. Brunker might get a decree against him."

From the conference of the attorneys came direct legal action. They went during the evening to Judge Dady's home and obtained a temporary injunction restraining Mrs. Brunker and Miss Henry, who lives at the residence, from allowing the children to pass out of Lake county.

Sheriff Tiffany, a brother of the chief, took the document to read it to the two principals at the Brunker home. Mrs. Brunker, who had returned home at 9 p. m., was awakened by the butler. When she had heard the reading, she announced:

"You are too late with that paper. They should have had it when they kidnaped my children this morning. The cities of Lake Forest and Highland Park will pay plenty for the trouble they have caused me today. And . . . I am going to get a divorce."

With that, she swept up the stairs. Then she cried out to Sheriff Tiffany that Miss Henry was gone and so were the children.

The sheriff went to the Deerpath inn and found the trio. With them were the two mysterious men who had appeared at the Brunker residence during the afternoon with the announcement that Chief of Police William O. Freeman of Evanston had sent them. Chief Freeman denied that he knew anything about them and the men admitted that he was right. They had been sent on Mr. Brunker's orders to guard the children.

Attorney Bloomingston's only statement was that legal action would follow and that the police were guilty of kidnaping.

ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT JUDGES.

There are seven Supreme court districts, each electing a judge. These districts are now virtually as they were mapped in 1870. The Cook county district, the Seventh, contains also the counties of Will, Lake, Kankakee, and Du Page. Cook county alone contains over half the population of the state. The Seventh district has 57 per cent of it and elects one judge. The other six districts with 43 per cent of the population elect six judges.

The constitution contemplates that a rule of "equality of population" shall be used in the adjustment of the districts, but the rural politicians interpret the doctrine of "contiguous counties" to mean that a district shall be composed of more than one county and that one county cannot be divided into several districts. That interpretation is like others used to sustain other limitations of the metropolitan area in state government.

The unequal distribution of Supreme court judgeships has quite as much consequence as the restriction of Chicago's representation in the legislature. The district judges are elected from the bar in each district. The best lawyers are in Chicago, because the law practice is here. A downstate lawyer may seek election to the Supreme court as a means of entering Chicago law practice later. There have been several instances of this progression.

Not only is the Chicago bar productive of the best judicial personnel, but the important cases originate in the metropolitan area, for the same reason that the best lawyers are here. The cases arise out of the complexities of a highly organized society. Rural society is static or retrogressive, not only in population but in problems. The problems arise out of many contacts and out of progress. Development and advance bring issues of law affecting industry, commerce, and the social relations of men. The metropolitan area is mobile and the rural districts are immobile.

A country lawyer in his own environment, regardless of his native talents, is not in line for the experience open to a Chicagoan in the practice of law, but so long as the districts remain as they are country lawyers will provide six of the seven judges of the Supreme court.

That is not reasonable, it is not workable, it is not in accord with the purpose of the constitution, and it can and should be changed by a revival of the rule of "equality of population."

THREE FINGERED JACK CONVICTED.

The sentencing of Three Fingered Jack White to 14 years in the penitentiary for the killing of Policeman Pflaume of Forest Park is a substantial achievement. It proves what can be done toward the suppression of hoodlums and racketeering when the will to rid Chicago of criminals exists. It reflects credit upon the state's attorney and his assistants who conducted the prosecution.

White was convicted once before of the same murder. The Supreme court reversed that conviction on a technicality and sent the case back for a new trial. Thereupon the matter was dropped by the prosecution. For all practical purposes, White's slate was clean. The record might have continued to gather dust indefinitely had the public demand for relief from racketeering not forced the issue. Eventually White was again placed on his trial and again was found guilty, although this time the sentence was made appreciably lighter.

Fourteen years in prison is a mild penalty for murder, and there can be no doubt that of the two verdicts that of his first trial was the better. With good behavior White may expect to be back on the streets again in six or eight years. But even that sentence is better than nothing at all.

The double conviction is evidence that Cook county juries are prepared to punish murder even if that objective is not always reached.

THE SAINTS AS MEN OF PRINCIPLE.

Senator Bronson Cutting of New Mexico was chairman of the committee on return to representative government at the congress of progressive saints in Washington.

New Mexico, with less than four-tenths of 1 per cent of the population of the United States, has more than 2 per cent of the representation in the senate. It has well over five times the representation to which "a return to representative government" would entitle it.

Senator Norris of Nebraska comes from a state which has almost twice as much representation in the senate as its population would justify.

Senator Borah of Idaho comes from a state which has five times the representation in the senate which its population and the representative principle would warrant.

The report of Senator Cutting's committee dealt at some length with direct primaries and campaign expenses, but seems to have overlooked some matters.

MR. CROWLEY WOULDN'T DECEIVE US?

H. W. Pinkerton, an electrical engineer of the New York Central railroad, came to Chicago from Cleveland to demonstrate by moving pictures and descriptive comment the advantages of electrical operation of railroads. His auditors were 200 Chicago engineers. The pictures were of the Cleveland terminal of the New York Central and the Nickel Plate. Mr. Pinkerton was deservedly gratified to explain how the obstacles were met and the problems solved, and to describe the benefits which came to the city of Cleveland.

The eloquent engineer does not determine policy for the New York Central. He and his associates in the engineering department achieve it when other gentlemen in the management have determined it. Patrick H. Crowley is president of the railroad. Possibly Mr. Crowley and the directors are under a misapprehension. Chicago is not resisting electrification. Have the New York Central authorities been misinformed? Do they think that a campaign of education is required to bring this city to the point where it will permit electrical operation in new terminals? Chicago is willing to rid itself of smoke from the coal burners and to give its citizens and its travelers the conveniences and accommodations to which they are entitled, to have these modern improvements substituted for conditions ridiculous in the railroad center of the country and unworthy of first class railroads.

If this is Mr. Crowley's argument he wins it right now. He may shake hands on it and go to work. Until he does, the New York Central will not be a first class railroad in Chicago. Nor will any other of the roads which refuse to reform their ways. The New York Central is a first class railroad in Cleveland, which apparently to New York is its western terminus, probably the far west to the Hudson river view.

Mr. Pinkerton in his talk said that the Central and Nickel Plate were required by ordinance to electrify only two miles out of the terminal, but that they made it seventeen. "Required by ordinance" may have an illuminating significance to Chicago.

It is not at all likely that Mr. Crowley sent an engineer out here to razz the natives by showing them something which could be given them, but which was much too good for them. Improbable as it must appear, it will seem, in lack of any other explanation, that the eastern road wishes to overcome the inertia of Chicago, convince it of a mistake in policy and thus obtain permission for electrification. The point is carried. Mr. Pinkerton may move his headquarters to Chicago.

A SHIP THAT CAN'T ROLL.

The great liners can butt their way in safety through even such a storm as has been reported off the coast of Europe in the last few days, but it is a miserable experience for the passengers. A few supermen and superwomen can boast that they didn't feel a qualm, but to the rest it is a nightmare. The dispatches say that the 242 passengers who disembarked from the Europa at Cherbourg "were much the worse for wear and tear." To any one who has undergone a similar experience the phrase will seem ridiculously inadequate.

A great storm at sea will always be an unpleasant experience to most travelers, but we may be approaching the day when its discomforts will be considerably lessened. The Lloyd Sabaudo's new liner, Conti di Savoia, if the calculations of its designers are proved correct, will never roll more than 5 degrees, a negligible movement, no matter how heavy the cross seas into which it is driven. A few yachts and a 10,000 ton airplane carrier have been similarly equipped, but the application of the gyroscopic principle to a 50,000 ton liner is, in large measure, an adventure into the unknown. The designers are confident that the gyroscopes will prove far more effective than the Framm tanks with which some of the German liners have been equipped.

The doubters present two objections. The stabilizers, they say, occupy too much room, but this objection might well be of more importance on a yacht than on a giant liner. A more serious point is that the stabilizers place an undue strain upon the ship. Engineering calculations apparently make light of this objection, but the calculations have yet to be reinforced by experience. The prayers of prospective travelers will go with the ship's designers.

The cost of the stabilizers is relatively small. Those for the Conti di Savoia will add about a million dollars to the cost of the ship and perhaps $80 a day to the cost of operation, but if they prove effective it is not to be doubted that the investment will be a sound one. The great majority of travelers will be delighted to pay a premium to ride on a ship which does not roll.

Economic recovery the world over will be hastened by improvements such as this. The creation of new goods and new comforts which the public, once apprised of, will insist upon having will provide employment and profits. It is doubtful if any other expedient will serve as well.

Editorial of the Day

MR. WICKERSHAM CAPS THE CLIMAX.

[New York Post.]

The atmosphere of chicanery which has surrounded the Wickersham commission since its very inception was given its final unpleasant tinge by the commission's chairman in his Boston speech recently. Mr. Wickersham scolded the wets for their criticism of the report saying that it was more wet than dry. He also scolded an unnamed New Yorker for saying that the famous "summary" was given out ahead of the report itself. But with that same lack of candor which has distinguished this whole performance he distinctly refrained from explaining or even mentioning the false impression created by having a dry summary of a wet report. And to all intents and purposes it was separated from the report, because the press associations at once put it on the wire in the natural belief that it gave a true picture of the 85,000 words of the document itself. In many parts of the country, therefore, amongst the smaller newspapers, it is all that was printed of the commission's voluminous findings. Every speech or interview given by Mr. Wickersham concerning his commission, from the very beginning of its work, has been an indiscretion or worse. His final word caps the climax.

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE IDES OF MARCH HAVE COME, CÆSAR—

and so let's have a look around. We're having winter this spring, but we had spring last winter, so who cares! Canada is going to enact a still higher tariff law and soak our products so hard we're liable to lose a juicy market. No fair! High tariffs are all right for the U. S. A., but not for anybody else. We'll have to put another amendment to the constitution forbidding Canada from putting any tax on our goods whatever. And if that doesn't hold 'em then we'll scare 'em to death. All we've got to do is to start a lot of talk about annexing Canada. That'll make 'em be good. Of course, very privately, we wouldn't annex Canada on a bet. We've got to have some place to go where we can drink a glass of beer without being handcuffed and dragged to the hoosegow. And, another thing; with Canada annexed our greatest basic industry would be put out of business; suppose we had bootleggers and rum runners starving on our hands, too. We've got enough depression right now. And if Canada were a part of this country, where would our auto tourists go in summer? No, we've got to have one free country left on this side of the Atlantic. But don't tell Canada. Tell 'em that if they hike up their tariff we'll annex 'em. Just to scare 'em. But, between ourselves, we want to keep Canada just as it is. It's a sort of bird sanctuary for tired Americans.

NEW YORK has jumped on an industrious policeman who saved $35,800 in two years out of a salary of $3,000. We think a policeman with a large and steadily growing family who could save even two hundred dollars a year would be entitled to credit; but, indeed, much more credit should be given the prudent officer who, out of $3,000, manages to save $35,800. It would take very skillful management and much painful economy to do so. He probably had to give up cigarets and shine his own shoes.

And probably some of them will dislocate their jaws doing it or suffer sprains and minor injuries. But, gosh! they'll do their darndest.

IS YOUR TOWN SAFE?

THIS article is written for citizens rather than for individuals, and especially for mayors, aldermen, and commissioners of public works.

That typhoid has become unimportant is generally accepted. That the individual should so accept it is a justified conclusion. Not so the city fathers and the citizens who pay taxes and vote in elections. Especially is this true of the officials of cities of five thousand or less. They are playing with powder.

Nollman and Gorman got together the typhoid histories of American and Canadian cities during the last ten years. In order to make the showing more nearly reflect the danger they combined epidemics of water borne diarrhea with those of typhoid. Nine cities have been held financially responsible, in large sums, for spreading typhoid or diarrhea among their citizens. This is nearly one a year. This does not include verdicts for small amounts. In at least one city the government had to sell bonds in large amounts to pay the judgments. The list does not include corporations that had to pay excessive damages for typhoid caused by industrial water supplies, imperfect cross connections, and leaky mains. The study covered 282 outbreaks in which there were nearly one hundred thousand cases of the two diseases and 775 deaths.

One small city had two epidemics of typhoid due to exactly the same cause at an interval of two years. When the first epidemic occurred the cause was found and corrected and the authorities promised it would never happen again. Just two years later they forgot and the previous experience was duplicated. Five cities repeated their epidemics due to the same cause. It took a double dose of disaster to convince those who were responsible.

Four other cities were more unfortunate and more culpable than their five erring sisters. These five repeated their epidemics but, in each instance, the two bracketed epidemics were due to different causes. In most cases the trouble arose from using untreated water that was unfit for that use when water works were installed or had been allowed to become polluted later on. In four cases out of ten the water works had been properly placed and planned, but the men operating the plants had fallen down on the job somewhere. There was some defect in collecting, storing, or distributing water, or in filtering it, chlorinating it, or in some other part of the water works.

Most of the trouble occurred in cities of five thousand inhabitants or fewer. Unprotected cross connections between fire plugs and hydrants, or in industrial plants, were responsible for much of the trouble.

RECESSES AND WILL POWER.

E. C. writes: I was interested in your recent article about a recess from dieting, especially where it referred to an occasional recess for those who are dieting for diabetes. According to the literature that the writer has read the warning has always been never to break the diet. From the writer's own experience it has been dangerous to break away, as it is always harder to keep in the harness afterwards. More than once, on the strength of some such statement as yours, the writer tried some experiments but always paid the price. When people call a diabetic's attention to statements made in papers by various authorities it makes him feel that he is unduly strict with his diet. No one likes to be considered finicky or cranky and so one is inclined to fling caution to the winds and go on a spree, which can prove both uncomfortable and expensive to the diabetic. The makers of insulin stress the importance of dieting, so that I cannot understand the advice of recess from dieting for diabetes.

MUST HAVE DECLARATION.

Chicago, March 7.—[Friend of the People.]—Can a man claiming exemption during the world war because of alienage take out citizenship papers now?

A. U. C.

If the man did not withdraw his declaration of intention in order to avoid military service, he may apply for naturalization under the general law. That is, he must have a declaration of intention at least two years, but not more than seven years old, before he can apply for naturalization.

A NATURAL REQUEST.

Chicago, March 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a bank messenger, 19 years of age, and I would like to get a permit to carry a pistol during my work.

1. What requirements would I have to comply with in order to get this permit?
2. To whom would I have to go?
3. Is there any fee; how much it is?

F. W. M.

Chapter 38, Sec. 155 of Smith-Hurd Illinois Revised Statutes provides: "No person shall carry concealed on or about his person a pistol, revolver or other firearm. This provision does not apply, however, to the following officers . . . nor to the following employés or agents while engaged in the discharge of the duties of their employment: Conductors, baggagemen, messengers, drivers, watchmen, special agents, and policemen employed by railroads or express companies."

RADIO ON TIME.

Chicago, March 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. A bought a radio and made regular payments. On Feb. 1 he sent a payment which was lost in the mail. He sent $1 on the missing payment with the regular payment on Feb. 17 and promised to catch up within the next two pays. 2. The company say they will garnishee his wages for the $4. Can this be done? We have always made our payments. 3. Can they garnishee for the full amount of almost $100?

M. H.

1. The question whether the loss is his or the company's depends on all of the facts as to whether payment by mail was authorized.
2. It probably can.
3. Depends on the wording of the contract.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 16, 1915.

LONDON.—The admiralty announced that the German cruiser Dresden, which has been sought for three months by warships of the allies, has been sunk. The sinking was accomplished by the British warships Glasgow and Kent and the converted cruiser Orama, near Juan Fernandez island in the Pacific, 400 miles off the Chilean coast. After five minutes' fighting the Dresden's colors were hauled down. The ship had been set on fire, its magazine exploded, and the vessel sank. The 320 members of the crew, including 15 badly wounded, were saved. None of the British ships was damaged.

VIENNA.—It is understood that three German army corps are on their way to Trent, the chief city of Austrian Tyrol, near the northern boundary of the Italian province of Venice. In some quarters this is taken to mean that the Italo-German negotiations are nearing an end.

ROME.—Events are occurring which give increasing force to the belief that Italy will enter the war on the side of the allies within a very short time. In the house of deputies the defense of the state bill, one of the most drastic measures ever introduced in the Italian parliament, was passed by a vote of 234 to 34.

BERLIN.—New regulations restricting the number of automobiles in Berlin went into effect today, leaving the city almost without this class of vehicle. Beginning tomorrow, about half of the night street cars will be taken off and all the autobus lines, except one, will be abolished.

PHILADELPHIA. — Secretary of State Bryan furnished the idea and Billy Sunday furnished the men for one of the greatest temperance demonstrations ever staged in this or any other country. Mr. Bryan made one of the most eloquent addresses of his career before 15,000 men in the Billy Sunday tabernacle and following the address 12,000 of the men stood up like soldiers on review and signed pledges of total abstinence.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. Lucia D. Farwell, widow of Marcus A. Farwell, one of Chicago's pioneer wholesale grocers and founder of Oakwoods cemetery, died at the home of her son, R. S. Farwell, on Warwick road, Kenilworth, at the age of 80.

MARCH 16, 1901.

NEW YORK.—Andrew Carnegie has offered to the city of New York $5,200,000 with which to build 65 branch libraries, on condition that the city will furnish the sites and pay the cost of maintenance. St. Louis, Mo., is to receive $1,000,000 for a new library and branches, on conditions similar to those usually made by Mr. Carnegie.

NEW YORK.—J. Pierpont Morgan has given $100,000 toward liquidating the debt of the city branch of the Young Men's Christian association. The sum required is $300,000.

CHICAGO.—Franklin MacVeagh, president of the Municipal Art league, told the council committee that the rich are responsible for the smoke nuisance in Chicago. He said: "The wealthy can leave the city if they want to, and they are leaving it in great numbers. They will not live among smoke and dirty streets."

CHICAGO.—Twenty-six passengers on the Goodrich line steamer Indiana, bound from Chicago to Milwaukee, held on for life from 2 o'clock yesterday morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon while the ship, with its rudder gone, rolled helpless in the path of a north gale off Racine. They were rescued by two ships just as the big wooden vessel struck on the sandy bottom.

CHICAGO.—Thomas Bates, mayor of Evanston and nominee of the recent Republican convention of the suburb for a second term, withdrew from the spirited contest and declared his intention of supporting Ald. James A. Patten in his struggle against Ald. George E. Gooch, the Democratic nominee. Mayor Bates found the contest was becoming too personal.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 16, 1881.

LONDON.—The armistice between the Boers and the British has been extended four days. Meanwhile, the Boers are receiving reinforcements. About 1,000 farmers of the Orange Free State are said to have joined them during the last four days.

BERLIN.—Count Herbert Bismarck has eloped with Princess Elizabeth of Carolath-Beuthen, a lady of 36 who has a daughter of 14. Both are known to have been in Messina, Sicily, about two weeks ago. She is the wife of Prince Charles of Carolath-Beuthen, count of Schonarch and chief of one of the first Prussian families. The prince will sue for divorce. The waywardness of his son is said to be the cause of Prince Bismarck's recent irritability.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Brevet Major General Emory Upton, U. S. A., was found dead in his bed at the Presidio, having shot himself through the head some time during the night. It is believed that grief over the loss of his wife was the motive for the suicide.

ST. PETERSBURG.—The body of the assassinated Czar Alexander has been embalmed and is now lying in the uniform of the Preobraschenski regiment. The remains will lie in state in the royal palace for fifteen days. A nihilist placard proclaiming death to Alexander and warning his successor that if he did not adopt a liberal policy he would share his father's fate was posted on the walls of St. Petersburg.

CHICAGO.—Dr. A. Thuemmler and Miss Nettie N. Crandall were married on March 15 by the Rev. E. P. Goodwin.

FOR THE RAILROADS.

Chicago, March 11.—In yesterday's TRIBUNE J. F. W. at great length airs his views on train travel. I wish to heartily disagree with this gentleman, as to me one of the blessings of the day is the comforts and conveniences afforded by railway travel. My work necessitates some traveling and I will not go more than ten miles by auto or bus. The train has every convenience one finds in the modern home, it runs smoothly, no detours, and gets you to your destination safely and quickly.

One may have a little difficulty if one has a great deal of luggage, but why not be cheerful about it? It isn't the fault of the taxi driver, the red cap or others if we take a lot of baggage with us.

Then a word for the red caps. On one of my recent trips I met a lady who was coming from India, crossing our country from California to New York. Her home was in Scotland, and this was her first trip across the United States. She made a number of stops en route, filling speaking engagements. The first thing she said to me was something like this: "I have almost daily thanked God for the red caps in your country! I do not know what I would have done without them. The small tip one gives them is nothing compared with the comfort and peace of mind enjoyed when those boys so efficiently take care of your baggage and see that you get on the right train." She also complimented our railroad service.

MINNIE L. PETERSON.

THE CRIMINAL LAW.

Chicago, March 11.—The jury arrived at a compromise penalty. With the harrowing facts surrounding the girl's death, coupled with the boy's confession, what could the defense have expected better than a life verdict? On the other hand, in a case where death resulted from a combination of circumstances growing out of a gin party of young couples, how could the state feel that a jury was apt to impose a death verdict?

Why, at the start, could not the attorneys on each side have thrashed out these matters and saved the families of the principals the agonizing experiences they have just endured remains one of the mysteries of criminal jurisprudence.

The Indiana populace may have demanded a jury trial. They may have insisted upon twelve men deciding the fate of the accused. But in obtaining that satisfaction, they crucified two families. A morbid public followed the details of the trial with intense zeal. But that didn't relieve the suffering of the families. Neither did it serve to edify the readers. CHARLES C. ARADO.

A JURY OF HIS PEERS.

Chicago, March 11.—There is a law in this land that a man should be tried by a jury of his peers. Certainly, the elderly men who composed the Kirkland jury cannot by any stretch of the imagination be called his peers. Let Virgil Kirkland be tried by a jury of young men and women and see what the verdict would be.

ANOTHER EX-CO-ED.

OLD STUFF.

Chicago, March 12.—I have been listening to our mayor's radio talks. I wonder if there is any way to make him turn over the record or get a new one. We have heard just about enough of the famous school holiday to be held Oct. 9, and like all good humor, it gets stale after about the tenth telling.

He always mentions the great inspiration he received last October, when he saw the massed bands of the high schools march down the hill and then play the national anthem. If I remember right, the bands of the high schools were already in the stadium when the mayor and his guest arrived, and it was the massed federation musicians who played the national anthem. As the band was playing the flags from the aerial bombs started to flutter down into the stadium and then the R. O. T. C. showed their discipline by breaking ranks while the "Star Spangled Banner" was being played to chase the bits of bunting. H. C. HODGES.

THEN AND NOW.

St. Charles, Ill., March 6.—"If liquor was cheaper, better in quality, and easier to get, does any sane person believe that young people would drink less than now?" asks Mrs. Kate Hale. The answer is: 25 years ago the young people drank much less under those very conditions. J. A. CHARTULLY.

THE LAKE STREET "L."

Chicago, March 13.—Will some one explain why west siders who use the Lake street elevated get the poorest service in the city? At 10:30 last night a two car train leaving the loop was jammed to the doors. The next train was likewise jammed, with barely room enough for straphangers to stand in. On sidetracks near Hamlin avenue stood at least 100 empty cars.

This morning trains leaving Oak Park around 8:30 and 9 o'clock were packed with straphangers before they reached Central avenue. As our train passed Hamlin avenue I counted 25 empty cars on a side track.

Other parts of the city get express service in evening hours, but only slow local trains operate on Lake street. Even during rush hours most of the west bound express trains pass up only five stations along the entire route.

There may be some excuse for crowded trains during rush hours, but there cannot be the slightest excuse for such conditions during nonrush hours, with a string of idle cars on sidings.

FAVORED CAR LINES.

Chicago, March 13.—Why do Broadway and Clark street get all the new warm, comfortable cars, while old junk, second handed cars are put on other lines?

A. J. S.

ABOUT MILK.

Chicago, March 11.—I see by THE TRIBUNE that the farmers have pledged improved milk for Chicago. Under the prevailing practice I doubt very much their ability to do so.

We have a city ordinance requiring that all milk delivered in our city shall have a certain percentage of butter fat. It is the practice of some dealers when they find the milk is richer in butter fat than the ordinance calls for to remove enough so that it is still safely above the requirements of the ordinance.

Under such conditions no matter how high the milk is in butter fat it is only the middleman who gets the benefit of it. It would be very poor milk indeed that would not come up to the requirements. Even Holsteins, that give a big mess of milk, will run over it. At the same time the big dealers are hollering all the time for better milk. If the health department inspected the milk as received by the dealers and then what they deliver we might get better milk. As it now is the consumer does not get what the producer ships.

C. O.

NO BONUS AS YET.

Chicago, March 12.—I wonder how many of the veterans have received their bonus checks? Ask any of the men selling apples and newspapers on the street corners whether they have received their bonus checks. That is a good test of whether the needy have been taken care of, as these men are nearly all married and have families to support on about $1.50 per day.

W. H. CARROLL.

BRINGING IN THE COAL.

Chicago, March 7.—When the city of Chicago buys coal for its firehouses the coal company dumps it in the alley and the firemen on duty must put it in the basement. I have been told that the coal trimmers report at 3 o'clock in the morning and sit in line waiting for work of this kind. Now is it fair that the firemen should do the work that these men are waiting to do? The coal is delivered in twenty to fifty ton lots, so it is quite an item for these men.

A FIREMAN.

WAITING FOR THE MOVIES.

Wilmette, Ill., March 12.—I was very much interested in Miss Tinée's review of Charles Chaplin's latest picture, "City Lights." This picture has been shown all around Chicago, but not in it, and has been shown in London, Berlin, and other foreign cities, as evidenced by the newspaper reports of Mr. Chaplin's attendance at the premiere showings in these various cities.

Why the delayed showing in Chicago? When our country cousins from New Lisbon or Junction City come to visit us, the movies are out as far as entertainment is concerned. They have seen all the pictures we have to offer them.

NEW CONGRESS WILL BE ASKED FOR TREATY NAVY

Pacifists Plan to Block Construction.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Studies looking toward the preparation of a new naval construction program for submission to the 72d congress already are under way in the navy department, it was learned today. All indications are that the plan which finally will go to the senate and house naval committees will provide for the construction of warships involving a total expenditure of something less than a quarter of a billion dollars.

Immediately after congress adjourned without acting on the $74,000,000 cruiser, aircraft carrier, and submarine construction bill, Chairman Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.] of the senate naval affairs committee announced that steps would be taken in December to secure the enactment of a bill carrying all the ships needed to bring this country up to parity with Great Britain. Such a program would have called for the expenditure of approximately 500 million dollars on new warships up to the end of the London treaty on Dec. 31, 1936.

Pacifists Fight All Building.

Since that time, however, the pacifist opposition which forced the administration to drop its $74,000,000 bill, carrying the first year's installment of a program designed to bring the United States up to treaty strength in ten years, has again become active. As revealed here by the National Council for Prevention of War, the pacifist plan of procedure is to be one of urging that no new naval building legislation be enacted until after the league's disarmament conference, which meets at Geneva in January, 1932. Success for this strategy, which has worked when other conferences were in session or in prospect, would mean adoption of no program at all next year.

Within the last few days Senator Hale and Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] of the house naval committee have spent some time discussing the type of program which could be introduced next winter with the best chance of success. They have now decided to meet in Washington some time in May or June when the navy general board completes its new program, discuss the building plans with the secretary of the navy and high ranking admirals and attempt at that time to reach agreement on a program which can be immediately announced to the country.

Britten for Partial Program.

"I believe that a 200 million dollar program, including several aircraft carriers, a few flying deck cruisers, a number of submarines and some destroyers will be the best type of bill to introduce," Mr. Britten said today. "Enactment of this bill would give us the ships we want to lay down in 1932 and 1933. I believe that if we ask congress to approve a reasonably sized program we will have a better chance of success than if we ask for the full treaty program, a matter of several hundred millions of dollars."

Last year the navy general board, after exhaustive study of American needs under the London treaty, recommended enactment of a five year program involving the expenditure of just under 100 millions annually on new warship construction until the end of the London treaty. The navy department, after conferring with President Hoover and congressional leaders, sent a bill to congress carrying one year's installment of this program.

As the one year program failed, the naval general board may decide to compress its old five year program into a four year program and recommend that it be submitted to congress for adoption. Such a bill would involve the expenditure of just under half a billion dollars.

Claim Adam and Eve "Were Happy"; So 6,000 Go Naked

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 15.—"It is my intention to go naked as many days of the year as possible; I shall try to induce others to do the same."

This is part of a credo signed by 6,000 German men and women of high reputation. This number increases every week, and Germany's National Association of Free Body Culture enjoys the same serious consideration as thousands of cultural and religious groups so dear to the German heart. The association has strict rules and possesses the legal protection of officialdom given to all legally inscribed clubs. Its members hold that Adam and Eve knew more about health than all the subsequent generations. They allowed every inch of their skin to breathe freely, unhampered by clothes, which not only cripple the skin, but also thwart man's mental development, these naked culturists declare. Therefore their slogan is "Away with all clothes—to be naked is to be happy!"

Beneficial to Mentality.

The movement is almost a religion. President Charles Straesser today declared it his firm conviction that "free body culture" can help many thousands become stronger physically and mentally.

"Air and sun, teaching the skin to breath again, help the physically weak," he said. "The association's men, women and children have freed themselves of old prejudices and are seriously seeking a more harmonious and natural life. It has helped many a newcomer to get rid of his lack of self-confidence, his thwarted views on life, and thus become happier."

The "naked culturists" gather once a week in winter in Berlin's most modern swimming establishment. They sit in the coffee house galleries surrounding the pool, sipping their coffee, milk, or beer, without a stitch of clothing on their bodies.

Others playing pingpong or sporting themselves in the pool or sunning themselves in the rays of an artificial sun are equally forgetful of the lack of clothes or pretense of clothes. Only the lifeguards and the waiters wear clothes.

Naked Among Naked Natural.

"To go naked among people who wear clothes would shame one to death," explained President Straesser. "To wear clothes among those who are naked would be sinful. But to be naked among the naked is the most natural, and morally sane thing one can do."

The lifeguards went further:

"Free culturists are much easier to watch than some of the regular customers of the pool with their pretense of wearing clothes. There is only one point which forces us to interfere occasionally—we don't like our guests to sit on the tables, and these free culturists don't mind where they sit. But with the other crowd, with their so-called sun tanning bathing suits, we sure have to do a lot of coughing, accidental pushing when we see a romance getting out of bounds and we want to be tactful about it."

"Promotes Good Fellowship."

Herr Straesser and the leading members of the movement insist that the general atmosphere of good fellowship among naked men and women is partly due to the fact that only real believers in "the higher things in life" are allowed to become members. The guests must sign a pledge—swear that they realize the high standard of morality set by the organization, that they are "giggle proof," and in no manner will lessen the dignity of the meeting.

The naked culturists, who prefer the open air and who don't fear ice nor cold, can go to the association's gardens in the suburb of Lichterfelde.

To Break Up a Cold In a Jiffy

Feel Like a New Person In Just a Little While

People have found out that newfangled ideas and notions don't break up colds. So millions have turned back to first principles and use what they know breaks one up in a jiffy. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to trifle with.

The thing to do is to get Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon you'll start to feel like a new person. Things will loosen up, your head will clear; aching go—you'll be back on the job with a wallop.

Get Hill's now. It is a scientific formula made to do one thing well: to knock a cold—not to cure a thousand ailments. Get your money back if it doesn't work with twice the speed of anything else you've ever tried.

COAL TEAMSTERS STAND ON OUSTER OF 'RED' BARKER

With considerable nonparliamentary shouting, several hundred members of the Coal Teamsters, hikers, and Helpers union, at a storm meeting in the Capital building yesterday, reaffirmed their action of a week ago in ousting their former officers, including the imprisoned racketeer, George [Red] Barker, and electing a new group.

The first uproar came when George McGregor and George Jiroch were elected trustees of the union's benefit fund, defeating a Negro candidate, J. M. Morse. The defeated candidate arose to protest and there were shouts for him to sit down.

James Lynch Takes Charge.

When the pencil taps of the new president, George Roy Baker, failed to restore order, the business agent, James [Lefty] Lynch, took command. Lynch, who founded the union years ago and was business agent until Barker's gunmen wounded him thrice, proved himself master of the situation. The defeated Morse concluded his speech with a plea for fair play.

Another storm burst when a group of south side members, sitting in the rear, began to berate Lynch for present conditions in the union, emphasizing the prevailing long hours and alleged low wages. The climax came when one member declared that among the newly elected officers was one who had once taken a $25 bribe to secure a teamster a job.

Demands Officer's Name.

Lynch, who had disdained to defend himself from personal attacks, challenged the member to name the officer he accused. It developed that the charge was hearsay, the alleged payer of the bribe being confined in jail, serving 16 days for disorderly conduct.

Upon Lynch's urging the member finally named the suspected officer as Frank Casper, whom the members had elected last Sunday as chairman of the trustees. Casper arose and denied the accusation, asserting he had never taken a bribe in his life. Amidst a turmoil of members, all demanding to be heard at once, the officers agreed to have formal charges filed against Casper, leaving the dispute to be threshed out at the next meeting on April 12, when, it was hoped, the jailed member could appear to make his charges at first hand.

AIR MAIL PILOT LOST; MAKES A FORCED LANDING

Emmett Barnes, air mail pilot, lost his bearings in snow and fog while flying from Cincinnati to the Municipal airport yesterday morning and made a forced landing at 131st street and Kean avenue, south of Palos Park. The wheels of the Stearman biplane, owned by the Emery-Riddle company of Cincinnati, a division of American Airways, Inc., mired in the mud as the ship landed, flinging the plane on its back.

Pilot Barnes, who was strapped in the cockpit, escaped injury. Only a few struts of the plane were sprung. Barnes telephoned the county highway police at Homewood. Lieut. Robert E. Seiter and Sergts. John Orgel and John Salvatori aided in the removal of the mail bags by truck to the airport. Barnes was due at the airport at 7 a. m. and was forced to land.

by cable . . . by telegraph . . . by telephone . . . by visiting Paris designers. The newspapers are full of it . . . the magazines are full of it . . . the radio is full of it . . . and every woman consequently is full to overflowing with it!

From one source she hears that color is everything this season . . . from another that black and white is smarter than ever. One moment that the silhouette remains unchanged . . . the next that Patou has introduced a new silhouette.

She hears that evening skirts are ankle length . . . and shortly afterwards that they just escape the floor . . . that Chanel sponsors "practical simplicity" and Lelong individuality. Bewildering, tantalizing fashion messages . . . which shall she believe?

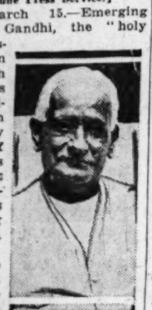
REVEALS GANDHI STIRRING INDIA TO NEW REVOLT

"Holy Man" Orders Masses to Get Ready.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, March 15.—Emerging with Mahatma Gandhi, the "holy man of Hindustan," after a seven day jaunt through that mysterious land of tiny villages which shelter nearly 300,000,000 half starved peasants of India, THE TRIBUNE correspondent sees three outstanding facts in the India situation.



PANDIT NEHRU.

FIRST — The Gandhi - Irwin truce appears to be merely the calm before the storm.

SECOND—The storm, which will break unless Great Britain hands over the substance of independence, and no one here, including Gandhi, believes that the British will—will plunge India into a revolution infinitely more deadly and chaotic than the one it has just emerged from.

THIRD—Gandhi's tremendous hold over the country is stronger than at any time in his strange career. He remains today, as he did a year ago, the absolute dictator of the Nationalist movement.

Predict New Civil War.

For a week I have listened to him and his lieutenant, Vallabhai Patel, address peasants in the Kaira and Bardoli districts, and their message has been the same:

"Complete independence is not yet won. Use this armistice to prepare for the coming battle! The fight for independence will be continued on a greater scale than ever before unless our demands are granted."

Gandhi's words reveal he has not much hope himself of gaining independence by negotiation. And being a shrewd and clever statesman, he is leaving no stone unturned to stir the movement to such a pitch that, if he launches it again, it will sweep Great Britain out of India.

Already he has dispatched thousands of leaders, recently released from jails, to the countryside to work among the peasants and organize for future action, if necessary.

Masses Its Strength.

The powerful All-India Nationalist congress party with its elaborate revolutionary organization everywhere is using the truce to consolidate its position. It was somewhat disorganized during the struggle when 50,000 leaders were imprisoned; but with these back in key positions and determined more than ever that the congress is a match for the British government, the party is expected to reach its greatest strength within the next few months.

There were many in India who thought that Gandhi had lost his mystic hold on the people by compromising with Viceroy Lord Irwin and agreeing to coöperate after ten years of non-coöperation. The last few days have proven their folly.

Never before had his coming stirred the people to such an insane pitch.

"War Talk" Stirs Mob.

BOMBAY, India, March 15.—(AP)—While Mahatma Gandhi at Sisroda today was disclaiming the supernatural attributes which some of his disciples see in him, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, influential congress party leader, exhorted a great audience here to be content with nothing short of complete independence.

A tremendous crowd listened to him. Half a dozen men were hurt when the loud speakers broke down and the mob stampeded toward the platform.

He urged his audience to retain "the mentality of war," ready to renew their active fight for independence when necessary.

The Mahatma's speech, to a crowd just as big, was of a different character.

"I am neither saint nor mahatma [a great soul]," he said, "but only a humble servant—a satyagrahi [one who practices soul force]. You must not think me supernatural. I am common clay."

Princes Meet Today.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

NEW DELHI, India, March 15.—A score of unfamiliar flags are flying today over New Delhi, were the seventy ruling princes of India are gathered for the annual session of their chamber tomorrow.

The princes have held long informal discussions during the week-end. One section is anxious to examine the proposals for participation of Indian states in the proposed federation.

Another section counsels a more cautious program restricting reference to the round table conference to more or less formal resolutions, but barring discussion of the suggested lines of federation.

Chicago Irish Hear Broadcast of President Cosgrave's Speech

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

For a brief space yesterday sons and daughters of St. Patrick who long since left the old sod behind were back again "where the River Shannon flows." Most Chicagoans of Irish extraction gathered, singly or in groups, about the radio loud speakers that caught up the phrases of President William Cosgrave in Dublin and, eliminating time and space, brought them echoing firmly and steadily into hundreds of homes here in a preliminary March 17 greeting to the men and women of his race. The speech was broadcast in Chicago by station W-G-N.

It was an epochal occasion, marking the first trans-oceanic address from the Emerald isle. President Cosgrave's message was framed with the significance of the event in mind, and as such was heard with intense interest by both his political sympathizers and the dissenters.

Assemble at Radio Studios.

One of the largest and most distinguished gatherings for the broadcast was held in the studios of the National Broadcasting company atop the Merchandise Mart. Nearly 100 of the city's civic, political, and business leaders assembled there, including Dr. Alexander Pope, vice president of the Irish Fellowship club; Bernard J. Mullaney, Judge John O'Conner, and Homer J. Buckley.

Before pinning on the shamrocks for the great day itself, Chicago's Irish contingent will take note tonight of the unemployed. Large benefits are scheduled for the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman, where the annual reception and dance of the Bailiffs Benevolent association will provide funds to aid the jobless, and also at the Auditorium hotel, where the Patrick O'Connell post of the American Legion will give an entertainment and dance. Albert J. Horan is president of the Bailiffs association and Harry J. Hartley adjutant of the O'Connell post.

See Exhibits at Museum.

All day tomorrow the extensive collection of Irish antiquities at the Field museum is expected to attract crowds of St. Patrick's day pilgrims. Exact reproduction of four ancient Irish shrines will be a feature of the exhibit. All four honor the patron saint of Ireland, and in the original in Erin, according to Stephen C. Simms, director, are elaborately wrought in gold and silver treasures of Irish art.

Benefits to be held tomorrow night will include the fifth annual St. Patrick's day homecoming, at the Shoreland hotel, of the United Societies of St. Thomas the Apostle parish at 55th street and Kimbark avenue. Two ballrooms and a grill will be utilized for the entertainment. T. J. Connelly is general chairman.

The annual football dance given by the Thomas Ashe football team will be staged this year at the Walters hall, 5212 South Halsted street, tomorrow night. Miss Eileen Daley will head a corps of Irish singers and dancers.

IRISH PRESIDENT TALKS TO U. S. ON ST. PATRICK

Cosgrave Pleads Cause of Peace Over Radio.

its capital city will have a singular honor in the celebration here of the Eucharistic world congress. We do not doubt that this great event will draw together such a concourse as Ireland has never seen before coming from every nation, and, while we shall welcome and honor those who come to us from strange lands, we shall rejoice most of all in the reunion of the members of St. Patrick's family. We hope to see them here in the tens of thousands.

Spirit of St. Patrick Speaks.

"The spirit of St. Patrick's teaching speaks to us down through the ages. Since he raised the standard of the cross in Ireland the hand of Ireland has never been lifted in aggression against any other people. We still have his words denouncing war by Christians against Christians.

"'Miserable men,' he said. 'They know not the poison they hand out. A deadly food to their own friends and their own children.'

"We rely on the devotion of your leaders and your people to the cause of peace. For without peace there can be no true liberty, least of all for the smaller nations.

Voices Ireland's Ambition.

"We ask you, our kinsfolk, and all your fellow citizens, to regard with friendly interest the efforts of the people of Ireland to build up anew the fabric of this Irish nation, to preserve and strengthen its distinctive nationality, and to secure for themselves and their children an honorable and prosperous existence in their own land, and the enjoyment of a freedom not less than that of any other nation among the nations of the world.

"Finally, allow me to remind you that nothing in my experience has given me more encouragement than the recollection of the welcome and the generous reception accorded by you to my colleagues and myself when we visited America. God be with you."

HE THINKS his hair roots* are dead, because no one has explained to him that hair roots merely become inactive—and die only in very rare cases. Hair roots become dormant when (1) they have been deprived of normal nourishment or (2) when some local scalp disorder makes it impossible for these sources of growth to function normally.

Thomas' effective scalp treatment (1) stimulates these dormant sources of nourishment and (2) overcomes the local causes of baldness. You yourself can easily recognize the presence of a scalp disorder by the aggravating symptoms—itching, falling hair, extreme dryness or oiliness, dandruff, etc. But to determine the exact cause of your particular scalp trouble, you should consult a Thomas' scalp specialist. He knows specifically how to overcome the various types of dandruff, stop falling hair, and promote hair growth on the thin and bald spots. Call for a free scalp examination today, and learn what Thomas' can do to help you have a good head of hair.

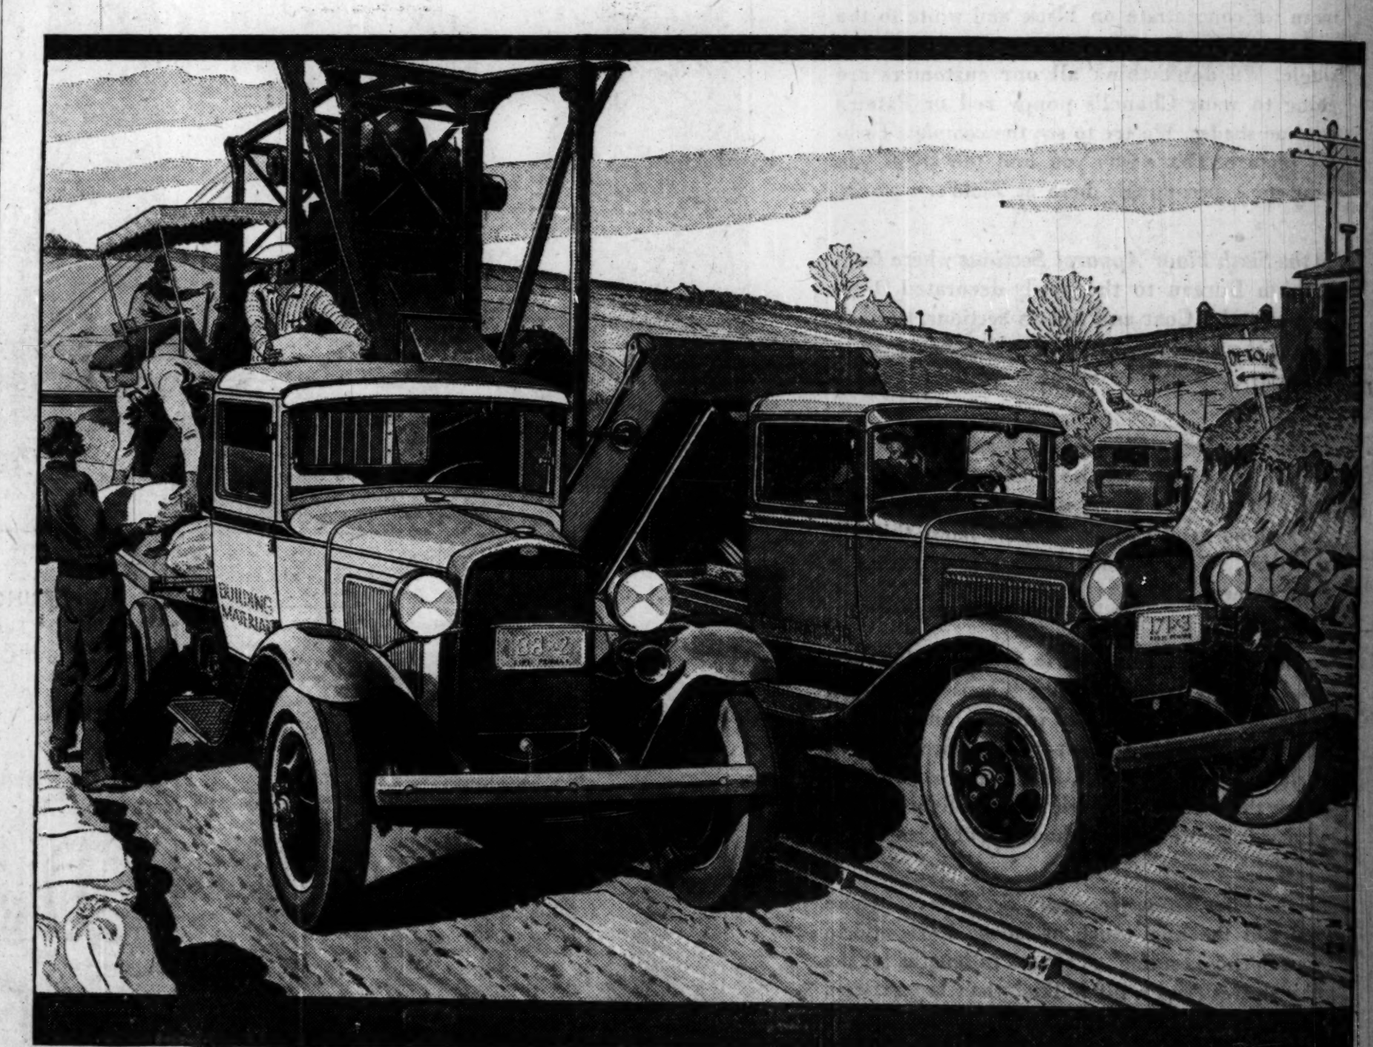
Put the Ford Truck on your pay-roll



Ford platform bodies and dump bodies are used extensively in highway building, general construction and excavation work. In addition Ford dump bodies are used for hauling coal, coke and garbage.

WHEREVER hauling-equipment is used or needed, Ford commercial units can be of service. They are strong, have a wide range of speed and power, and can readily be adapted to any specific use. There is a body-type for every purpose, and a choice of two different chassis, and three different wheelbases. Because of their low first cost, reliability, and low cost of operation, Ford units offer marked economy for any hauling-job.

Many features of the Ford add to its reliability, thus reducing the cost of maintenance, and increasing its economy. For example, each part is carefully studied to determine what specific steel will give it the longest life and best service. Some require tough steel; others extremely hard—so more than 40 different kinds of steel are used.

More than twenty ball and roller bearings are located at important points throughout the truck. In all forward speeds, the entire drive, from engine to wheels, is carried by these anti-friction bearings. Wear on many moving parts is thus reduced.

The value of these, and other features, becomes more evident as Ford units continue to give mile after mile of faithful service, seldom interrupted by the need for adjustments or repairs. Fords stay — and pay — on the job.

The Ford 1½-ton truck is available with either 131½-inch or 157-inch wheelbase. There is a choice of high or low rear-axle gear-ratios, of single or dual rear wheels, and of open or closed cabs. The light delivery-car, which has the same chassis as the Model A Ford car, can be equipped with bodies for every light hauling-purpose.

Your Ford dealer can show you a Ford unit that is adapted to the special requirements of your business.

FEATURES ★ of Ford Commercial Units

Four-cylinder, 40-horse-power engine. Torque-tube drive. Internal-expanding mechanical brakes, all fully enclosed. Forty different kinds of steel for specific purposes. Extensive use of fine steel forgings. More than 20 ball and roller bearings. Three different wheelbases. Two different chassis. Triplex shatter-proof windshields for safety. Low first cost. Low cost of operation and maintenance. Reliability. Long life. You may purchase a Ford truck or light commercial car on convenient, economical terms through the Authorized Ford Finance Plans of the Universal Credit Company.

DRY LAW COSTS 80% OF INCOME TAX, WET HOLDS

Internal Revenue Losses Pointed Out.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Eight out of every $10.00 paid to Uncle Sam this year in personal income tax payments could be retained in the taxpayer's pocket, had prohibition been repealed a year ago, Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against Prohibition, asserted today.

Mr. Curran based his figures on a comparison of individual income tax payments made last year and the amount of internal revenue taxes that, he said, could have been collected this year had the 18th amendment been inoperative. Had these internal revenue receipts been collected, he said, it would have been unnecessary to collect four-fifths of the personal income tax collections due this year.

Save 2,000,000 Payments.

"Now that we have made the first payment of our personal income tax, it is interesting to reflect," he said, "that if we had not been placed under the national prohibition law, two million American taxpayers today could keep the money or use it for helping bring business back to life.

"The federal personal income tax last year amounted to $1,146,844,243.68," Mr. Curran said. "The total will be smaller this year, because of hard times, in spite of the government jacking up the rate to the high point of two years ago.

Bootleggers Profit.

"If we had got rid of the 18th amendment a year ago, the national government would be taking in about 112 million dollars this year in internal revenue on wine, beer and spirits, so that for every $10.00 of personal income tax we pay today we could keep $8.00 and only have to pay $2.00, saving for ourselves 80 per cent of today's payment. As things are now, all of this possible revenue goes in the pocket of the bootleggers, gun men, racketeers and their highly organized employes, except for such part of it as goes to prohibition agents and the police in graft and bribes.

"It is significant that the citizens of four of the leading wet states—Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, and Illinois—pay 58 per cent of the total federal revenue from personal income taxes, according to the official returns for 1930.

"The states which are more clamorous in support of prohibition do not shoulder the cost of the noble experiment. That bill is charged against the states whose citizens are opposed to Volsteadism."

COL. ANDERSON TO GIVE LIQUOR PLAN WEDNESDAY

Col. Henry W. Anderson of Richmond, Va., a member of the Wickersham commission, is to address a joint meeting of the Industrial club and the Chicago Association of Commerce Wednesday evening. Col. Anderson is to discuss his plan of modifying the prohibition laws so the government and the public, rather than gangsters, will benefit from booze profits.

COL. ANDERSON. [Acme Photo.]

"The courts are cluttered with prohibition cases," wrote Col. Anderson in agreeing to present his modification views to Chicago business men, "to an extent which seriously affects the entire administration of justice. The illicit producer, the bootlegger, and the speakeasy are reaping a rich harvest of profits and are becoming daily more securely intrenched.

"The enormous revenues, estimated at from two to three billion dollars a year, placed in the hands of the lawless and criminal elements of society through this illegal traffic are not only enabling them to carry on this business in defiance of the government, but to organize and develop other lines of criminal activity to an extent which threatens social and economic security."

Col. Anderson pointed out that if his plan is adopted, the profits, instead of going to the lawless element, would be used to eliminate the breeding grounds of crime and ultimately to remove those conditions which are most potential in inducing the excessive use of intoxicating drinks."

RUSSIAN TRADE OFFICIAL SHOT BY MAN IN TOKIO

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, March 16.—[Monday.]—As Paul Aniekiff, soviet commercial agent here, was stepping into his automobile this morning at the door of his home in a Tokio suburb, a Japanese man fired three shots at him with an automatic pistol and escaped. Aniekiff received wounds in an arm, leg, and breast. Chances for recovery were termed good. He was head of the soviet trade delegation handling the Japan-Russian fisheries dispute.

Considerable feeling has arisen in Japan recently over the dispute between Japan and Russia following the closing of the Vladivostok branch of the Bank of Korea by soviet authorities.

Japanese fishing rights in the Amur region are involved in the bank closing, and a few weeks ago a group of Japanese decided to urge the government to take a firm stand in the dispute. More recently, however, Premier Molotoff of Russia said the question was virtually settled.

ONE BOOZE BOAT SUNK, ANOTHER SENT ONTO REEF

New London, Conn., March 15.—[Special.]—One rum runner lies high and dry on Shagwong reef in the Atlantic ocean tonight and another is buried in twenty fathoms of water in the middle of Long Island sound, east of Bartlett's reef, as the result of the coast guard's activities last night.

The two boats were reported to be members of a large fleet of rum runners lying outside the 12 mile limit and apparently were sent in to test the vigilance of the coast guard.

According to an announcement by Commander M. J. Ryan, chief of staff of the local enforcement unit, the Notus, with nearly 1,000 cases of liquor on board, was purposely run ashore by its captain, while the second boat, the 605-H, was swamped and sank with its liquor and may never be salvaged.

The Notus, ostensibly a Long Island scallop trawler, was picked up by the coast guard patrol ship's searchlights as it was heading in from the Atlantic ocean, evidently aiming to make "bootleggers' paradise" at Ford Pond bay.

The crew of the Notus paid no attention either to the warning gun of the patrol ship or the solid one pound shot which followed.

Realizing his vessel would soon be captured or sunk, the skipper of the rum runner suddenly veered and headed for Shagwong Point and ran his vessel full speed on the rocky shore. The three men aboard the Notus attempted to escape, but the coast guard men caught and arrested them.

The 605-H, a speed boat, hails from Rhode Island and had 1,065 cases of liquor aboard. She also carried a crew of three men, who were rescued from drowning by the pursuing patrol boat. It is a question whether the 605-H was swamped by her excessive speed in the heavy sea or was flooded when a one pounder crashed into her hull below the water line.

GOTHAM INQUIRY BILL COMES UP IN LEGISLATURE

Charges Against Walker to Be Presented.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—The fight to turn the investigative floodlights on a corrupt city will shift to Albany tomorrow, when Republican leaders again will endeavor to force through the state senate a measure calling for a thorough inquiry into Tammany's administration of New York City.

At the same time it is likely the city affairs committee will have completed its brief against Mayor James J. Walker and the specific charges against the dapper little mayor will be handed to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The demand for the investigation of the vacationing mayor's office will be taken to the governor by a group of prominent citizens headed by the Rev. Dr. John Haynes Holmes, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, and Norman Thomas, Socialist leader.

Pastors Assail Graft.

Meanwhile the hubbub and glamour of an awakened civic consciousness continued to be heard throughout the town. There were biting accusations of graft and corruption delivered from a dozen pulpits; there were demands for a "showdown" from additional civic organizations and the committee of 1,000 grew in strength.

Within the week citizens' massmeetings are expected to be held in public halls where prominent speakers will tell what they know of a town depicted as being in the clutches of "greedy politicians, corrupt courts, and perjuring policemen."

In the jungle of Tammany a lone voice was sounded for the absent mayor. Charles F. Kerrigan, assistant to Jimmy Walker, the city's "key man," declared his willingness to go before a grand jury and present proof that "persons in high position were willing to stop at nothing to prevent the orderly disclosure and punishment of those responsible for the failure of the Bank of United States" and that the attack on the mayor was because Walker had "antagonized 'powerful interests' by demanding a thorough investigation of the bank's affairs."

Kresel Trial Postponed.

On the heels of the Tammany cry of "smoke screen" came indefinite postponement until April or perhaps later of the trial of Isidor J. Kresel on the indictment arising from the investigation of the Bank of United States. Mr. Kresel's physician will present an affidavit stating Mr. Kresel's physical condition will keep him in bed for several weeks.

District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain, who himself is due to be investigated almost any day now, has been fighting to try Mr. Kresel and four of the eight officers indicted in the bank case at once.

Continue Search for Auto Stolen with Deadly Germs

The search for the automobile of Dr. Edwin Reynolds of Berwyn, which was stolen Friday night at Jackson and Ashland boulevards, was continued yesterday by the police. In the back seat of the car was a quantity of typhoid and smallpox germs in phials which the doctor was taking to his office. Reynolds said there were enough germs in the car to start an epidemic.

LIGHTHOUSE KEEPER FOUND DEAD; LIVING ROOMS ARE WRECKED

Crisfield, Md., March 15.—(AP)—Failure of the beacon of Holland Bar lighthouse, on lonely, wind swept Tanger sound, to shine today led to the discovery of the body of the keeper, Elmer Owens, 55, in the wreckage of his living room.

Tables and chairs had been overturned, drawers pulled out and their contents scattered on the floor. The door leading to the outside was open.

The clothing was torn from the keeper's body. There was a bruise over the left eye and nearby on the floor was a butcher knife stained with blood.

The lighthouse register, that by law has to be signed every day by the keeper, bore no entry after March 12.

GANGSTER SHOT AND HURLED SIX FLOORS TO DEATH

Vote Case 'Squealing' Believed Motive.

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—New York's gangland no longer takes its victims "for a ride." Harried persistently by added police patrols, members of a gang "executed" Alfred Medrisch, believed to have been a "squealer," by shooting him through the forehead and then tossing him from the roof of a six story loft building in the downtown section of Manhattan today.

Myer Fineman, 23, was jailed tonight in connection with the murder. Police said he had confessed to the killing.

Police sought a motive for the killing of Medrisch in an old voting scandal which took place at Long Beach, Long Island, back in 1929.

Turns State's Evidence.

At that time he turned state's evidence, and as the result of his story one of his friends was convicted of illegal voting. Medrisch revealed how two score or more youths had been wined and dined and had been paid $5 each for voting illegally.

Police reconstructed the murder of Medrisch today from a series of unusual circumstances. He had apparently been taken to the loft in an automobile. At the bottom of the stairs he was summarily tried by his captors, found guilty and a bullet planted squarely between his eyes, through his forehead.

There was evidence that he had begged for his life on his knees. At any rate, the bullet did not kill him at once, and he was half dragged and half carried to the roof. A slender trail of blood told the story of the ascent. He was then thrown over the low coping to a cement courtyard below.

Killed by Fall.

Assistant Medical Examiner Gonzales said Medrisch had been killed by the fall, but that the wound would have eventually caused his death. The body was discovered this morning by a woman living in a nearby tenement.

Medrisch had a police record aside from his participation in the Long Beach voting scandal, and he was identified from his finger prints. He once served a term in Elmira prison as a package thief.

ing $1,000,000 took a loss of $48,413,062. Other losses among income tax brackets were:

$25,000 to $50,000 class	$87,036,830
$50,000 to $100,000 class	74,841,980

Likewise, those in the smaller income tax brackets took the bulk of the gross profits from speculative activities. Total profits from these sources amounted to $2,239,763,714.

Total Gross Incomes in U. S.

For 1929, the country's total gross income, individuals and corporations, amounted to $141,552,869,422, $112,789,903,992 for corporations and $28,762,965,430 for individuals. Gross corporation income decreased by $333,270,000, while individual gross income increased by $263,400,000, for a total loss of $69,800,000.

On the other hand, net income of corporations and individuals, totaling $34,780,604,121, showed an increase of $875,282,803.

Net income of corporations amounted to $10,261,307,144, an increase of $723,774,001, and of individuals $24,519,296,977, an increase of $151,508,802. The large increase in corporate net income compared with the loss in gross income was because of smaller deductions in 1929 than in 1928.

Of the country's total income 37.24 per cent was derived from wages and salaries, 11.46 per cent from business, 6.32 per cent from partnerships, 7.79 per cent from speculative activities, 8.05 per cent from capital net gain, 4.06 per cent from rents and royalties, 7.40 per cent from interest and other income.

"ACIDINE HAS NO EQUAL FOR INDIGESTION, GAS"

"I have used ACIDINE for indigestion and gas pains and find that it has no equal. It is classed alone. Nothing can compare with it," says John D. Gates, 360 E. Garfield Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Just another of thousands who are astonished at the way this new prescription ACIDINE succeeds when other known remedies fail. The reason is it is different from other medicines. ACIDINE contains Japtase, which, in laboratory tests, digested 800 times its own weight of certain heavy starchy foods. ACIDINE neutralizes burning acid, soothes irritated stomach and intestinal linings, helps end acidosis.

Eat, drink all you want. When sour stomach, gas, pain, heartburn, bad taste, heavy feeling, short breath, dizziness, belching, nervousness, colds, gassy headaches and sleeplessness trouble you, take ACIDINE. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money.

when this ugly condition is removed

EVEN the most unobservant people notice Bacterial-Mouth and the most forgetful always remember its presence. For there's nothing more offensive to the eye than unwholesome gums and teeth that are stained an ugly yellow, cloudy, marred by decay. This condition is due to germs that sweep into the mouth and defy the ordinary toothpaste. They attack teeth and gums. Kolynos kills these germs and so removes Bacterial-Mouth with remarkable result.

Use the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique for 3 days—a half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush, morning and night. Then look at your teeth—fully 3 shades whiter.

In 10 days the improvement will be so marked you will never again say that white teeth are a gift received only by a fortunate few.

Dentists have long advocated the Dry-Brush Technique as the one way to use a dental cream full strength and keep brush bristles stiff enough to clean every tooth surface and massage gums properly. Only Kolynos permits this approved technique.

This highly concentrated, double-strength dental cream is unique in action. When it enters the mouth it becomes a surging, antiseptic FOAM that makes wetting the toothbrush unnecessary. You can feel Kolynos work. It foams into and cleans out every pit, fissure and crevice.

Germs that cause Bacterial-Mouth and lead to stain, decay and gum diseases are quickly killed. They vanish and the entire mouth is purified. Kolynos kills 190 million germs in 15 seconds, 424 million in 60 seconds.

This amazing Kolynos FOAM removes food particles that ferment and cause decay... neutralizes acids... washes away tartar and the unsightly mucoid coating that clouds teeth.

Easily and quickly, it cleans and polishes teeth down to the naked white enamel—without injury. And for 3 hours after each brushing this cleansing, purifying process continues.

So long as you use the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique, teeth will remain gleaming white and sound, gums will be firm and healthy. Buy a tube of Kolynos from any druggist.

KING OF BELGIUM DEFIES CHURCH TO HONOR WAR HERO

Monarch Denies Cremation Is "Dishonorable."

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, March 15.—Does incineration dishonor a great war hero? King Albert of Belgium thinks it does not, but the cardinal archbishop of Malines insists it does.

The question whether cremation is "honorable" or not is being hotly debated in Belgium following the death of Gen. Louis Bernheim, who was known as the "Belgian Marshal Foch" and whose body was cremated in Paris.

A national funeral such as Marshal Foch and Marshal Joffre received in France and Gen. Baron Jacques received in Belgium was to honor the old war hero Bernheim, too. Gen. Bernheim was seriously wounded in September, 1915, at the Belgian front, but he returned to the front before he had completely recovered.

Led Victorious Attack.

In the fall of 1918 King Albert asked him to command the north sector of the Belgian army in the great allied offensive. The general led the 1st and 10th divisions of Belgians in a victorious attack through the forest of Houthulst, near Ypres, and stood on the banks of the Scheldt river when the armistice was proclaimed on Nov. 11.

Gen. Bernheim was of Jewish descent and believed in cremation rather than burial. To him death "in a cradle of flames," as Maeterlinck, another Belgian, put it, was more beautiful than interment. So his body was cremated in Paris after he had died there in a private clinic.

Cremation is forbidden in Belgium. Nine-tenths of the Belgian population is Catholic and disapproves of cremation as contrary, not to the Catholic dogma, but to Catholic traditions. A bill which would permit cremation has been rejected by parliament.

Cardinal Van Roey Intervenes.

King Albert, himself a Catholic, the Catholic majority of parliament and the Catholic state ministers were placed in the dilemma of denying an outstanding war hero a national funeral, or else going against the traditions of their church. A small majority in parliament decided to vote for the national funeral, while Catholic parliamentarians abstained.

Then Cardinal Mercier's successor, Cardinal Van Roey, intervened with a public letter denouncing a national funeral to the ashes of an "incinerated man."

King Albert, however, decided to the contrary. Gen. Bernheim's ashes were brought to Brussels from Paris and placed in a coffin covered with a Belgian flag.

Early the next morning King Albert and his younger son, Prince Charles, followed the coffin through the streets of Brussels. The largest crowd Brussels has seen for years lined the streets, despite constant rain.

'BOSS' VARE RETURNS TO POLITICAL FIRING LINE IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Pa., March 15.—[Special.]—William S. Vare is returning to the firing line in Philadelphia politics tomorrow, according to messages received from Florida by those members of the Republican organization who still refer to him as "the boss."

Mr. Vare, who has played a more or less inactive rôle in Philadelphia politics since his illness and his losing fight for the United States senate seat, is returning with a candidate for every office for which nominees will be chosen in the September primary, his close associates declared today.

It is taken for granted that Mr. Vare's first job will be that of reestablishing control over the city council, which is dominated by Charles B. Hall and his friends. Veteran political observers foresaw a fight between Vare and Hall as an early eventuality.

WILL QUIZ WIFE OF MURRAY IN NEWBY MYSTERY

Having discovered no tangible clews during the week-end in the disappearance of Miss Norma Newby, 37 years old, 2706 Flourney street, Assistant State's Attorney Henry James plans today to question Mrs. Frank J. Murray, wife of the middle aged steel salesman, from whose car, according to Murray's story, the woman was abducted as they kept a tryst March 2 in the Elk Grove forest preserve. Murray and Miss Newby had been sweethearts for 17 years.

Chief William F. Collins of the highway police, having announced he fully credited Murray's story, had policeman beating over the several thousand acres of the Elk Grove area yesterday with the aid of preserve foresters. The search yielded no clews. At the same time Lieut. Lester Laird of the highway force was visiting roadhouses in the district, but with the same negative results.

KANSAS GIRL CHAMPION OF FARM BABIES

Marion Lee Foster, 6 months old, of Junction City, Kas., has been selected as America's champion farm bureau baby from the 10,854 pictures of farm babies submitted in a national contest sponsored by the American Farm Bureau Federation through its official publication, the Bureau Farmer. The announcement was made here yesterday by Sam H. Thompson, president of the National Farm organization.

Baby Foster is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Foster, members of the Geary county farm bureau. Her photograph was submitted by her grandfather, W. T. Foster, 1631 Fairchild avenue, Kansas City, Kas. The judges were Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Henry E. Schober, and Hudson Daugherty.

Second place was awarded to June Irene Keller, 4½ years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Keller of Maspeth, N. Y., and the third prize to Harvey Davison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Davison of Minonk, Ill. Other prize winners were Pattie Jean Pafford of Lexington, Tenn.; Alice E. Winter of Hepburn, Ia.; Perry Dale Weir of Alpha, Ill., and Maxine and Maurine Hudspeth, twins, of Hickory Flats, Miss.

Jeer "Tudor Descendant" Who Asks British Crown

HEREFORD, England, March 15.—(AP)—Anthony Hall, who says he is a direct descendant of the Tudors and therefore the rightful king of England, was laughed off the platform at a speech here tonight when he asked his audience to declare for either him or King George.

GAS relieved

WHAT most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. Food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no harmful after-effects.

Once you learn this perfect way you'll never deal in any other manner with the headaches, gas, bloating, nausea, dizziness, indigestion, biliousness, etc., due to an over-acid stomach and bowels.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips'. It is always a liquid; never made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips on the bottle. All druggists—25c and 50c.

CHILDREN 'SALES' BY POOR PARENTS BARED IN JAPAN

12,000 Face Auction Block in Tokio Alone.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, March 15.—Startling disclosures made today in an investigation conducted by the metropolitan police of the growing tendency of poor parents to rid themselves of their children after putting them through compulsory education in the primary schools is causing considerable anxiety to the government.

According to the police 40,000 children will soon graduate from the 250 primary schools in Tokio alone, and 30 per cent of this number, or 12,000, will be "sold" as apprentices. Conditions in the rural districts are far worse, according to the police.

Sell Boys for $100.

The boys, who will be apprenticed, are destined to a life of drudgery approaching slavery. Whether they like it or not, these children will be contracted to serve as shop apprentices for 9 years, until the age of their conscription into the military service, for a flat rate ranging from $75 to $100 cash payment to their parents, and a monthly salary of 25 to 50 cents to the youths.

Believing that in these difficult times "the fewer mouths to feed the better," the poorer parents of children are said to be doing everything in their power to "sell" their offspring, boys as well as girls. Up to a few years ago the tendency was to retain youngsters of the masculine sex, especially if they were the oldest children in the family, but even this is being done away with, according to the investigation.

Girls to Geisha Houses.

While the boys will have a hard time, the girls are facing a more miserable future. In recent years the number of children sold into geisha houses and brothels has increased surprisingly, especially in the poorer districts. Those who cannot be sold to geisha houses are sent to the factories, mills, and mines, where conditions are frequently unbearable.

BRITAIN CLOSES CHIEF CONSULAR OFFICES IN PERSIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Teheran, March 15.—With the decision of the London foreign office to close all but a few of the most important British consular offices in Persia, Great Britain practically admits defeat in her century long race with Russia for supremacy of influence in this country.

The reason given for closing the consular offices is that the Labor government wishes to save all expenses possible in the east. But the fact is that for some time the consuls have had very little to do.

There is now almost a complete stoppage of trade between England and Persia, chiefly due to soviet competition. The English telegraphic company recently was forced to hand over its lines to the Persian telegraphic department and the Imperial bank, the only bank to hold a concession for issuing bank notes, has been deprived of that right.

CIVIL WAR ENDS IN PERU; REBELS YIELD TO MILITARY JUNTA

LIMA, Peru, March 15.—(AP)—Peru appeared on the brink of peace today when the southern military forces at the Arequipa garrison telegraphed they would support the Lima junta headed by David Samans Ocampo. The nation has been shaken by a series of revolutions which caused a danger of government three times in a fortnight.

The conciliation came about early today after the Lima government had dispatched the cruiser Bolognesi late yesterday toward Mollendo, the seaport for Arequipa, to enforce a blockade, which had been placed on the port. The junta, in sending the vessel south, said it was taking necessary steps to reach a favorable agreement in negotiations with the southerners.

While the garrison at Cuzco was not included officially in the agreement, telegrams received by Lima officers from their colleagues there stated the Cuzco forces had accepted the authority of Lieut. Col. Gustavo Jimenez as secretary of war from the first, but had not been able to so declare owing to the strict censorship there. The Arequipa faction had objected to the presence of Jimines in the cabinet.

2 BOYS KILLED WHEN BURNING PLANE CRASHES

Porterville, Cal., March 15.—(AP)—Channing Reeves, 18, and Fred Betts, 19, Porterville high school youths, were killed today in an airplane crash. The plane caught fire 300 feet up and dived to earth in a tailspin.

Stunt Pilot Is Killed.

Columbia, Tenn., March 15.—(AP)—Ernest Robinson, 40, stunt pilot, who told airport officials here that he led a squadron of the British royal air force from Canada in the world war, crashed to his death today at Graymere field during a stunting exhibition.

One Killed, One Injured.

Greenville, R. I., March 15.—(AP)—Walter S. Barnes, 32, was killed and his brother, Robert H. Barnes, 20, was injured when a monoplane piloted by Robert crashed into an apple tree today.

MAROONED CREW HOLDS PIRATES AT BAY FOR WEEK

Bluffs Buccaneer Horde with Pistol Shots.

HONGKONG, March 15.—(AP)—An amazing tale of bluffing a horde of China coast pirates during a week in which they were refugees on Turnabout island in the Straits of Formosa, was related here tonight by the crew of the Norwegian freighter Roseville.

The crew of 35 men and officers arrived tonight aboard a tug sent in answer to the Roseville's distress calls after she struck submerged rocks off the island March 6 while sailing to Amoy in a dense fog. The Roseville, a new 9,000 ton freighter on her second voyage to the orient, was abandoned as a total loss. She left Seattle Feb. 5 for the orient.

Driven on Rocks.

Officers and men alike were thrown from bunks when the vessel jammed against the rocks in the heavy fog. Efforts to free the vessel were unavailing and with daybreak a cable was shot to the shore 50 yards away, the cable settling over a tree. A pulley was attached and over this cable every man, loaded with what food he could carry, was transported to safety while thundering seas pounded the shore and helpless ship.

For a week the crew lived on Turnabout island awaiting help and watching the ship battered by merciless seas. Soon after their arrival hundreds of rough looking natives, members of China coast pirate gangs, whose hideout is on Turnabout island, appeared.

Pirates Raid Ship.

The pirates started determined efforts to board the Roseville, both from the land side and from boats. Remonstrance failed to have any effect on the buccaneers, and officers fired pistols over the heads of the sea wolves. They retreated temporarily.

Thereafter armed guards from the outnumbered group of refugees kept constant vigilance, dozens of times driving back the bandits who retreated only when the seamen threatened to shoot to kill. Armed conflict might possibly have been fatal to all of the tiny band. Weary days passed and finally a tugboat from Hongkong appeared.

Rescued by Tug Boat.

Divers examined the stricken vessel and reported she was wedged fast on the jagged rocks with huge gashes ripped in her sides. She was gradually sinking and her decks were awash. Unable to save the ship, the tug gathered up the refugees and returned, leaving the freighter to the mercy of pirates.

A Japanese salvage tug arriving later found the Roseville swarming with pirates who were stripping her cargo and fittings. Outnumbered 20 to 1, the salvage workers, after a fight of several hours, sent the pirates retreating. A Japanese destroyer is now standing by the wrecked ship.

JAMES W. JOHNSON, RICH MANUFACTURER, 75, WEDS HIS NURSE

New Brunswick, N. J., March 15.—[Special.]—A report that James Wood Johnson, 75 years old, president of Johnson & Johnson of this city, one of the world's largest manufacturers of surgical supplies, had married his nurse, Miss Nora McBain, believed to be 32, was confirmed tonight by Mrs. Sydney B. Carpenter, daughter of Mr. Johnson, at her home here.

Although Mrs. Carpender declined to make public the details of the marriage, it was learned at the Middlesex hospital here, where Miss McBain had done special duty for the last six years, that she had informed her former colleagues there that the marriage had taken place on Wednesday.

Miss McBain had been Mr. Johnson's nurse for the last two and a half years. She came to this country from Scotland.

'DEAD' TWO DAYS, GIRL 'COMES TO LIFE' IN COFFIN

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 15.—(AP)—A dispatch to La Nacion from Los Angeles in the province of Biobio said a 22 year old woman, who apparently had been dead for two days and nights, "came to life" today in her coffin, thereby escaping burial alive by three hours.

A physician said the young woman, Miss Acuna Castillo, suffered from a case of prolonged catalepsy. He added she undoubtedly would have revived in the coffin had she been buried.

The families and friends of the woman had neared the end of the period of mourning when she moved her arms and head.

Nemo-Flex AT THE BETTER SHOPS

NEMO CORSET SHOPS, INC., NEW YORK, CHICAGO, SAN FRANCISCO, BOSTON, TORONTO, LONDON

We are saving on food by using more MILK!

WHEN women get together now-a-days, a favorite topic is the miracles being performed in stretching the family income. Let's "listen-in" on a typical conversation:

"When my husband told me we would have to spend less on food, I was simply terrified."

"How can we cut down our eating costs without danger to the children's health and your health?"

"I don't like it any better than you do," he replied, with a hopeless gesture, "but it can't be helped."

—"And that's what made me learn how to feed my family better, on less money"

"Our family has never been so well, so happy, so active—our food bills have never been so low — and the biggest factor in this seeming miracle has been milk — a quart of milk daily for each member of our family."

Milk is such complete food in itself that it fortifies every meal. A quart for each member of the family supplies more than half of the day's nutritional needs.

Although you buy it as a liquid, milk actually contains more solids than vegetables and almost as much as meat. Milk dishes are "hearty." They "stick to the ribs."

Milk makes everything taste better . . . cereals, soups, vegetables, gravies, puddings. Your cook book has scores of appetizing and economical dishes, using milk as a foundation ingredient. MILK KEEPS FAMILY HEALTH UP, EATING COSTS DOWN.

Why not have the convenience of regular milk delivery to your home each day? Speak to your neighborhood Borden milkman . . . or phone Franklin 3110.

You Can't Fool Children
They Know Their Milk

And they take to "Selected" Milk as naturally as a duck to water.

If children do not like the milk you give them, you can coax or offer rewards in vain. They never will drink as much as they need.

But if they like the milk, truly like it, they'll drink milk gladly—all you give them.

So try "Selected" Milk, mothers, and see your problems vanish. "Selected" has that "Sweet, Natural Taste" which children just love.

It's a taste that results from the extraordinary care taken in producing "Selected" — on 105 farms near Lake Geneva, Wis. The farmers are paid a liberal bonus for producing "Selected" under rigid requirements as to barns, feeding, milking, cooling of the milk, etc.

You pay only 16 cents to give the milk drinkers of your family this special and better drinking milk. And the small extra cost will be repaid many times in dividends of better health, better resistance.

Worth trying, isn't it? Just phone Franklin 3110, or speak to the Borden's milkman serving your neighborhood, and give "Selected" a trial.

HAROLD TEEN—SHADOW SCORES AGAIN

Parachute in a Snarl, Falls 1,500 Feet Before It Opens

Atlanta, Ga., March 15.—(AP)—An unscheduled thrill of horror was given spectators at Candler field today as they watched Emmet T. Plunkett, young parachute jumper, hurtle more than 1,500 feet earthward in a tangle of snarled parachutes and shroud lines. Airmen said Plunkett was no more than 200 feet from the ground when one of his parachutes finally opened. He was uninjured. Most of the spectators thought it was only "part of the show."

DR. OZORA DAVIS DIES ON JOURNEY FROM WEST COAST

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Rev. Dr. Ozora S. Davis, president emeritus of the Chicago Theological seminary and widely known Chicago divine, died last night on a train near Kansas City. A message telling of his death said Dr. Davis was returning to Chicago from Los Angeles, where he had been with his wife.

DR. DAVIS.

Dr. Davis' career, which led him to the leadership of one of the foremost seminaries in the country as well as to the moderatorship of the national council of Congregational churches, was a romantic one. It began as a shoeless, pennyless newsboy in White River Junction, Vt. At 42 he was called to the presidency of the Chicago seminary, which at that time was scarcely more than a dream. He was then the pastor of a large church in New Britain, Conn.

Learns of Fatal Malady.

In the early summer of 1929, at the age of 62, when Dr. Davis was smitten with an incurable malady, he returned after medical treatment to his office in the new $1,200,000 seminary on the University of Chicago campus, where he asked to be relieved of the leadership of the institution which he so largely had been responsible for building. He then climaxed his career with what his friends have called "his dramatic declaration of faith in the presence of death."

"Of course, I do not want to go," said Dr. Davis, as he told of the physicians' verdict, which said his death might occur in a few days or weeks—months at most. "This is a mighty interesting world, and I am having a mighty good time in it. But I am no more afraid of death than I am of walking into the next room. For I know that I have a spiritual body and I won't have to worry about the aches and pains of this poor physical body. I am a gentleman of leisure now. I am going to write some books, a biography of Victor Lawson, travel some and lecture to my classes."

Dr. Davis was the author of thirteen books on religious subjects, and came to be best known for his writing on the subject of homiletics, or the art of preaching.

Starts as Newsboy.

First money toward an education was earned in Dr. Davis' boyhood home by selling papers. His father was a baggageman at the railroad station and during the hours spent there the lad learned the click of the telegrapher's keys, and through his knowledge of telegraphy he earned his entire way through neighboring Dartmouth college.

At the Hartford seminary he won a traveling fellowship and two years after graduation there he won his doctorate in philosophy in Leipzig university, in Germany.

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town, meets Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter, Judith, born of a café singer while he was a soldier. His wife, John says, had magnanimously adopted the child. Hilary suspects such magnanimity. John's sister Gertrude became Judith's legal guardian when his wife died.

Hilary had taken her war-invalided brother Hugh away from home ten years ago to give her younger sister Christine and brother Stephen a better chance. Now that Hugh was dead, Hilary was returning home. Hilary is not met when the boat docks, and John asks her to her door. Hilary's stepfather, the only sympathetic member of her family, tells her that Hugh left her his possessions in trust, to be settled on her at her marriage or to buy her an annuity at the age of 40 if still single.

The next day after their return John takes Hilary to luncheon. He tells her he loves her and asks her to marry him and Hilary accepts.

Judith leads a lonely life in her aunt's home. She has a private teacher, Miss Mead, while her cousins are away at school. Her cousin Prue is her only friend in her aunt's home. Her father she knows as Uncle John. She senses she is different in some way from other children. When Aunt Gertrude hears of her brother's engagement she sends Judith to the country. Then she invites Hilary and John to dinner. John is uneasy about Judith not being in school.

INSTALLMENT XIX.
A DISTURBING LETTER.

He slept at last and awoke with the feeling of exhilaration which to all but the completely insensitive is a warning of depression to come.

Everything went wrong that morning. His partner was unwell and did not come up to town; inanimate objects seemed possessed of devils to annoy; the very pens refused to write; documents needed in a hurry buried themselves malevolently. And, to crown all, he had to put off luncheon with Hilary and entertain a client instead.

"Where are you living now, Falconer? Didn't you sell your place at Hampstead?" inquired this guest, casually, as they sat over their wine.

"God, yes; can't stand the place!" returned Falconer, and then pulled himself together, amazed at his own violence. The past, like a cloud, was about him again.

An undertone of uneasiness which he had felt about the child Judith the night before now returned and persisted in worrying him throughout the afternoon. Was she delicate, needing care, or why was it out of the question that she should be sent to school? Was Gertrude keeping something back? He had meant to talk this point over with Hilary driving home, but their happiness had sent every other consideration from his mind, and now he saw it was unfair to drag her continually into this question of the child. His own responsibility, however, was plain. If Judith should be ailing—and, remembering her mother's early death, he began to think it probable—he could not simply dismiss her from his mind. Finally he wrote to Gertrude and asked her bluntly for the truth. Gertrude, admirable woman, replied by return of post.

My dear John: I cannot think what has possessed you. Judith is perfectly well, as I told you on Wednesday. She has never been ill in her life, but growing girls need care and, as a mother myself, I am surely the best judge of what is good for her. The impossibility of sending her to school must, I should have thought, be obvious to the most obtuse, but as you seem blind to it, let me be plain. How can I as a decent citizen send among other children a waif of dubious parentage who may inherit all sorts of instincts that would be a danger to her companions? I should never know a moment's peace of mind, and as Judith's legal guardian I am the only person concerned. I may add that I had dear Sylvia's complete concurrence in this matter. I considered her highly impulsive and sentimental, but she was not a fool. So really, you see, you have no cause for fear that her wishes are not being carried out.

I may also tell you that if you desire happiness I think you will be wise to put poor Sylvia entirely out of your mind. Think of Hilary instead.

"Damn!"

Gertrude knew how to produce her effects. He might rage, but he was helpless. It was impossible to say in the face of this letter what she knew or guessed, if anything, and his hands were tied. She was Judith's "legal guardian." The little girl was no concern of his.

"O, my dear, marry me soon!" he begged Hilary that night.

They had meant to go to a theater, but, seeing how tired he looked, she suggested a drive instead, and they went out through Roehamton and Richmond Park, discussing their future home. A small house in town, if such were to be had, or a flat, was at length decided upon, and a cottage in the country, not too far out. The latter would need finding and must wait for the moment, but Hilary agreed to begin house hunting in London next day.

He supposed her mother would be expected to ask Mrs. Livingstone to luncheon or dinner, but when she suggested as much to Falconer he exclaimed at once:

"Good Lord, no! There's no earthly reason why your people should be bothered like that, and I am only sorry I took you to Gertrude's on Wednesday night. It was a ghastly evening."

His beat surprised her.

"One expects that, somehow, from relatives," she said, lightly. "I am rather ignorant about social procedure nowadays, but I am sure she will expect to be invited, and we must not offend her."

"Yes, we must." She had never heard him speak in such a tone. "I propose to offend Gertrude, if necessary, from now onwards. This is our affair, yours and mine, and if there is one thing I am determined upon, it is that there is going to be no place in it for Gertrude and those cubs, for 'if Judith is a specimen. . . ."

Had he seen the girl's insolent wink about little Judith? Hilary wondered, and tried to remember whether this would have been possible from where she stood, and decided not. Yet if he felt like this about his sister and her children, how could he feel satisfied to leave Judith in the former's hands? Of course, how could he feel satisfied to leave Judith in the former's hands? Hilary had an impulse to ask him, but fought it down, the experience of Wednesday night making her more than ever wary of interference.

Falconer, meanwhile, kept silent from scruples of his own. He could not, of course, have from the present situation except to take the little girl by force, if necessary, out of his sister's hands, but Hilary was now his first, last, his only thought. He loved her and wanted her; he did not want Judith. For the first time a wave of conscious anger swept over him at the position in which he had been caught. If Sylvia had not brought Judith home, with whatever fine and generous intention, Judith would long ago have been safely abroad, cared for at his expense, under his protection, and with no other guardian. Instead she had lived in his household for years as his wife's adopted child, and now in his sister's as her ward—his money paying for her certainly, for even Sylvia's legacy to Gertrude had been his through his wife, yet aware of him merely as Aunt Sylvia's husband and Gertrude's brother, but of no other tie between them. She was no longer a baby; she had loved his wife . . . he remembered her heartbroken letter. She was happy, no doubt, with her cousins, cubs though they might be. At once he must leave things as they were. He would put the whole unpleasant business out of his mind and out of his life. He had suffered enough.

It would have been a relief to discuss his decision with Hilary, whose reaction from the first mention of Judith had been an immeasurable relief, but during the visit to Wandsworth she had not mentioned the little girl, and in the interest of their happiness he could not be continually obtruding her. Silence remained silent, therefore, and yet as they drove back to town for the first time was a faint shadow between them.

The best of intentions so often miscarry. Something, though they did not know it, had gone from the complete frankness and understanding in which they had up till now viewed the question of Judith-come-by-her-own.

BY MAE TINEE.

Good morning!

Paul Lukas is the bright and shining light of this production. His sincere and brilliant portrayal throws all others in the shade, lends distinction to a trashy story and furnishes the one good reason for seeing "Unfaithful."

Miss Chatterton never has had a worse vehicle and never before has done such unconvincing work. Her accent is so thick that you can almost see it, and the only times that she forgets herself in her rôle are those moments when Mr. Lukas' earnest, engaging and unself-conscious simplicity strikes an answering honest spark from her characterization. I WISH I liked Miss Chatterton better—and never have cared so little for her as in this movie!

The supporting players are able, but direction is poor and the action jumpy. When the star sings "Mamma's in the Dog House Now" you would like to die.

The story is about an American girl who marries a famous English hero. She discovers that he is unfaithful, and, to get even, she starts to go to the bow-wows. Not really though. She wouldn't REALLY sin for anything. A bad reputation is all she's angling for. She doesn't start divorce proceedings because that would make her brother who got shell-shocked in the war feel terribly and, perhaps, murder somebody. You see "the other woman" is her brother's wife . . . !

Enters Mr. Lukas to make her ashamed of herself—and be on hand when—what you have been more or less expecting occurs.

"Unfaithful" is lavishly staged and costumed. Photography is splendid. But the piece would have done better as a silent than as a talkie, for the dialogue is insipid, save when issuing from the lips of Mr. Paul Lukas.

This movie has some exciting sequences. It's supposed to be technically correct, as far as ship and submarine maneuvers are concerned.

George O'Brien is surprisingly convincing as the grave, shrewd, kindly young captain of "the mystery ship," who never forgets to be human. Marion Lessing is charming as the German girl with whom he falls in love. Other rôles are as well played as can be. Which means——

The story of "The Seas Beneath" is not so hot. It continually assaults your credulity. However, it holds your interest. You won't want to leave the theater till you find out what happens between the U. S. "mystery ship" with its submarine in tow and the German U-boat which it has sailed forth to decoy and destroy.

Sound, photography and direction do very well. You will, unquestionably, learn considerable about submarines from this production.

Sir William Is 80, Served for 55 Years.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 15.—Sir William Soulsby, known for 55 years while private secretary to the head of the city government as "London's permanent lord mayor," has decided to retire. He is 80 years old.

He had the unique distinction of knowing more about municipal and other ceremonial than any public servant in the city. London's lord mayors serve a term of only one year. During that time their activities consist principally of going through interminable ceremonies, such as the lord mayor's show held every fall, countless dinners with some such organization as the Worshipful Company of Wheelwrights, and hundreds of other ritualistic affairs.

The mayors are not reëlected, so that no sooner does the officeholder accustom himself to his regalia and robes of office, to the processions of sheriffs and aldermen, the mace bearer and his other traditional but otherwise useless helpers than a new lord mayor takes office.

For 55 years Sir William has been the guiding hand behind the tenure by 55 successive lord mayors of their office. During that time he has been in correspondence with the mayors of practically every city in the world. He has counseled, advised, arranged, but never acted, in everything done by the lord mayors under whom he worked as they carried out the duties of a post unlike any other in the world.

The lord mayor of London, who has in his jurisdiction only the square mile of the old city itself, asserts a historic authority, which even the king dare not intrude upon. The lord mayor to this day goes through the form of granting permission to the king to enter the boundaries of the city, although none of the mayors of Westminster or any of the other boroughs of metropolitan London have that right.

Sir William first went into journalism after leaving school, and for years covered famous trials at the Old Bailey, London's criminal court. In 1874 he was called to the bar, and two years later secured his first appointment at Mansion house, the lord mayor's home. His first chief was Lord Mayor Sir Richmond Cotton. Vast changes have taken place since then.

OVER MILLION PERSONS IN FIELD MUSEUM DURING YEAR OF 1930

The Field Museum of Natural History had 1,322,799 visitors in 1930. It also reached 716,000 children in the schools, camps and community centers through the N. W. Harris public school extension and the James Nelson and Louise Raymond foundation. This was revealed in the annual report of the museum released yesterday by Director Stephen C. Simms.

The report shows an operating deficit of $114,898 for the year. Total expenditures were $920,110. These include general operating expenses, purchases of collections, cost of expeditions excluding those financed by various sponsors, equipment and operations of children's units.

Among the gifts to the museum during the year were six by Stanley Field, president of the museum, totaling $154,547, and $196,000 from Marshall Field of New York, a trustee; $60,600 from the estate of the late Chauncey Keep; $50,000 from Mrs. E. Marshall Field; $10,000 from Martin A. Ryerson; $5,000 from Mrs. James Nelson Raymond; $7,819 from R. T. Crane Jr., and $10,762 from C. Suydam Cutting of New York, who financed an expedition which he led in India.

Other gifts included $5,000 from Mrs. William H. Moore; $3,700 from Albert W. Harris; $300 from William V. Kelley; $5,000 from the Rockefeller foundation; $2,000 from Mrs. Louise E. Thorne; $1,000 each from Bruce Thorne, Henry Graves Jr. and George Coe III.; $834 from William J. Chalmers, and a pledge to contribute $18,000 by Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe for a group to be placed in a new exhibition hall.

George A. Richardson was elected a trustee to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Chauncey Keep, Arthur S. Vernay, L. M. Willis, Lee Ling Yun, Mrs. E. Marshall Field, Mrs. William H. Moore, Mrs. Charles Schweppe and Mrs. Louise E. Thorne were made eligible and elected to the membership classification designated as contributors.

Life members elected during the year are Mrs. Frank H. Armstrong, Louis E. Asher, Henry B. Rabson, Thomas M. Boyd, Herman A. Dressert, Aldis J. Browne, George R. Carr, Mrs. Lewis L. Coburn, William M. Collins, George A. Cooke, Charles A. Paesch, and Mrs. A. A. Sprague II.

The report details the work of 17 expeditions. The most important of these were the Vernay-Lang Kalahari expedition, the Field museum archaeological expedition to the southwest, financed by Julius Rosenwald and the late Augusta N. Rosenwald; the two Chancellor-Stuart-Field museum expeditions to the south Pacific and Aitutaki island; an expedition to Africa sponsored and led by Capt. Harold A. White of New York and Maj. John Coats of London; the Frederick H. Rawson-Field museum expedition to West Africa, and the Marshall Field expedition to the Amazon.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"THE STUDENT PRINCE," with its rich, virile score and its mellow atmosphere of student life at the ancient university from which the stein songs spring, is an old story which bears frequent repetition. This operetta, promising to develop the stamina of a classic, returned to the Chicago stage last night in a first rate revival, and it was greeted at the Grand Opera house with enthusiasm. A few "Hochs" and a "Vivat" or two are in order.

The lyric romance of Prince Karl Franz and the innkeeper's daughter; the spirited glee club singing of the Saxon and Rheinischer student corps; and the gentle German sentimentality of Dr. Engel, a tutor to royalty but a Bohemian at heart, have lost none of their charm, Romberg's luscious tunes seem to have found new enchantment with their six years of ageing. Altogether, "The Student Prince" is a hit in Chicago for the third time, and this excellent performance is a welcome addition to the town's meager list of musical shows.

There are a number of veterans in the cast, although George Hassell, as the prince's pompous lackey, is probably the only authentic "original" of the production that captured the admiration of Broadway in December, 1924. The title rôle is admirably sung and nicely acted by Edward Nell Jr. Gertrude Lang is a brisk and soubrettish Kathie who pipes up brilliantly when the song cues arrive. That sweet old sport of scholarship, Dr. Engel, is played with the easy touch of long practice by Hollis Davenny, and the two leaders of the Heidelberg drinking and duelling fraternities are in the bull's-eye of the tradition. William Pringle as the prime minister is like a historical portrait. In short, this is the kind of cast that "The Student Prince" deserves.

This operetta began its life as a sentimental comedy by Meyer-Foerster, a sound German playwright, back in the beginnings of this century. Aubrey Boucicault failed with an American adaptation, they said, but Richard Mansfield saw that Prince Karl Franz was a rôle for his gallery and found a great success in the play. He played it in Chicago, at the same Grand Opera house, nearly thirty years ago, and the play's vogue put a Heidelberg flavor into many of the American college songs of the period.

"Old Heidelberg," with a libretto closely following the original, became "The Student Prince" six years ago. It ran for fifty-nine weeks at the Great Northern theater, from Feb. 22, 1925, to April 10, 1926. It returned here in the spring of 1927 for three weeks at the Olympic [now the Apollo] and two supplementary weeks at the Great Northern. So much for history.

I have an idea that "The Student Prince" will become imbedded in the standard repertory of American operetta. Its story is well adjusted to the needs of a hardy perennial; and its score is abundant with the sort of music for which the popular ear is eternally grateful.

Jane Cowl will place her picturesque staging of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" in performance at the Harris theater tonight. This one week of classic comedy will round out the formal subscription season of the Dramatic League of Chicago, which has been a notable feature of the playgoing season.

How Sally Helps 6,618 Get Jobs; Tells of Work

Illinois Bureau Aids in Her Campaign.

Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE'S service for the unemployed got out her record books yesterday to make a statistical study of the department's activities. After some problems in addition Miss Brown was surprised to find that she had obtained work of some sort for 6,618 of Chicago's jobless men and women. This covered the five month period just past.

The Sally Joy Brown department, which for years has served as a placement bureau for unwanted clothing and other articles among the needy, extended its service to include the finding of jobs for the unemployed on last Oct. 19.

Miss Brown offered to receive job offers from Chicagoans, placing their orders immediately with the Illinois Free Employment service, 116 North Dearborn street. This organization, maintained by the state department of labor, agreed to coöperate by filling these orders from among the hundreds upon hundreds of unemployed men and women who appealed to them for jobs.

"My records show that of the 6,618 jobs, 4,176 were for women and 2,226 for men. An additional 216 required the services of both men and women," Miss Brown said. "These haven't all been permanent jobs, of course, but they brought at least temporary earnings for unemployed persons.

"The jobs for women were for the most part domestic and the majority of these were permanent. Other jobs for women included dressmakers, waitresses, practical nurses, office workers, saleswomen, switchboard operators, cashiers, beauty operators, and models.

"The men's jobs, classified according to the number secured, were household jobs, salesmen, carpenters, electricians, decorators, mechanics, factory workers, upholsterers, office workers, and laborers."

That is Miss Brown's story of her department's activities in terms of statistics. There is no record of the advice and counsel of the sympathetic staff of workers, except in the hearts of discouraged men and women who came in person, or wrote to Miss Brown pleading for work.

Miss Brown could have selected almost any letter from a stack of appeals yesterday and it would have contained an appeal something to this effect:

"Dear Miss Brown: I have been out of work for the last year. All my resources are gone and I am no longer able to feed my wife and five children. Would you please assist me in getting a job? I have worked as a switchman for the last 18 years, but I would be willing to take any kind of a job in order to care for my family."

It was impossible to answer all the letters, but work was found for many through published extracts. Readers learning of their plight usually offered work the following day.

Had it not been for the genuine interest of TRIBUNE readers, with their desire to give a lift wherever they could, Miss Brown would not have been so elated over the activities of the last five months. Every day offers of jobs kept the telephones ringing continually. The job may not have been for more than a few hours, but it offered a few dollars. And a few dollars meant food for an unemployed man's hungry family.

The coöperation of the Illinois Free Employment bureau was one of the most important contributions to the success of Miss Brown's department. Every day the orders were sent over and were distributed immediately to the jobless.

"It is impossible for me to express adequately my appreciation of the wonderful help the Sally Joy Brown department of THE TRIBUNE has been to the Illinois Free Employment office," declared John Keane, general superintendent, in a letter to Miss Brown yesterday.

"Your help not only was of inestimable assistance to us but it served to aid hundreds and hundreds of desperately needy men and women of Chicago to obtain employment and earn money under such a condition of depression never before witnessed in the history of our country.

"It is not of myself I am thinking, not of my co-workers in the conduct of this office, but that of the vast army of jobless folk in taking this occasion to thank you for the great service extended.

"I wish you to understand that this letter comes from the heart, and that I will always be ready to coöperate and aid in any constructive movement advocated by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE."

Display of Pictures to Boost Chicago by Showing Beauties

The Women's Chicago Beautiful association, dedicated to counteract criticisms and adverse publicity of the city through photographic representation of its beauty, progress, and advantages, will hold the second annual "Pictorial Chicago and Chicagoland salon" at Marshall Field & Co. from April 6 to April 15. Mrs. William Westerlund is founder and president of the association.

Gov. and Mrs. Emmerson head the list of patrons. More than 200 pictorial photographers, amateurs, and professionals have entry cards for this year's salon. Last year 350 outstanding photographs were viewed by 100,000 people.

If Finances Will Permit, Youthful Weddings Are Fine

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Mitzi" asks if 19 is too young to marry a boy 21 you've known all your life. He is in a position, financially, to start out hot flashily but comfortably. "Mitzi" wonders if she'll be like a woman she knows at 44, wishing she had her life to lead over again and vowing she wouldn't marry before 30. The 44 year old is a divorcée.

Leave it to women who've made failures of their own marriages to spread the poison about! Why do they do it? Out of envy of the hopeful young pair about to set out on the journey? Are they honestly convinced that if they had their lives to lead over again they'd make a better job?

Frankly, I don't think it malice. Bitterness, rather. And bitter folk have a devilish way of picking out the happiest looking people to spend their disappointment propaganda on.

If we had our lives to lead over again, by what providential ordinance are we permitted the assurance that it would be a smooth sailing, friction free adventure? Whence is born this conceit that with one more chance we'd prove our mettle? What would most likely happen is that with our so-called valuable experience from the life already lived we'd make a worse mess than the one we've made already. We'd be applying middle aged arguments to 20 year old problems.

Anyway, it can't be done, so that's that. If we've made a mess it's no sign that another young couple isn't going to be able to see the thing through to perfect satisfaction. There is no reason on earth why a girl of 19 shouldn't marry a boy 21 with sufficient income to live decently on. The great tragedy of our present day economic situation is that more 19 and 21 year olds can't marry for financial reasons.

No one yet has advanced any good, solid reasons against early marriage except the one of finances. More power to the idea and practice of early matings! And less and less power to the busybody failures who preach the late-marriage doctrine.

SEVEN SAVING LOYALTIES

Dr. William S. Bovard

[Secretary Methodist Episcopal Board of Education.]

"To thine own self be true." Except on his unswerving assurance of his own sincerity there is no safe basis for any other loyalty

Be loyal to love as the only bond of social grouping, whether family, church, nation, or human world. For the meaning of love, behold Jesus, and absorb the Thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians.

Steadfastly hold to the potential sainthood of every human being, —with emphasis on "every."

Be loyal to meanings rather than to facts, figures, organizations, pledges, creeds, governments, pronouncements, or whatnot. For help to sustain this vital loyalty pray for deliverance from slavery to senses, and for endowment of spiritual insight.

Be loyal to the service motive. One might give all his goods and do it in such a spirit as to make it a disservice. One might be such a genuine friend as to render a service no tithe of income could equal.

Be loyal to positive conceptions of truth, life and duty, rather than to the negative, critical, cynical attitudes and approaches. It was the empty house that attracted the "seven devils." The flowing stream cleanses itself.

Be loyal to God who is spirit, nonspatial, nontemporal, never absent, always creating, personal, imaged by our spiritual powers and capacities, fully revealed in Jesus, the way, the truth and the life. The six loyalties make the seventh inevitable. Failure along the way mars the sustaining sense of reality.

How Chicago Visitors Enjoy California Sun

BY THALIA

LETTERS, clippings, and telegrams help us to keep posted on the whereabouts of our wandering townsfolk and on what they are doing in various parts of the world.

Our observant Santa Barbara correspondent sends word . . . that the Stanley Keiths and the Lester Arnolds have arrived at the Biltmore and that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garfield Ding gave a luncheon for them one day last week . . . that Miss Kate Buckingham was expected to arrive from Phoenix yesterday for an extended stay at San Ysidro ranch . . . that the Hobart Chatfield-Taylors had a box party for José Iturbi's concert . . . that the Alister McCormicks have returned to Montecito from Palm Springs where they have built a home . . . that the Harry Lee Tafts have gone off on a motor trip to Palm Springs . . . that Mrs. Louise de Koven Phelps has left Santa Barbara after a visit with the Clive Runnelises . . . that Mrs. Frank D. Stout's son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Floyd McRae of Atlanta, Ga., were expected to arrive by plane at the Burbank airport for a 10 days' visit with her, and that another daughter, Mrs. Julian Armstrong, is visiting her for a fortnight.

Announcement of the arrival of Mrs. Daniel Peterkin, her mother, Mrs. Voight, and Jeanette at the Royal Hawaiian hotel is relayed from Honolulu; also the news that Mrs. Frank Fuller gave a dinner party.

While Others Spend Time at Berkshire Hills Places.

From the Berkshires . . . The F. Parmalee Prentices, who are always regarded as Chicagoans although they haven't even visited here, to my knowledge, for a long time, are at their Mount Hope farm in Williamstown, Mass., for the maple sugar harvest—their sugar bush is on the edge of the Greylock reservation and is the largest in northern Berkshire . . . Mrs. Donald McPherson is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. West, in Pittsfield, Mass. Mr. West continues to improve after his long siege of pneumonia, but he hasn't been out of the house in months. . . . Mr. McPherson accompanied his wife to Pittsfield and sailed on the Conte Grande last Friday for a 6 weeks' business trip to the Canary islands, Spain, and North Africa. . . . Mrs. McPherson is to take her sub-deb daughter, Fannie, down to Warrenton, Va., to spend her 10 days' holiday from Miss Hall's school in fox hunting.

The Columbus Healys are at French Lick Springs [the press correspondent says they are there for an indefinite vacation, whatever that might be].

Chicago Latin School Boys to Give Dance March 28.

The Chicago Latin school youths are to have their annual dance on Saturday night, March 28, at the Casino. It's to be quite a big party, because many of the graduates who are now at eastern universities and prep schools will be in town for their spring holidays, and will attend.

The committee of mothers sponsoring the dance includes Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., Mrs. Orville Babcock, Mrs. Aldis Browne, and Mrs. Francis Broomell. Mrs. Broomell's son, John, is senior prefect of the school, a position that marks him as one of the outstanding boys of the class. The prefects are elected each year, and their names inscribed on a sort of honor roll. It's a custom, followed by some of the English schools.

Plans are being discussed, I hear, for a concert to benefit Passavant hospital, April 15 and May 3 are the dates under consideration, and the affair is to be at the Bendix galleries and very gala. Tickets will cost $10 apiece, and it is hoped that some important artist can be induced to give the program for something less than the lordly sum he usually commands, so that all the proceeds won't be used up for "talent."

Mrs. Clyde M. Carr is to sail on the steamship Augustus on March 19 for Naples to join her sister and niece, Mrs. Alex Smith and Miss Fayetta. They will travel through Italy and on up to Paris before returning to Chicago.

Partly About Travels, Also Spring Vacation Plans.

Has anybody told you—that the George Packards are sailing the Caribbean seas on the S. S. Statendam, and that their boat docks in New York City on the 21st . . . that the Howard Jentons [she was Mrs. L. Octigan White before their marriage a few weeks ago] sailed from England last Wednesday, and are to land in New York tomorrow . . . that the Laird Bells have returned from their trip to Guatemala . . . that Mrs. George Morton Northrop has gone to Camden, S. C., there to be joined by the Northrop children—Jane who is at Miss Hall's at Pittsfield and Alexander who is at St. Mark's—for their spring vacation, and that Mr. Northrop will join them for part of their stay . . . that the Edward J. Berminghams of Lake Forest have been in New York at Pyare's for several days???

Crowds Attend Roxy Concert at Opera House

BY EDWARD MOORE.

If any one thinks that the show business is in bad shape that one should have seen the two audiences that came to see and hear Roxy and His Gang at the Civic Opera house yesterday afternoon and evening. The crowds were large and each was rewarded with a program somewhat longer than the average grand opera, but almost unfailingly entertaining, founded on the minstrel show of old with cross connections with the radio of now.

The orchestra was at the back, the women singers at the left front, the men at the left, and over this large group, as musical director, announcer, and master of ceremonies generally, presided Roxy, who signs his legal documents S. L. Rothafel.

First came an instrumental and vocal overture of elaborate nature, then Roxy introduced His Gang to the audience one by one. This was in the most informal manner. "This little redhead," said he, "is Miss Patricia Bowman. We call her Patsy. She is the best dancer America has ever produced." And Beatrice Belkin bowed to the audience as "the successor of Galli-Curci." And so on through the two dozen others. It is evident that Roxy thinks well of His Gang, also that His Gang think well of Roxy.

Each one did his or her specialty, mostly singing, though Miss Bowman danced and Margaret Mickey McKee did some whistling of bird calls and tunes. At the end of each there was favorable comment by Roxy and the announcement of the next.

The featured member of the company was Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink. She did not appear until the second half of the program, but as the curtain rose she was seated in the center, white haired, beaming radiantly, taking part with a will in all the concerted numbers and flirting desperately with Frank Moulan, the comedian, meanwhile. She was the climax of the show, saved for the final solo. And showing that the audience got their money's worth of entertainment, her solo part took place quite a bit after 6 o'clock in the afternoon and an equal degree after 11 in the evening.

HOROWITZ IN CONCERT

When it was learned that Vladimir Horowitz was scheduled to play an all Chopin program at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon, high hopes were aroused for an enjoyable program. More to the purpose, most of the hopes were realized.

It may be that Mr. Horowitz as time goes on will not rate among the most popular of the Chopin players, and there is a reason. It is because he so resolutely debunks the sentimentality out of his music, Chopin included. He is not one of your moonlight and honeysuckle players. He made use of only one nocturne yesterday, and that was one of the less nectarian. But he played a group of three mazurkas as though he had the soul of a young Russian ballet dancer, and that alone was enough to take him out of the common run.

Visits to other halls made it impossible for me to hear the sonata of the Funeral march, but the lady who goes to concerts with me says that she never heard the scherzo and the presto finale done any better. And in the ancient and honorable—and well worn—Polonaise in A flat, his final number before the extra program of encores, he put a lift and rhythmic urge that renewed its youth. One need not delay with the superexcellences of his technic. In a pair of études and in the Scherzo in B minor he was as breath taking as ever.

The Kedroff quartet made their final appearance of the season at the Studebaker. Four good male voices here have combined into as fine ensemble of its kind as you will find after a long search. Their program was rather more varied, and to that extent more popular, than has been their case at times. A group of folk songs in the beginning was beautifully done.

Meanwhile Helen Bickerton, soprano, and Sidney Silber, pianist, were giving a joint program close by at the Playhouse. Miss Bickerton was heard in a group of unfamiliar and highly attractive songs by Respighi, Trunk, Catherine, and D'Albert, which she projected through the medium of a lovely voice and with fine spirit. Mr. Silber, who rejoices in an uncommonly good tone and expert technic, played a group of three Chopin numbers with excellent feeling.

Frances Cowin, soprano, at the Civic theater, presented the recital which through no fault of her own was deferred several weeks ago. She has a light voice of good quality, whose texture, however, did not keep her from making a surprisingly favorable impression with "Dich, Theure Halle," from "Tannhaeuser." In other German songs of earlier vintages she displayed good training and good musical sense.

Probably Elders Dread That Large Family Reunion

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A Mother's and Father's Litany, signed by Mrs. Bevans, will be sent by her on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Unless you read Saturday's article you won't have a background for this one. Briefly, it told, in a letter from an exhausted mother, written last Thanksgiving, the story of big family gatherings and the chaos they represented.

First, since so many grandmothers are among my correspondents, I will say that I imagine many of them would have a solution to present after a lifetime of entertaining sons and daughters, sons-in-law and daughters-in-law and their children.

The young parents concerned in the letter wanted to avoid hurting the grandparents' feelings, so would not suggest any change in these large family gatherings. Now, there is one thing to consider if you have felt the strain of these reunions, and that is, that maybe the grandparents feel the strain, too. Perhaps they'd like to change the celebrations in some way, but are afraid, in their turn, of hurting their children's feelings.

It takes a lot of strength to plan and prepare festive food, to house a dozen grownups and as many young children for a whole day. Probably these hospitable grandfathers and grandmothers would be only too grateful if some one would take the arrangements of these reunions out of their hands.

The sons and daughters might suggest that they divide up the holidays—have one set at the old home on Thanksgiving, another set at Christmas, and another set at New Year's or St. Valentine's day, or one of the birthdays, or on Easter. Also, the festive day might be shortened to cover only one meal, instead of two.

Now for the other side. Nice grandmothers and grandfathers are about the nicest things in the world—but the children must be considered, too. And I think family parties should be so aranged that tears and spankings and upset days do not follow in their wake. They can be, if every one concerned doesn't bend over backward in being too considerate.

There's such a thing as being too polite. Probably the grandparents will welcome a rearrangement of festivities with a little tact and common sense on the part of the sons and daughters, instead of having hurt feelings. For everybody's sake it would be well worth trying.

Newest Berets Sport Clever Little Brims

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Newest Paris hats have brims, you know, and that sounds as though it would complicate life, especially packing. But it doesn't if you take your hat tips from Suzanne Talbot, for she's created that seeming paradox, a beret with a brim, that has all the chic of the shaped hat, and yet rolls up into a little soft ball that can be tucked into any corner of the week-end case.

It's knitted in two shades of chenille—light for the crown, dark for the brim. Coral and brown, pink and Bordeau, pale blue and dark green are some of the chic combinations used.

In the hand it just looks like an ordinary, knitted, two colored beret, as you can see by the above sketch. on the head the dark border is pushed up into a round bicycle tire brim (see the above lady's head) which is the smartest thing in Paris.

At the lower left of our drawing you see one of the new strap sandals that are coming back into the mode after a considerable absence. This one is in dull and shining satin in two tones of blue.

Perugia makes a new version of the popular pump (shown at the right) of black patent leather and gray kid. The vamp and heel are in the black patent leather. Gray kid is used for the back and for the little godet insets that give a colonial line to the front of the shoe.

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

Changes in industrial circles are bringing to many city minded persons the questions as to whether poultry raising and egg production can pay in present times when some roadside stands are selling eggs at four dozen for 98 cents.

Many poultrymen find themselves unable to pay for chicken feed at these prices, while a few continue to assert they are able to buy feeds at lower prices and work out rations that will bring a profit when treating their flocks with proved methods.

One of these is James Christie of New Lenox, living on the Lincoln highway just east of Joliet. He recently purchased a one acre tract and in addition to getting a home he found the place was equipped with a poultry house measuring 30 by 40 feet. There were even 200 pullets ready to lay and egg production began a week after he took possession.

In January Mr. Christie's hens laid 285 dozen eggs with a market value of $142.75. He estimated his total expenses as $47.05. Out of this he says he paid $13.15 for scratch feed; $21.48 for mash feed, $1.70 for oats, $2.51 for egg boxes, $5.26 for fuel oil for heating the coop, and $2 for lighting the laying nests and scratch areas during twilight and early evening.

This left him with a net profit of $50.45, but he purchased eggs from eighbors and sold 348 dozen at a profit of 15 cents per dozen, which gave him a total net return for January of $142.65. Mr. Christie's experience is taken as an indication that even in times of low prices, exceptional methods and individual methods of selling poultry products including eggs can bring profits.

Fresh Air 'n' Sleep Best Tonics for That Wilted Look

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Just about this time of year women begin to feel the wear and tear of an active winter season. And their looks aren't what they were at the beginning of it. Run down is the way you describe it, pictorially as well as physically. Anyway, eyes aren't as bright as they might be, the skin looks drabbish under and around the makeup, and lines seem to creep in, in spite of the massages. "Wilted" is the look.

It may not be that you've led such a strenuous social existence, although again you may be in the class whose days are full of appointments, luncheon and dinner engagements, and late hour evening doings. You may be one of the busy business women who crowds into an already full day a good deal of social activity.

Again, you may be one of the domestic women who, if not active herself, gets the reaction in the gay life of her youngsters during the party season. Anyway, the point is that along about March there is a general let down, unless one is very young. And with spring just 'round the corner, now, not later, is the time for action.

I haven't anything novel to offer you by way of a beauty tonic, but that which I do offer is the best thing yet discovered, and probably the best thing that ever will be discovered. Of course, we're talking about sleep and about outdoor air. The sleep in itself is good, but if the sleep is teamed with a good daily intake of ozone, you have the beauty restorer that I say has no imitator.

The trouble with all this winter activity is not the activity itself, for that's the way people keep young in spirit. But it's the closed quarters under which most of it is carried on that wears the body and face appearance down. Even the business woman in her working place is up against this fresh air starvation during the closed window season. And social affairs, ridden to in motors or taxis, do not permit many good air lung washes in a season.

So, count on more sleep for your repair, but not merely sleep. Get the air into young lungs—three miles of it, daily—before you take to the extra sleep. You rest better following the internal air baths than you do without them.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

MRS. L. B.: POTATOES SHOULD not be eaten at each meal. Once a day is enough and then other starchy foods should be avoided. The starch in potatoes is the hardest of all starches to digest. It is also important that the potatoes be well cooked.

E. P.: THE BEST SOURCES OF iron are eggs and green vegetables, such as spinach and lettuce; dried fruits (dates, figs, and raisins); whole grain cereals also.

Food Talk.

Do our daily menus and recipes give you the assistance you need in feeding your family for health and comfort? Are our talks on food helping you to see that there is both science and art in this business of cooking? You may not always be conscious of it, but when you cook vegetables perfectly, bake excellent cake, and broil a steak to a turn you are controlling chemical and physical reactions in the best possible way. The serving of a meal that pleases the eye, delights the palate, and is compatible with good digestion is as much a work of art as are the elaborate dishes which contain the food. And just between you and me I think it is greater art though the dishes add to the pleasing setting of the picture.

Today's recipe is one that is so simple, yet when followed to the letter, it turns out a work of art. All good cooks and all amateurs will be glad to file it away in a safe place for future use once they have tried it. You may not like the way it reads and you may think it is the craziest way of mixing a cake that you ever heard of. Twelve minutes of beating is a lot, I will agree, but after all it is not as much work and trouble as creaming butter and sugar. If you will use a strong rotary egg beater and do your work at a moderate rate of speed it isn't so bad. Of course, if you have an electric beater that will be all the better. Should you be one of those weak wristed women, then it might be well to get some one to take turns with you.

This "Moss Rose" cake, as it is called, is a hot milk sponge variety and is most delightful. The color is pale and delicate like a yellow rose. The icing is soft and glossy and is just the old fashioned White Mountain icing. The delicious fresh cocoanut and orange mixture add a grand flavor and a beautiful appearance. And when you have cut into it and seen its extremely fine, moist texture and have tasted it, you will know that the name fits the cake. It is an old fashioned cake that originated in Pennsylvania, but there never was one lovelier.

MOSS ROSE CAKE.

4 eggs.

Sift the flour first, then measure. Resift with the baking powder. Put the milk into a saucepan and place on the stove. Break the eggs over the sugar and beat twelve minutes. In the meantime heat the milk to the boiling point and add the extract. Add the flour mixture to the egg-sugar mixture in three or four portions folding in carefully. Then add the hot milk slowly. Beat for three minutes until well mixed. This batter is thin, but never mind that. Turn into two round cake tins prepared by lining bottoms with paraffin paper and oiling perpendicular sides with fat. Bake in a moderate oven [350° F.] for thirty minutes. Remove to cake cooler and when cold spread with the following icing.

WHITE MOUNTAIN ICING.

1 tsp. vanilla.
2 tbsp. granulated sugar.
1 orange.

Put sugar and water into a saucepan and boil without stirring until it spins a thread or to 246 degrees F. Let cool until it stops bubbling; then pour slowly over the stiffly beaten egg whites. Beat until it is thick enough to spread. Add vanilla and spread on the cooled cake. But do not put the layer together. Combine the 2 tablespoons sugar with the cocoanut and the grated rind and juice of the orange. Fresh grated cocoanut is best but the canned moist kind will do as well. Put half of this cocoanut mixture on top of one of the iced cakes. Lay the other on top and place the rest of the cocoanut on top. If you prefer a smooth top make up only half of the cocoanut mixture. The rough yellow frosting both looks and tastes good.

Meta Given will answer in this department questions that are of general interest from readers. Personal replies will be made by mail where a stamped self-addressed envelope is inclosed.

Bright Sayings of the Children

One day the door bell rang. Mother told 5 year old Jean to answer it, only to find on her return that it was a beggar.

Jean was given a dime to give him. The beggar took the money, said, "God bless you," and went away.

When Jean returned to her mother she exclaimed, "Mother, that man said 'God bless you,' and I didn't even sneeze.

Out of Work for Months.

"No one in the family has had a steady income in months and we are having a dreadful time trying to get along. I get work for a half day now and then, but it doesn't help much. Perhaps you can get us the clothing we need. The boys are 10, 12, 14, and 16 years, and they need shirts, trousers, and shoes. It wear size 38 or 40 and could use any kind of clothing, especially house dresses. My shoe size is 4. Mrs. M. F."

Clothing secured when work was plenty cannot last forever and replacing it during a time of unemployment is an impossibility for the majority of people.

HAWKS DROP FINAL GAME TO TORONTO, 2 TO 1

CUBS PILE UP 25 TO 6 VICTORY OVER LOS ANGELES

HARTNETT HITS 2 HOME RUNS, WILSON GETS 1

Baecht, Warnecke Divide Pitching.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 15.—Our Cubs this afternoon took no chances at the treachery of California's setting sun and amassed themselves a huge mess of runs while the thing still was high in the blue heavens. They made 17 runs in the first six innings, manufactured three batches of four each in the first, third, and fourth innings, and a rousing five in the sixth. They tapered off gently with three runs in the eighth and five in the ninth. The eventual score was Cubs, 25; Angels, 6.

Of course, such a jolly total involved a lot of bat swinging. There was Gabby Hartnett with homers the first and second times at bat, and a single the third time; Rogers Hornsby with a homer, two singles, a walk, and a sacrifice; Hack Wilson with a left field wall homer; Lester Bell with two doubles, three singles, and two walks in seven trips to the plate; Kiki Cuyler with two doubles and three singles, and Johnny Moore with three singles, a double, and a walk.

Baecht Whiffs Six.

Ed Baecht pitched the first five innings against his former mates, and while he was touched up from time to time, he distinguished himself by striking out six. Lon Warnecke pitched the last four innings and fanned three.

All this Sabbath morning the Cubs made no bones about the fact that they were greatly chagrined at the outcome of Saturday's contest which the Angels won, 11 to 10. The consensus seemed to be that one of the ways to get revenge would be to go out to Wrigley field and make four runs in the first inning and, sure enough they made exactly four runs in the first inning.

Moore Starts Hitting Orgy.

Moore started things with a double to left. Jurges was called out on strikes, but Hornsby knocked out a single to left, scoring Moore, and went to second while Farrell was throwing out Wilson. Rogers scored when Cuyler drove a single into right field. At this point Gabby stepped up and smacked his No. 1 homer, Ki scoring ahead of him. Bell came up with a single, but was forced by Grimm.

A double play made Cub effort futile in the second, but in their half the Angels scored their first run on Dittmar's double and a single by Vusich.

After Hornsby had flied out in the third, Wilson walked and stopped at third on Cuyler's double. Hartnett then propelled his No. 2 homer, driving in Hack and Ki ahead of him. Another run, to complete the quota of four, was made on singles by Bell, Baecht, and Moore.

Angels Get a Pair.

The Angels made two runs in the third on singles by Farrell and Statz and Dittmar's second double.

In the fourth the Cubs tallied their third cluster of four runs on three hits and three walks. Hornsby, Bell, and Moore got the walks and Cuyler, Hartnett, and Jurges the hits. Cuyler's run his second double and his third hit in a row and Jurges' was made with the bases full.

A young person named Zabella threw to the batters in the fifth and got them out one, two, three, but in the next inning the boys exceeded the prescribed four runs. They made five, the fourth and fifth being scored as a result of Hack's homer, his first hit in two days.

Have Day Off Today.

A gent named Gugich was the victim in the eighth and ninth, the climax of which was Hornsby's homer with two on. Warnecke got careless in the ninth and loaded the bases after which a run scored when Lon issued his third pass of the inning.

The Cubs will have a day off tomorrow and will spend it as Joe Brown's guests watching 'em make movies in Hollywood.

Bush Tells Sox How They Can Finish in First Division

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 15.—Because rain prevented the scheduled outdoor exercises with the Giants, Donie Bush, boss of the White Sox, delivered several reams of oratory this afternoon. His topic was the impending American League race and in his speech, which he admitted having prepared in advance, he spoke of his White Sox troops as possible fourth placers and certainly good enough to finish fifth. The little fellow may not be far wrong at that if bad luck doesn't catch up with him.

Bush likes his ball club because—he thinks—it is going to be fairly formidable in various departments. He expects no trouble from his pitching. He ranks his three catchers, as a staff, with the best of them. He is going to have more speed than any Comiskey team of recent years. He's going to have a pretty fair punch at bat, which was needed. He expects the fielding to be good. And, confidentially, he expects to get his hands on a real first baseman. How to do that is his own problem but he hints that he can do it if necessary.

Banks on Thomas.

Bush's notion that the Sox might finish fourth, three places above that being conceded by him to Philadelphia, Washington, and the Yankees, is based on the amount of successful labor turned out by Tommy Thomas' right arm. Thomas was an invalid last year because of bone chips in his elbow but is supposed to have fully recovered.

"If Thomas is the real Thomas, you can figure on him for at least 15 wins," spoke Bush. "That would get us into the first division. I know what the other pitchers can and will do. Men like Lyons, Caraway, Faber, McKain, Braxton, Frasier, and Moore are bound to be good. If Frasier isn't a winner then I never looked at a pitching prospect."

That Bush should be concerned about Thomas comes as more or less of a surprise. The Baltimore blonde has insisted he is as sound now as a new dollar, but it seems that while the hitch has vanished from his elbow, fresh squeaks have appeared in the shoulder. It may be nothing more than common spring soreness and then again might be something serious. A better line on him will be possible tomorrow. He's going to start against the Giants in the game which was washed away today.

Kamm Hustles Like Rookie.

Last summer Bush and Willie Kamm didn't hit it off well together, but now Willie is hustling like a rookie. Something has brought about a change of heart. He is one reason for Bush's optimism. Appling is another. Bush picks him for a shortstop who will both hit and field. Bush also thinks Reynolds and Jolley are vastly improved on defense. They will be helped by Simons, new center fielder, who can roam well to either side for fly balls. In recent years the middle garden has been a nightmare for south side fans. Bush rates Simons, not as a star, but as one who will play good ball day after day.

The Sox chief refuses to condemn Radcliff as a first sacker until the youngster has had a thorough course of training, but it is generally conceded that eventually Watwood will be playing the bag unless some one is obtained from another club. Watwood always has been a fair hitter and should continue to improve. Tie him up with Cissell, Simons, Reynolds, Jolley, Appling and Kamm and you get a fairly formidable attack. Bush terms it "power." The big danger is that one or two of them might cease to hustle after a couple of months. It has happened before.

Mulleavey Back to Toledo.

Along with his oratory today, Bush let fly a few releases of excess talent. Outfielder Willingham, purchased from Dallas, was claimed by the Phillies on waivers. Mulleavey, who was bought from Toledo as a budding shortstop last summer, goes back to that club with the stipulation that he must be used at second base. The Sox can recall him on 24 hours' notice. More dismissal slips will be issued within a day or two and probably will be tendered Infielders Ryan and Goff and Catcher Seigel. Later on two or three pitchers will move out.

After the game with the Giants tomorrow the Sox will start a week's tour of the Uncle Tom's Cabin circuit. On Tuesday they play the Texas varsity nine at Austin. The next afternoon they'll stop off at Brenham, Tex., to battle the Montreal club. On Thursday and Friday the Texas league team of Galveston will provide competition at that place. Then the series with the Giants will be resumed at Houston next Saturday and Sunday. The Saturday affair will be staged at night.

Charles A. Comiskey, who for the last ten days has been a daily spectator at the workouts of his team, will start for Chicago tomorrow by motor. Business Manager Harry Grabiner also is departing tomorrow, but will make the journey by train.

GOLDEN GLOVES RIVALS ARE ALL GOOD PALS NOW

"Beat New York" Is Their Rallying Cry.

BY FRENCH LANE.

It may not seem easy to walk up, shake hands, and give a pat on the back to a fellow who whipped you less than a week ago. But that's what the boys on THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves team were doing late yesterday afternoon and last night at the Illinois Athletic club.

Those fistic arguments of last Wednesday night which thrilled a crowd of 23,000 at the Stadium were forgotten as the Chicago boys reported at their training camp. "Let's whip New York," was the theme song of the gathering.

Remember the desperate tussle between Scotty Syvano and George Holden for the Golden Glove in the lightweight division? Among the early arrivals were Holden and Sylvano. They were the best of friends 10 minutes after the team assembled.

They're Pals Now.

"I don't believe you'll ever do it again," Holden told Sylvano. "But let's get busy and whip New York." Holden and Sylvano were talking at the same time.

Remember how hard Johnny Long of Gary and Adam Smith of Rockford tried to knock each other into fistic oblivion in the championship heavyweight battle? Well, from the looks of things, Adam and Johnny will be roommates by the time the Chicago team heads for Madison Square Garden on March 27.

But Adam admitted it had taken the better part of four days for him to cool out after he lost the decision to Long.

You probably recall Jack Kranz's hard fight with Dick Monty of Kid Howard's gym. They walked into the training camp arm in arm, determined to win both bouts from New York in the light heavyweight division.

Nick Reports First.

The first boy to report at the training camp was Nick Scialaba, bantamweight champion of the Chicago team, and he brought along George Goodman, the boy he whipped for the title. George Keenan arrived a few minutes later. George is the welterweight crown wearer and expects to pick up many good pointers from Coaches Benny Yanger, Johnny Behr, and Jabber Young during the training season, which opens with an outdoor drill at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

More than 20 members of the Chicago team of 24 which fights New York on the night of March 30 joined in the "love feast" last night. They fought and refought the battles which carried them toward the championship fight and a place on the Chicago team.

At 7 o'clock this morning the Golden Gloves warriors will be called out of their slumbers. They will get their first meal at the Illinois Athletic club training table thirty minutes later. Then will follow the outdoor drill at 9:30 this morning, there will be lunch at 12 o'clock, and a gymnasium session, where the gloves will fly at 2:30 o'clock.

They will be busy lads from the time the first road work is ordered this morning until the team departs for New York one week from next Friday.

TUNING UP TIME FOR GOLDEN GLOVERS

Golden Gloves fighters who will represent Chicago in the intercity bouts with New York March 30 are skilled boys, but there always is a chance to become more proficient. The amateur glove swingers are getting instructions at the Illinois A. C. training quarters from Jabber Young, Benny Yanger, Harry Berz, and Johnny Behr.

Brickies Beat Millers; Win Soccer Title

The Bricklayers yesterday won the western soccer championship by defeating the Ben Millers of St. Louis, 1 to 0, in the second game of the final series at Sparta field.

The Brickies, who took the first game, 7 to 2, were the better team, and only the brilliant defense of the Millers kept the score down.

The Chicago team won the toss and the Millers kicked off before a crowd of 3,000. Maclean immediately tested the visitors' goalkeeper with a shot that the defender did well to push over the crossbar. The Brickies continued on the offensive and corner kicks were numerous. But the visitors' defense held, and Mulroy, who was the best forward in the St. Louis line, gave Neate a chance to show his ability as a goalkeeper.

Heads Ball Into Net.

The second half had gone ten minutes when the winning goal was scored. Greenlees received a pass from Thompson, and taking the ball down the field he crossed to Maclean. Maclean then slipped the ball to Coutts, who while trying for position raised the ball too high to kick it in. However, he decided to head the ball in and it whizzed past Hamm, St. Louis goalie.

The Brickies then fought to increase their lead and kept the fans in an uproar as they bombarded the goal. But Hamm either pushed the ball over the crossbar or turned it past the upright for a corner kick, from which the Brickies never were able to score.

17th Victory in a Row.

With fifteen minutes to play the Ben Millers rallied in a vain effort to even the score. The Brickie goalie had a few narrow escapes, but his defense could not be broken down. The victory was the seventeenth straight for the Brickies.

New York Picks Its Golden Gloves Battlers Tonight

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—Thirty-two amateur boxers, survivors of a field of 3,600, battle it out at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night for the Golden Gloves championship of New York. Twenty thousand, the capacity of the arena, will look on.

Out of these contests will come the 16 boys who on March 30 will fight Chicago's Golden Gloves winners in the fourth annual intercity match. The New York boxers not only will be striving for a place in the intercity bouts but also for a chance to meet the champions of France in the international battle at the Chicago Stadium on May 12.

The Golden Gloves teams which will attempt to repel the French invasion will be made up of the winners in the championship fights of the New York-Chicago encounter.

Same Rules Prevail.

The New York bouts are sponsored by the Daily News and sanctioned by the metropolitan association of the Amateur Athletic union. The same rules which prevailed in the Chicago tournament will be observed here. Each bout will consist of three rounds of three minutes each. An extra round will be ordered if the judges and referee are unable to return a decision at the end of three.

The boys who have reached the final round of the New York News meet have weathered the sternest test amateur boxing provides. The Chicago tournament, which attracted 2,000 entries from six central states, drew only slightly more than half the field that answered the call to Golden Gloves in New York.

College students, bakers, butchers, and bankers, electricians, truck drivers, printers, clerks, newsboys, and even a farmer all will gather tomorrow to match their courage, stamina, and punches. They are grouped in two classes, the open and subnovice. The latter division includes boys who never had won a tournament bout before the start of this year's meet.

Action in Featherweight Class.

The featherweight bouts are expected to produce the liveliest entertainment of the evening. They bring together Tony Scarpati and Johnny Bonito in the open class and Izzy Gibbs and Lew Mendelsohn in the subnovice, two Italians and two Jewish boys. That ought to mean something. It will be interesting to note how they stack up with Chicago's 126 pounders, Don Gonzales and Tony Muscarello.

According to Paul Gallico, manager of the New York meet, his team has a couple of murderous chin busters in Jimmy Garley and Joe Pettischan, who are going to make quick work of Chicago's heavyweights, John Long and Adam Smith.

LEAFS' CAUTIOUS PLAY THWARTS CHICAGO ATTACK

Gottselig Scores in Third Period.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Toronto Maple Leafs spoiled the farewell party which the Blackhawks gave last night at the Stadium in the presence of 15,000 visitors, for the boys from Canada gave the Chicagoans a 2 to 1 beating in the last home game of the regular schedule.

Throughout the battle the Leafs held back, waiting for a break, letting the speedy, spectacular Blackhawks skate themselves dizzy. And when openings came, they clicked. They scored once in the first period, again in the second, and in between times presented a solid wall which the Chicago boys were unable to penetrate.

Hawks Score at Finish.

The Hawks cut loose with everything they had, but they burned themselves up in futile dashes which ended again and again with the puck carrier forced far over by the boards, beaten in on all sides by the thrashing sticks of three or four Toronto men.

The Chicagoans were game to the end and never let up. Four minutes before the finish four forwards were sent in, leaving but one defense man. The seconds ticked away and presently, Cook and Wentworth came streaking down the ice advancing the puck with a series of swift changes. As they neared the Toronto goal Gottselig rushed in from the left, took a pass from Wentworth, and scored.

Hawks Keep Up Attack.

The applause had scarcely died when the Hawks were again ontop of their opponents' goal. With seconds to go, they broke through the cordon of Toronto defense men and the game ended with every spectator on his feet cheering while the puck was being batted wildly back and forth within inches of the Maple Leaf goal.

Both the Leafs and the Hawks are practically certain of second place in their respective divisions of the National Hockey league, so the two teams will meet again in the Stanley cup playoffs. The first game will be played at Toronto, but the rivals will meet in the Stadium on March 26.

The game opened with a series of Blackhawk rushes, which usually were met by a solid phalanx of Toronto sticks. Romnes, Gottselig, and Couture charged in recklessly, passing the puck with dazzling speed, but always they lost it before getting close enough for a telling shot. Then big Taffy Abel tried a few headlong plunges single handed, ploughing through the Maple Leafs like a college full back, only to have his tries for goal carom off Chabot's skates or stick.

Cotton Eludes Hawks.

The Toronto team was making fewer sallies into Chicago territory. After a little more than fifteen minutes of rushing hither and yon to no good purpose Clancy snared the puck in mid-ice and skated like a lightning streak along the boards. As he neared the goal he was hemmed in on all sides by Blackhawks, but he neatly flicked the rubber disc to Cotton, who took it six feet from the cage and slammed it in.

As the second period began, it became apparent that even that single point was going to be a big handicap for the Hawks to overcome. Every charge was squelched in the making or collapsed as some Chicago player missed a pass. The Leafs seemed content at first to protect their margin, but presently an opening came and Cotton and Day flashed down the ice, juggling the rubber disc between them. Goalkeeper Gardiner was forced to fall on the puck to prevent a score.

Hawks Attack Grows Furious.

Then the fighting spirit of the Hawks became aroused and their attacks grew more furious. There were repeated pileups in front of the Toronto net and in the course of one of them Day's stick was stapped from his hand. He averted the danger of a score by sitting down on the puck.

Five minutes before the end of the period Horner skated deep into Chicago territory with three or four Hawks hemming him in. They forced him over near the boards, but Primeau was coming like a streak down the center of the ice. He took Horner's perfect pass and knocked the puck past Gardiner's shoulder into the net, making it Maple Leafs, 2; Blackhawks, 0.

In the last frenzied efforts to score, four Black Hawk forwards were sent in, leaving only one defense man. With two minutes to play Cook and Wentworth tore down the center of the ice, passed to Gottselig, who was coming in from the left, and Gottselig knocked it in.

The Chicago Bruins, with Charley Murphy scoring 10 points, last night defeated the Akron Firestones, 24 to 22, at the Broadway armory before 1,800. Shoun, Akron's lanky forward, led the visitors, contributing three baskets and one free throw.

Midway in the first half Chicago took a 13 to 4 lead, but a spurt by the Firestones put them in front, 18 to 13, as the half ended.

WOMAN PUGILIST KNOCKS OUT FOE, BUT GETS A DRAW

MADRAS, India, March 15.—(AP)—Repudiating the theory that women belong to the "weaker sex," two prominent Indian society women today engaged in a fierce six round prize fight. The bout ended in a knockout, but the referee, with masculine gallantry, declared it a draw.

Mrs. Kamalaba of Malabar, amid the cheers of her supporters, sent her opponent, Miss Sitabai of Tanjore, to the floor with a terrific uppercut in the sixth round.

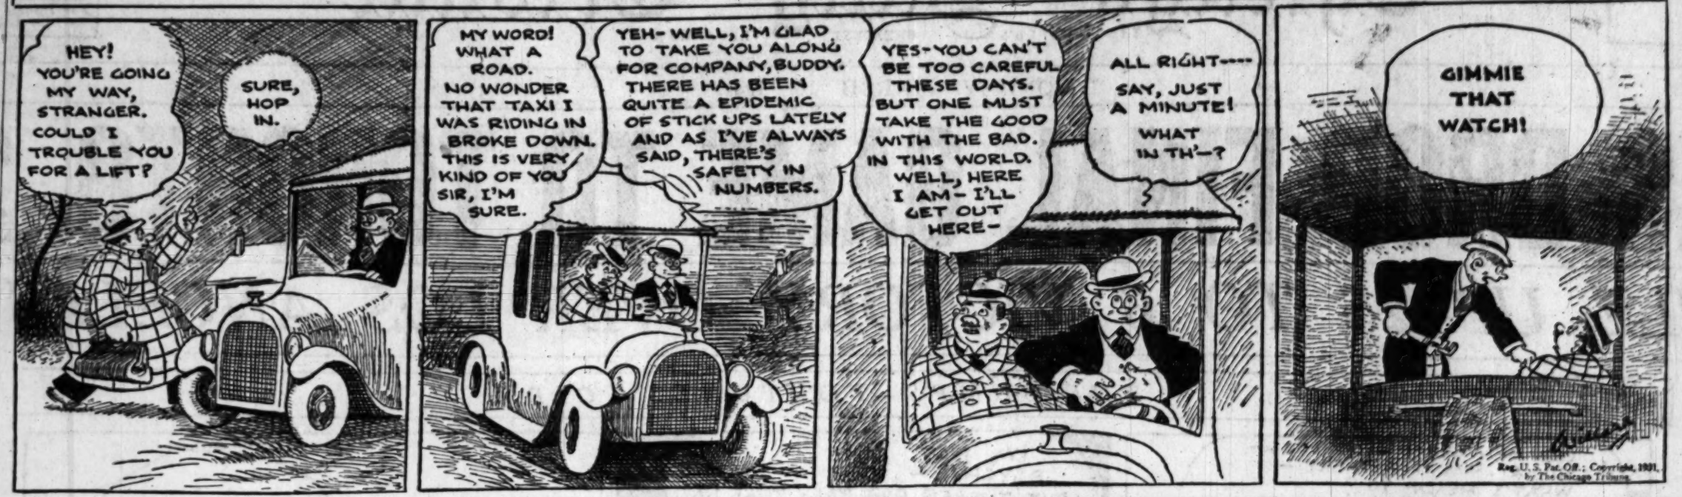
MOON MULLINS—THIS GUY GOT A LIFT



DAW SHOOTS 711 TO TAKE SINGLES LEAD AT A. B. C.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 15.—[Special.]—Charley Daw of Milwaukee soared to the lead in both the singles and all events of the American Bowling congress today. The Milwaukee pin star crashed to the top in the singles division with 711 and took the all events lead with 1,853.

Daw shot 255 in his first game in the singles. A 4-6 split in the second game stopped him temporarily, and he followed with two spares, and then piled up five strikes. He left No. 7 on his eleventh ball, and then struck for a 233 mark.

Winds up with 223.

Daw opened the last game with a double. His next ball was solid in the pocket, but the No. 10 refused to budge. He followed with four more strikes, and then his eighth ball, another pocket hit, left the 8-10 split. He followed with two spares, and his counts of 255, 233, and 223 gave him high count of 711.

Scoring games of 426, 436, 381 Frank Brown and Frank Kaminski placed Chicago in the doubles lead with a 1,243 total. Brown came through with second high total of the tournament when he rolled 234, 253, and 212 for 699.

Cincinnati Pair Gets 1,236.

Joe Lambert and Bart Cook, Cincinnati, shot 1,236. They chalked up games of 355, 458, and 393. H. Folund and F. Thomle, Aurora, had 1,210.

Andy Bessert, Milwaukee, landed the runner up spot in the all events with 1,832 total. Chicago scores:

BERWYN WINS BASKET TITLE

Paxton, Ill., March 15.—[Special.]—The Berwyn independent basketball team won the Illinois state amateur championship by defeating McLeansboro, 35 to 23, yesterday in the finals of a four day tournament here.

Doc Krone Drops In! That Means There's a Mat Show

Jim Londos, holder of one of the myriad world's heavyweight wrestling championships, is really going to risk his particular championship when he meets Kola Kwariani, the hairless Russian, in a finish match at the Coliseum on Wednesday night.

Doc Krone, himself, is authority for the statement. In fact, Doc goes farther and admits that not only is the champion's crown in peril but also his "beautiful $10,000 diamond studded belt presented to him by the Madison Square Garden and 600 Millionaires club of New York after he had defeated Jim McMillen at the Madison Square Garden at a gate which totaled over $60,000, Jan. 24, 1931, which has to be won three times in order to be retained."

Doc Gets Indignant.

And Doc Krone ought to know if anybody does, because Doc, as is doubtless known, is the impresario who directs the histrionic exhibition in which Mr. Londos and Mr. Kwariani will engage. Of course, you understand, the doctor does not intend to imply that the outcome of the match is preordained.

In fact, he was very indignant when such a possibility was even hinted at in an interview last evening. The doctor, whose chief claim to fame is a remarkable dietary achievement in which he removed an inordinate number of pounds from his well cushioned person in an inordinately short space of time, waddled into the sports department of THE TRIBUNE—as he not infrequently does on the eve of one of his athletic masterpieces—to let the world know what was impending.

His rubicund face was beaming above the sympathetically sombre vestments of the well-to-do mortician which he affects and with his bowler hat perched jauntily over one eyebrow, he seemed to have stepped out of a page of Dickens.

"Well, I've got a bunch of my boys going to drop in on me next Wednesday night," he started. "You've no idea——"

"Who's going to win, Doc?" some one inquired. "Whose turn is it?"

A cloud of ineffable sorrow drove the perennial sunshine from the doctor's countenance and he turned a pityingly sad eye upon the iconoclast.

Londos Still Drawing Card.

"I wish you wouldn't talk that way," he said. "It's fellows like you who in the past have cast suspicion over one of the noblest and most ancient of all sports. Why do you suppose for a moment that if there were the least thing wrong with wrestling that Jim Londos could draw the crowds that he does?

"Why, Jim Londos is the greatest drawing card of sportdom of all time. Night after night he draws gates of $50,000 or more. Not even Jack Dempsey could do that. Dempsey drew million dollar gates, yes. But how often? How often, I repeat. Five times in seven years! Think of that, only five times in seven years, and Londos wrestles several times a week to capacity houses."

"Now, about who's going to win," he returned to his subject, having disposed of the scoffer. "Kola Doroshenko Kwariani is a colorful Russian and is the finest looking athlete ever to have invaded this country from Europe. Fine looking from the tips of his toes to his classic brow, but his head is bald and is as smooth as a proverbial billiard ball. This terrible condition was his heritage from the world war, in which he, like the other young men of Russia, participated in."

Champion at His Best.

The "heritage from the world war," it seemed from Doc's exposition, will go a long way toward transplanting the heavyweight crown from Londos' noble brow to Kwariani's glistening pate, but he neglected to make clear just what part this difference in hirsute adornment will play in Wednesday's match.

"However, I don't think that Londos won't be at his best," the doctor hastened to add. "He will. He will be struggling at his utmost to retain the beautiful $10,000 diamond studded belt presented to him by the Madison Square Garden and the 600 Millionaires' club of New York after he had defeated Jim McMillen at the Madison Square Garden at a gate which totaled——

"But I believe I mentioned that before, and I am not here to ballyhoo. It is only in the interest of devolping America's manhood that I come. I only want to let the public know that it can see the perfect athlete, the Greek Adonis, at the Coliseum Wednesday night—and don't neglect to mention the supporting card."

"And," he shouted back as he took himself out the door, "be sure and make it 'Greek Adonis.'"

Keeps Londos Above Reproach.

The doctor's solicitude about the Hellenic appelation arises, not as one might suspect, out of a desire to impress upon Londos' fellow countrymen the fact that he is a native of Greece, but merely to prevent the public from confusing him with that Roman Adonis whose celebrated affair with Venus might give rise to scandalous gossip, involving Mr. Londos in an affair, with which, it is needless to say, he had not even a remote connection.

Mullen to Hold Title Tourney at 160 Pounds

A middleweight boxing tournament sanctioned by the National Boxing association, of which Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois boxing commission, is president, will open at the Coliseum on Tuesday, March 24, with George Ferguson as promoter and Jim Mullen as matchmaker.

The tournament has been arranged to pick a successor to Mickey Walker as middleweight champion. The winner will be given a gold belt emplematic of the title by the N. B. A.

Promoter Ferguson and Matchmaker Mullen will open the tourney at the Coliseum with four ten round bouts. Mullen closed two of the feature engagements yesterday.

In one of the headliners he will have Tait Littman of Milwaukee, who of late has been combating light heavies. Littman will be opposed by Wild Willie Oster of Boston. Oster won four Chicago fights on knockouts.

Chuck Heffner of Denver will engage My Sullivan of St. Paul in another ten rounder. Mullen has cance'ed a show for the Coliseum which was to have featured Tommy Freeman, the welterweight champion, next Friday night.

CHICAGOANS TOP ALL 4 EVENTS IN K. OF C. TOURNEY

St. Louis, Mo., March 15.—(AP)—New leaders appeared today in all four events of the ninth annual tournament of the National Knights of Columbus Bowling association.

The new five man leader is the De Soto No. 1 team of Chicago, which includes in its lineup Frank Kartheiser and E. Schantz. De Soto had a total of 2,974 and nosed out the Boren Insurance team of Indianapolis, which rolled 2,925.

Kartheiser and Schanz rolled into the lead in the doubles with 1,231, while J. Dunn of Chicago, with 685, took the top position in the singles. C. Campbell, also of Chicago, went into first place in the all-events with 1,869.

FRENCH SOCCER TEAM DEFEATS GERMANY, 1 TO 0

PARIS, March 15.—(AP)—France's soccer football team defeated Germany today, 1-0, in the first match the two countries' official teams have played in 33 years. A crowd of 45,000 saw the contest, about 12,000 of them Germans.

There was only one instance of roughness which charitably might have been called overzealous.

Storm Brings Hard Luck to Early Birds

BY BOB BECKER.

Hundreds of wild birds, fooled by the mild open winter in the middle west, were nipped by the big blizzard which struck the central states more than a week ago. This severe storm arrived on the day when the robins, coming up from the south, should have been making their appearance in Chicagoland. As is the case each spring, inclement wintry weather in March always retards migration. A warm wave in either March or April brings the birds. Cold weather holds them back.

Previous to the storm we had seen one lonely red winged blackbird up our way. But he has deserted his pond, which now is covered with snow. However, the cardinals refuse to be intimidated by the slap which winter gave us. Every morning we listen to their shrill, joyous whistling in the oak woods along the shore of Lake Michigan. Snow means nothing to them, because the food counters which they visit are well stocked.

Lack Weather Sense.

Although the migrating birds have a marvelous sense of direction and can perform some astounding feats of "blind flying" when they travel up and down the American continent, it is a knewn fact that they have little or no weather sense. Some of our songsters will start flying across the Gulf of Mexico toward Louisiana in the face of an approaching norther and perish on the way.

It is not uncommon in the fall for swallows to be turned around on their southern migration, fly back to mild warm weather in December and then perish through a quick change which brings a blustering storm. In a similar manner early spring migrants are drawn into the northland to perish in a late blizzard. Bluebirds have suffered in this way. They are early arrivals. With the robins they rank among our earliest songsters in the lakes states.

A Fascinating Study.

This whole question of migration is one of the most fascinating subjects that the study of birds presents. Bird fans who want to learn more about the long distance travels of our feathered residents in the central states will find the subject covered in the bird book published by THE TRIBUNE. It is called "Birds and Birdhouses," and is on sale at the public service office of THE TRIBUNE at 1 South Dearborn street, Chicago. The price of this little handbook is 28 cents by mail. Orders for the book should be sent direct to that address.

One whole chapter in this book is devoted to migration routes of North American birds. The question of where many of our birds winter also is taken up.

WORLD'S GRAIN PRICES LOWEST IN RECENT YEARS

All Wheat Nations Have Surpluses.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain prices the world over are the lowest in recent years, and the volume of speculative trading is the lightest known in a great many years. Traders say that there is nothing in the present or immediate situation to induce new speculative buying, as fluctuations are too narrow to make it interesting for the outside public to take hold and the immediate future gives no promise of profitable returns.

Wheat supplies greatly exceed consumptive requirements. All leading exporting countries having large surpluses and until they are reduced, or new factors develop such as serious damage to crops in all countries, or an increased confidence amongst consumers in anticipating future requirements, return of a broad speculative trade and a material advance in prices are not to be expected.

Impression of Traders.

It is the impression among all traders that the government's position in the market is a menace. But were it not for the stabilizing influence in the wheat market, prices in the United States would be materially lower. Farmers and their friends are criticising the farm board despite its efforts to help holders of wheat to make a good market for their surplus. The popular argument is that were prices permitted to seek new low levels where buyers would appear in volume conditions would be greatly improved.

Old crop futures of wheat are held close to the pegged figure, 79c for March and 81c for May in Chicago. At Kansas City, the farm board's price on cash wheat was advanced ½c, and at Minneapolis, 1c. Satisfactory quantities of wheat have been sold by the farm board for export to Europe and China, but they are not particularly reflected by export clearances, although they are said to have been an increase on the north Pacific coast.

The supply and demand situation in wheat never stood out more strongly as a bearish factor in wheat than at present. Indications are that there will be another large carryover in the United States and Canada at the end of this season. Estimates of the carryover in the United States run from 275,000,000 to 350,000,000 bu. and in Canada they are around 100,000,000 to 125,000,000 bu. Taking the commercial stocks and farm reserves in the United States there is 370,000,000 bu, against 262,000,000 last year.

Some Blame Consumption.

While the greatest impression is that aggregate wheat supplies the world over are excessive due to steadily enlarged production the last few years, there are a few who are trying to make out that the trouble lies not in the increased production, but in the decreased consumption.

Primary receipts of wheat are the largest for this period in recent years, and the accumulation of supplies continues, when it should be decreasing. Today's report is expected to show another increase which will bring it so far above the record.

It is expected that the Grain Stabilization corporation officials and members of the Terminal Elevator association will reach an agreement at their

U.S. Shipyards Busiest Since Days of War

New York, March 15.—(AP)—One of the seeming paradoxes of the times is the activity in American shipyards in a period when thousands of tons of shipping lie idle in world ports.

The greatest economic disturbance the world has experienced in a generation or more brought a sharp contraction in the volume of goods carried across the seas with a consequent decline in revenues.

American shipping interests suffered with others, but whereas the rest of the world curtailed construction to conserve their financial strength, domestic shipyards ring with the greatest activity since the war.

Construction Rises 19 Per Cent.

Contrasting with the drab outlook for shipping, whose fortunes turn on the trend of world trade, which has shown little improvement, the future of American shipbuilding is rosy hued. Contracts for a large number of passenger and cargo ships placed under the Jones-White act has been the saving grace of the shipbuilding industry, enabling it to show a 19 per cent increase in construction last year over 1929. Shipbuilders attribute the increase solely to the stimulus by government aid in the form of loans and mail contracts.

Tonnage under construction or for which contracts had been let at the beginning of the current year was somewhat under the peak of 1930, but still above any year in the decade preceding 1930. Ships contracted on the ways or under contract include 27 ocean or lake steamers, and 122 miscellaneous vessels in addition.

Income Shrinks.

Not in many years has there been such a shrinkage in the income of shipping interests as in 1930. The reports of eleven domestic companies show their business dropped 60 per cent from 1929.

It is unofficially estimated that 15 per cent of the world shipping fleet was tied up in docks at the end of 1930 and department of commerce figures from the ports of the principal maritime nations indicate that the idle tonnage was 1.57 per cent greater than on Dec. 31, 1929. There was a 28 per cent increase in the tonnage of American shipping tied up at docks in the same period.

WORKERS SHOW FAITH IN FUTURE OF U. S. STEEL

BY O. A. MATHER.

A treatise on the democratization of American industry might be written around the annual report of the United States Steel corporation, which was made public last night by J. P. Morgan, chairman, and James A. Farrell, president. It leaves no doubt that employés of the big company, from top to bottom, have faith in the future in the face of severe depression and are buying into the business at a faster rate than in more prosperous years. It also shows the desire of the management to play fair with the workers.

Every third stockholder of United States Steel is an employé and these employé stockholders own approximately 10 per cent of the common stock. Moreover, they are increasing their holdings by acquiring additional stock by installment purchasing under the corporation's stock subscription plan. This year 65,233 employés have subscribed for 126,627 common shares, whereas in 1929, which was the company's most prosperous year, 59,947 employés subscribed for 98,266 shares.

Has 189,900 Stockholders.

At the end of 1930 United States Steel had 189,900 registered stockholders, of whom 57,018 were employés owning 111,072 preferred and 803,328 common shares. But 16,814 other employés were paying for 98,985 common shares on installments. Thus, more than 900,000 common shares of a total of 8,687,435 shares stood in employés' names.

While last year's depression made it necessary for U. S. Steel to reduce operations, there was no wholesale discharging of employés and wage reductions. Work was apportioned equitably on a part time basis. The average number of employés in 1930 was 211,055, compared with 224,980 in 1929, a decline of 6.19 per cent. Total wages and salaries last year were $391,271,366, a decrease of $28,801,485, or 6.86 per cent. Average earnings per employé, considered on full days worked and excluding general administrative and selling forces, were $5.80 a day, compared with $5.84 a day in 1929. Average earnings for all employés were $5.99 a day, the same as in 1929.

Most of the financial data of the report conform closely to the preliminary report issued in January. Total earnings for 1930 were $1,180,934,971, compared with $1,509,584,637 in 1929. Net income last year was $104,421,571, equivalent after preferred dividends to $9.11 a share on 8,687,435 common shares. Net income for 1929 was $197,531,349, including $9,972,351 as a special year-end credit adjustment. This amount was equivalent to $21.18 a share on 8,132,840 common shares, or $19.96 a share excluding the special credit.

Average of Operations.

Operations of U. S. Steel in 1930 averaged only 65.6 per cent of capacity, compared with 89.2 per cent in 1929. Last year's ratio was the second lowest in the corporation's history, the lowest ratio being 47.5 per cent in 1921, which was the post-war depression year.

United States Steel ended 1930 in strong position. It had current assets of $578,373,097, current liabilities of $108,873,454 and total assets of $2,394,544,611.

UNION CARBIDE REPORTS

Another big industrial concern, the Union Carbide and Carbon corporation, weathered last year's depression fairly well. Its net income for 1930 was $28,041,425, equivalent to $3.12 a share on 9,000,743 shares of capital stock, compared with net income of $35,427,024, or $3.94 a share on 8,981,581 shares, in 1929. After paying dividends of $2.60 a share last year, surplus was increased by $1,798,422 to $98,579,703. The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1930, shows current assets of $110,231,628, current liabilities of $14,354,274 and total assets of $358,295,557.

The annual report, issued last night by President Jesse J. Ricks, calls attention to the opening last year of the first large commercial plant for the synthetic production of ethyl alcohol.

Illinois Diamond Match for 1930 Earns $14.28 a Share

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—(AP)—The last report of the Diamond Match company of Illinois, which was dissolved as of Dec. 31 last, was issued today by its successor company, the Diamond Match company, a Delaware corporation. The report showed consolidated net earnings of $2,427,498 in 1930, equal to $14.28 a share on the 170,000 shares of capital stock outstanding. This compares with a net income of $1,632,576, or $9.60 a share, in 1929.

ELECTRIC CLOCK COMPANY BOUGHT BY GENERAL TIME

Springfield, Ill., March 15.—(AP)—Sale of the Hamilton-Sangamo corporation, manufacturers of electric clocks, to the General Time Instruments corporation was announced last night by R. E. Lamphier, president of the Sangamo Electric company.

The Hamilton-Sangamo corporation was formed three years ago by interests represented in the Hamilton Watch company and the Sangamo Electric corporation and negotiations for its acquisition by the General Time Instruments corporation have been in progress several weeks, Mr. Lamphier said. The amount involved in the sale was not disclosed.

Business Moves Forward, Though Progress Is Slow

New York, March 15.—(AP)—Business indications of the past week continued to point upward, but the angle of inclination was moderate, and actual progress was not rapid.

The early date of Easter has been reflected in a better demand for textiles and shoes. Motor manufacturers are quickening output in keeping with the increased schedules which had been announced for March. The steel trade expresses some dissatisfaction with the volume of incoming business, but some further gains in production are anticipated this month.

As in the preceding week, however, surface indications are less impressive, than the developments of longer term implications. The department of labor's report on employment in February showed about the expected seasonal increase over January, and a substantially larger than seasonal gain in factory pay rolls. A year ago, when almost every one was expecting a quick return to boom times, February failed to show its normal gains.

Commodity Prices Rise.

For the second consecutive week, most of the commodity price surveys show more advances than declines. This is one of the most encouraging exhibits in the commodity price situation since the pronounced decline started in 1929. Conspicuous in lines showing firmer price trends were hides and leather. Textiles eased off a little in spots, but that reflected primarily a reaction from a too rapid advance. Silver has made further recovery. Copper was reduced to 10 cents a pound, but the production statistics for February were mildly favorable, and there was soon no metal for sale at that low price.

The low level of corporate profits is a factor which has begun to weigh a little heavily upon the improved business sentiment. Carnegie Steel announced unchanged prices for heavy products for the second quarter, dashing hopes of some widening of the extremely narrow profit margins with which the industry is now working. This situation in industries generally has also been reflected in numerous adverse announcements. Altogether, however, this aspect of the situation has been more depressing to Wall street than to general business sentiment. It has, nevertheless, cut off the stimulating influence of a rising stock market.

Better Feeling Abroad.

One of the most conspicuous developments in the economic outlook in recent weeks has been the more cheerful attitude in leading foreign centers. For the fifth consecutive week now, European centers generally report improvement. While it is partly or wholly seasonal, as has been the domestic upturn, it at least indicates that the influences of world-wide depression are on the wane.

The Petroleum industry is struggling with an extremely adverse price situation, and the latest production figures lend little hope for immediate improvement. At least some progress is being made in Washington toward a voluntary agreement to restrict imports.

AVIATION CORP. OF AMERICAS SHOWS LOSS FOR 1930

The Aviation Corporation of the Americas, holding corporation for the Pan-American Airways, reports a net loss of $305,271 for the year ending Dec. 31, 1930, which is equal to approximately 67 cents a share on the 453,696 shares of common stock outstanding. This compares with a net loss of $321,412 for the year 1929, which was equal to 99 cents a share on the 321,026 shares then outstanding. Gross income for 1930 was $5,609,938, against $4,034,138 in 1929. Operating expenses were $5,915,210, against $4,355,551 in 1929.

RISE OF SILVER RAISES HOPE OF TRADE REVIVAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—In the last week's otherwise not very colorful financial panorama two incidents stood out with a somewhat contrasting character. They were the rise within four days of a penny per ounce in the London silver market, and the reduction of New York Central's annual dividend rate from 8 per cent to 6.

Even after its four weeks of recovery the price of silver is very low; far lower than in any year before 1930. There was a time, however—perhaps thirty-five of forty years ago—when even a temporary upward turn in silver, after a long decline, would be considered a sign of the utmost importance for commodity prices generally.

That was because in those days, when commodity prices had been falling and silver with them, people who were seeking for other than obvious causes used to remark that "gold is appreciating." From one viewpoint the remark was a truism, for if the fact of falling prices necessarily meant that commodity values measured in gold were depreciating the converse was evident enough, if gold were to be measured in commodities, but the philosophers of that day went further.

They declared that, no matter what had happened to the staple markets,

Associated Public Utilities Corporation

5½% Secured Gold Notes

To be dated March 15, 1931 — To mature March 1, 1932

Interest payable September 15, 1931 and March 1, 1932

The following information has been furnished by Mr. Fred I. Shoemaker, President of the Corporation, under date of March 12, 1931:

Associated Public Utilities Corporation, organized under the laws of Delaware, will furnish, upon completion of this financing through subsidiary companies, telephone and/or water service to 174 communities in the States of Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, New Jersey, West Virginia, Indiana, Kentucky and California. The combined population of the territories served is estimated at 380,000. Telephone facilities have interconnection with the lines of the Bell Telephone system thereby affording subscribers complete nation-wide service.

Earnings: Consolidated earnings of the Corporation and its subsidiaries (irrespective of dates of acquisition) for the 12 months period ended December 31, 1930, upon completion of this financing, were as follows:

Gross Earnings (including non-operating income)	$2,162,034
Operating Expenses, Maintenance, Local Taxes and prior charges of subsidiaries of $208,540	1,446,611
Net earnings before depreciation and Federal taxes	$ 715,423
Annual Interest Requirement on $3,058,000 First Lien Bonds	152,900
Balance	$ 562,523
Annual Interest Requirements on Debentures and 5½% Secured Gold Notes (this issue)	118,410

The above net earnings of $715,423 are after the elimination of expenses amounting to $18,708 consisting of definite economies for the most part already effected.

The above balance of $562,523 was over 4.75 times the annual interest requirements on the Debentures and these Notes excluding interest on floating debt. The net earnings before depreciation, Federal Taxes and interest on debt of subsidiary companies was over 1.92 times the total annual interest requirement on the total funded debt including this issue, excluding, however, interest on floating debt.

Security: This issue, in the opinion of counsel, will constitute a direct obligation of the Corporation and will be secured by the deposit with the Trustee of the entire outstanding capital stocks of certain subsidiaries whose properties, as independently appraised plus subsequent additions at cost, have a depreciated value in excess of $7,400,000 which, after deducting $3,393,000 of prior securities outstanding with the public, indicates an equity of over $4,000,000, or the equivalent of more than $2,960 per $1,000 Note.

The physical properties of the subsidiaries, including those to be presently acquired, as independently appraised plus subsequent additions at cost, have a depreciated value of over $13,700,000 which is in excess of 157% of the total funded debt of the Corporation and such subsidiaries.

Price 99 and accrued interest, to yield over 6.50%

These notes are offered for delivery when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to approval of counsel. It is expected that definitive notes will be ready for delivery on or about March 31, 1931.

RISE OF SILVER RAISES HOPE OF TRADE REVIVAL

prices would not have moved at all if something had not happened to gold, and that the simultaneous fall in silver proved it. This innocent reasoning would have done no harm if it had not led to angry insistence on dilating or inflating European and American currencies with silver, with the deliberate purpose of shaking the gold standard.

We have moved far away from those particular illusions nowadays. But the fact remained that a heavy fall in silver is apt to be both result and cause of serious derangement in the trade of far eastern countries, and that normal recovery in its price pointed to better things in that part of the world. It has also continued to be observed that such recovery often precedes or accompanies improvement elsewhere, and that a rise in the very sensitive silver market has frequently foreshadowed recovery in the market for other commodities. The weekly average of commodity prices has already scored a fractional advance, for the first time in 1931.

Discusses Dividend Cut.

In some respects, reduction of New York Central's dividend might have seemed a natural and inevitable incident of the times. The 8 per cent rate was higher than the company had ever paid since 1884. It was fixed only when the "business boom" struck its pace, three years ago. Railway operating profits in this country had fallen in 1930 to the smallest since 1922, and with net earnings for all carriers in the first month of 1931 more than 50 per cent below 1929.

There are companies whose policy resembled that of the United States Steel, which had so far conserved its profits in the "boom years" 1919 and 1920 that it was able to continue dividends at an unchanged rate in 1921 and 1923, although payment of them created a book deficit of $14,000,000 in the one year and $11,000,000 in the other. Otherwise, it is neither surprising nor abnormal that reduction should occur.

Not Necessarily Prophetic.

Such action is not necessarily or usually a harbinger of the future. In 1921 the Pennsylvania railroad had to bring itself to cutting its long maintained 6 per cent dividend to 4½, very much the lowest rate paid by the company since the famous "Pittsburgh strike" of 1877. But the 6 per cent rate was restored in 1923, and in the last half of 1929 the railway paid at the rate of 8 per cent to its depository, the highest in forty-six years.

National Biscuit.

May I please have a report on the standing of National Biscuit company? I am particularly interested in this company's common stock. Is it considered to be of good grade?—A. M. F.

National Biscuit company, world's largest biscuit manufacturer, has been in business for thirty-three years. It was originally formed as a consolidation of United States Baking company, American Biscuit and Manufacturing company and New York Biscuit company. Plants are located in principal cities throughout the country. Distribution is largely through 250 selling agencies receiving shipments directly from manufacturing plants and distributing them to stores.

The company has expanded through acquisitions. In recent years bread and cake divisions have been developed more extensively. In 1929 Shredded Wheat company was acquired.

The company has enjoyed a long period of successful operation. Earnings have been large, an increase having been reported each year of the last decade. As a result of conservative management, a strong working capital position has been maintained.

Last year a new high record was set in earnings. This was due partly to lower prices for commodities, including wheat and sugar, although the company made three cuts in prices for its products during the year. Increased efficiency in various departments and the acquisition of Pacific Coast Biscuit company also helped.

Net, available for dividends, in 1930 was $22,879,898. This was 13.18 times dividend requirements on the 248,045 shares of 7 per cent preferred [par $100] and was equal to $3.41 per share earned on the 6,206,787 common shares [par $10]. In 1929 net was $21,422,-911, equal to $8.21 per share on the common stock outstanding prior to the 2½ for 1 splitup, which was approved in March, 1930.

At the close of 1930 current assets were $47,404,798, including $12,800,000 cash and United States Liberty bonds and $12,300,000 municipal bonds. Current liabilities were $8,607,833. This left a working capital of $38,796,965, which compares with $36,238,553 a year before. Earned surplus was $25,-237,818.

The current dividend rate on the common is $2.80 per year. An extra of 30 cents per share was paid Nov. 1, 1930. The common is considered a high grade.

WORLD'S GRAIN PRICES LOWEST IN RECENT YEARS

All Wheat Nations Have Large Surpluses.

meeting in Chicago Tuesday which will permit holders of cash wheat in various locations throughout the country hedged by sales of future in Chicago to adjust their affairs on a satisfactory basis. The elevator situation in Chicago and in most markets is tight, and 1,500,000 bu or more wheat has been sold to go to store for March delivery in Chicago within a week. Deliveries of cash wheat on March contracts so far have been close to 1,000,000 bu.

Lake Grain Movement.

In addition to the large outward movement of wheat from Chicago by the farm board to storage points in the southeast and other sections, charters have been made to move out 500,000 bu by lake.

Prices on wheat futures in Chicago moved within a range of ¾c on old, and 2¾c on new crop futures during the week, with the close at losses of 1⅝@1¾c on the new, and ¾c higher to ¾c lower on old crop months as compared with a week ago. March closed at 79¼c, May, 81⅝c; July, 62⅝ 64⅜c, and September, 62⅜@62¾c. Prices for the week follow:

Corn Statistics Bullish.

Corn reserves in the nine surplus states as given by the government report for March 1 were 506,787,000 bu, compared with 681,328,000 bu last year, a shortage of 175,000,000. It is considered the smallest farm supply in years, and the most bullish statement that has ever been issued by the government.

The market had a fair bulge on Tuesday based largely on shorts covering with a little new speculative buying induced by the bullish government report. Refusal of outlets to come in as heavy buyers of futures brought a sharp reaction, and at the close on Saturday prices were down to the lowest of the week and near the lowest of the season. Corn specialists attribute the inability of the market to hold bulges to the bearishness in the wheat situation.

At the close prices were 1@1¼c lower on futures, with March 61½c, May 63⅞@64c, July 66⅛@66¾c, and September 66⅝c. Prices for the week follow:

Oat Reserves Large.

Oat supplies on farms are the largest in years, 464,000,000 bu compared with 396,000,000 bu last year, and a five year average of 408,000,000 bu. The statement on supplies was considered bearish and brought fresh liquidation with a lowering of values practically 1c from the high at the opening to the lowest at the close of the week. There were net losses of ¼@ ½c. March closed at 29⅜c, May 32c, July 32⅛c, and September 32⅛c.

Crop prospects are favorable, with seeding earlier than usual under favorable conditions. Prices for the week follow:

LARD STOCKS SMALLEST IN YEAR

Lard stocks in cold storage in leading points throughout the country on March 1 were 75,450,000 lbs, compared with 113,914,000 lbs a year ago, 112,000,000 lbs as the 5 year average. Accumulation for the month of February was practically 13,000,000 lbs, against 18,742,000 lbs in the same time last year. Supplies of all products are liberal and speculative trade not large. Exporters say there has been a falling off in the demand from abroad, and that present shipments are mainly the fulfillment of previous sales.

Hog prices had a good advance following the recent break, and a few of the specialists predict a lighter marketing movement.

Lard futures closed unchanged to 2c lower, and bellies 25@35c lower than a week ago. Prices for the week follow:

WESTERN ELECTRIC COMPANY PROFITS FOR 1930 SHOW DROP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—The Western Electric company paid $7,625,161 dividends out of surplus last year as a result of the change from an expanding to a contracting volume of business, according to the annual report issued today. Sales in 1930 were $361,478,000, a decline of 12 per cent from the record year, 1929, but were greater than in any previous year in the company's history.

Net profit on sales was $12,151,980, against $22,980,557 in 1929, and total income was $20,297,612 against $31,555,774. Net income after charges amounted to $15,624,829, against $26,995,246, equal to $2.60 a share on 6,000,000 shares in 1930 against $5.14 a share on 5,250,000 shares in 1929. Dividends paid were $23,250,000 against $23,500,000, including $1 a share extra paid in 1929. The regular dividends in both years were $4 a share.

The report says that the company, whose principal customers are the telephone companies of the Bell system, made its sales at the lowest rate of set profit in more than ten years, the rate being 3.4 per cent on sales.

"While the company entered the year with the largest volume of unfilled orders in its history," President Edgar S. Bloom reports, "the recession in general business early in the year affected the telephoen companies' requirements for equipment."

No reduction in wage or salary rates were made last year, but the number of employés at the end of 1930 was 64,253 compared with 84,848 at the end of 1929.

GRADUAL GAIN IS REPORTED BY STEEL INDUSTRY

Better Auto Trade Aids Expansion.

New York, March 15.—(AP)—Gradual improvement continues to be reported in the steel industry, both in production and in the receipt of new business, although buyers are still cautious.

Expansion in the automobile industry has accounted for a large part of the better demand, while orders for railroad equipment, structural steel and pipe lines are expected to develop. Ingot production increased further with output now estimated at about 55 per cent of production. Some producers are accepting second quarter business at unchanged prices although forward buying is limited. Pig iron demand is spotty in different sections with prices unchanged.

Copper was irregularly lower last week, with prices off ½ cent in some instances. Producers reduced the quotation for electrolytic to 10¼ cents delivered in the Connecticut valley, but metal was available from customs smelters at ¼ of a cent lower, and the price situation was rather confused. While export business improved moderately at the lower level, demand was relatively small owing partly to a lockout in the German fabricating trade.

Domestic consumers remained indifferent and held off owing to the easier trend. The February statistics revealed a reduction of 8,000 tons in stocks of refined and blister but total shipments declined nearly 6,000 tons for the month.

Moderate offerings and slight easiness in the foreign markets accounted for declines in tin. Offerings were moderate but at the same time new buying was restricted and consumers were inclined to hold out for lower prices.

With demand restricted, lead was easier. Consumers are well supplied for March delivery and show little interest in April shipment. Zinc declined in a dull market. Improved buying developed at the lower price and the undertone was steady. Antimony was firmer in sympathy with advances in the Chinese market. Demand however, is small.

New Lisman Investment Company Is Announced

Formation of a new investment house to do a general underwriting business as well as participate in protective committee organization work and to be known as the Lisman corporation is announced. F. J. Lisman will be chairman and S. A. Traugott president.

FINANCIAL NOTES

An issue of $1,350,000 Associated Public Utilities corporation 5½ per cent secured notes is to be offered by a banking group composed of E. H. Rollins & Sons, Central-Illinois company, and G. V. Grace & Co. The notes are dated March 15, 1931, and are due March 15, 1932, being redeemable in whole or in part on thirty days' notice at 100 and accrued interest. They are priced at 99 and accrued interest to yield over 6.50 per cent.

E. D. Oakley, formerly a branch manager for J. S. Bache & Co., and Sherwood J. Atterberry, formerly with the Parker Pen company, have become associated with the investment security house of Wathier, Briede & Co., Board of Trade members.

Weekly Board of Trade Stocks

At the close prices were well above the lows of last week in the active issues, although the full advance was not maintained. Electric Bond & Share was ¾ lower at 31⅞, and Standard of Indiana was off ⅝ at 31⅞. Studebaker had a net gain of ⅞ at 23⅜ and Wrigley was up 1 at 79.
